FOREIGN AID BILL PASSED

Gross Makes Leaders Hop

. . . MONEY YET TO BE VOTED

Washington (UPI)—Both the House and Senate passed a $2.7 billion foreign aid authorization bill Wednesday after the House narrowly defeated a move to bar military deals with countries whose ships trade with North Vietnam.

The bill, which goes to President Johnson, was one of the smallest and most restricted foreign aid authorizations in the history of the program. More trimming is expected when actual appropriations are made.

The bill passed the House on a 205-187 vote. Shortly afterwards, the Senate approved it by voice vote.

Leaders Scramble

The new House attempt to penalize Britain and other nations who have continued trading with Hanoi despite the Vietnam war failed by a vote of 201 to 196. The closeness of the vote shocked House leaders, who had to scramble to round up absentees while they used parliamentary devices to delay the roll call balloting.

Rep. H. R. Gross, R-Iowa, sponsored the amendment to cut off all military aid, loans, sales to or purchases from any country which permits ships flying its flag to trade with North Vietnam.

The amendment would have sent the foreign aid bill back to conference committee. It had passed the House when the aid bill came up earlier in the year, but Senate-House negotiators eliminated it from the compromise version.

Two Votes Ahead

Gross, however, insisted on a formal vote to reinstate it. And the vote was so close that at the end of the normal roll call, his motion had been approved with a two-vote margin.

But House leaders delayed announcement of the total while they put in emergency calls to members who had not voted and persuaded a few members to change their votes.

Opponents of the Gross amendment warned that it was so extensive it would have forced the removal of all U.S. air bases from England.

The amendment would also have removed Poland's "most favored nation" status as a trading partner as long as it sends military supplies to the North Vietnamese. Poland is the only Communist country enjoying the class one trade preferences.

Loose Ends Tied

Before the vote on the Gross amendment, floor managers for the aid bill thought they had tied up all loose ends. Final passage had been threatened by opposition to the State Department's decision to sell U.S. F5 jet planes to Latin American countries. But the controversy was quelled when Secretary of State Dean Rusk promised the House he would review aid programs from countries buying heavy military equipment.

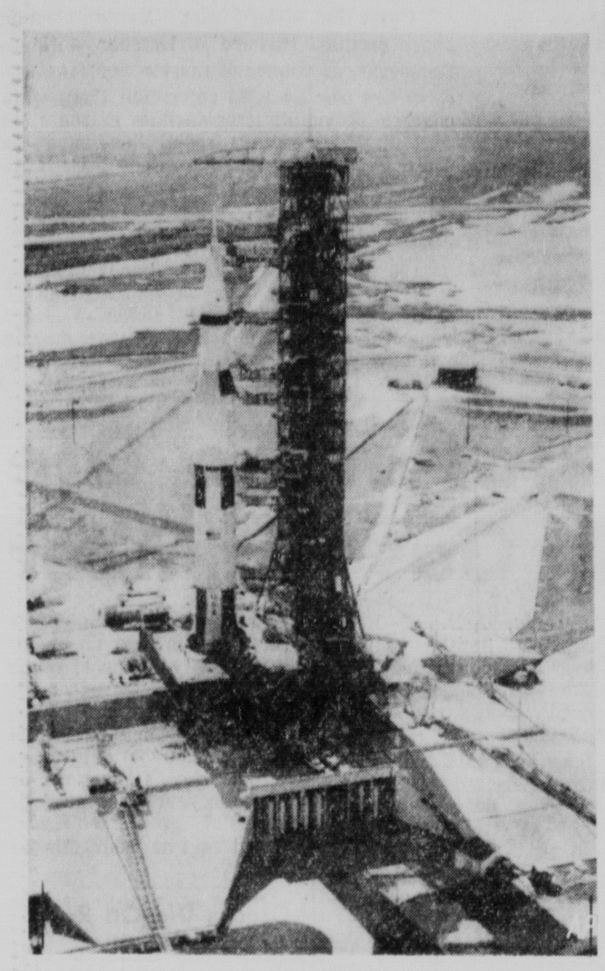
Rep. Wayne Hays, D-Ohio, warned the House the Gross amendment would "wipe Great Britain off the map in retaliation against seven little ships trading at Haiphong in one month." He said it could "mean the possible loss of Hong Kong, a valuable outpost to us as well as to Great Britain."

But Rep. Charles E. Chamberlain, R-Mich., argued that 53 British-flag vessels entered Haiphong in a one-year period.

"It means the British are renting out their flag to those opposing us," he said.

PLAYTIME FOR PRESIDENT, GRANDSON

The White House gave out Wednesday this photograph of President Johnson playing with his grandson, Patrick Lyndon Nugent, on the presidential jet. The White House said the picture was made Oct. 30 en route from Texas to Washington.



SATURN 5 . . . is poised on launch pad.

Saturn Countdown Ordered To Go On

Cape Kennedy, Fla. (AP)—The space agency late Wednesday ordered the countdown on the Saturn 5 super-rocket to proceed toward Thursday's scheduled launching after receiving a favorable report from the weatherman.

Throughout the lengthy 49-hour countdown, gusty winds have buffeted the launch area and caused some concern but at a weather briefing just before midnight, weather experts said the forecast called for acceptable winds Thursday.

The 363-foot-tall booster, first flight version of the type of rocket which is to propel three astronauts to the moon in 1969, aimed toward a 6 a.m. CST liftoff.

Dr. George E. Mueller, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's associate administrator for manned space flight, said the launch represents "one of the critical steps in man's going to the moon and perhaps is the most difficult step we'll encounter."

"This mission is ready to go," said Maj. Gen. Samuel C. Phillips, director of NASA's Apollo program office.

After reaching its 11,400-mile peak altitude, a spacecraft motor is to send the moonship in a fiery plunge through earth's atmosphere, generating speeds of 25,000 miles an hour and heat of 4,500 degrees to test the Apollo heat shield at re-entry conditions astronauts must encounter returning from the moon.

Viet Cabinet Mainly Linked With Junta

© New York Times Service

Saigon—President Nguyen Van Thieu of South Vietnam Thursday named a cabinet composed mainly of persons associated with the military regime he headed as chief of state until his inauguration 10 days ago.

No significant opposition figure was included in the list of 19 ministers announced by a presidential spokesman. The new officials were to be introduced at a ceremony later Thursday in the office of Prime Minister Nguyen Van Loc, a lawyer from the Mekong River Delta who is not widely known here.

Disappointment Voiced

American officials and civilian politicians privately expressed disappointment with the list. They had hoped for a government of national unity, including at least some representatives of the 10 civilians defeated for the presidency by Thieu Sept. 3.

Only two of the new ministers, aside from Loc, who was campaign manager for the Thieu-Ky ticket, are new faces: Professors Pho Ba Long, the secretary of labor, and Tang Kim Dong, the secretary of education. The rest held either ministries or other posts in the outgoing military regime.

Three key positions were given to military officers promoted last week to lieutenant general: Linh Quang Vien, who continues as interior minister; Nguyen Bao Tri; who moves from the information ministry to pacification, and Nguyen Van Vy, who moves from army chief of staff to defense minister.

Chrysler, Union Agree Tentatively

Detroit (AP) — The United Auto Workers and Chrysler Corp. reached tentative agreement Wednesday night on a new three-year contract covering 95,000 hourly rated workers at Chrysler plants in 17 states.

The agreement, expected to exceed the record industry settlement of 6% reached two weeks ago at Ford Motor Co., came only four hours before a midnight strike deadline and too late to avoid local strikes that already had crippled output.

The production situation of the nation's No. 3 auto maker was left in doubt because no agreement was reached on separate contracts covering 8,000 salaried workers.

'Time, Steam'

"We were so totally absorbed in the major contract that we just ran out of time—and I think some of these people just ran out of steam," said a jovial Walter P. Reuther, UAW president, as he emerged from a 34-hour nonstop session, second longest in industry history.

Reuther said the talks had taken a sudden "and dramatic turn" in mid-afternoon with a union ultimatum but added that "such things are best forgotten."

How many of the salaried workers, plus the more than 24,000 production workers who jumped the gun, would return to their jobs Thursday was uncertain. Negotiations were expected to resume Thursday morning.

To Set New Time

The union cancelled its midnight strike deadline, which had held for the settlement of at-the-plant agreements, too, and said another would be set.

Local presidents throughout the Chrysler domain began hurried efforts to get their third shift workers apprised of the agreement.

Organization Opposing LBJ Formed By Group Of Demos

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

A new political organization called Nebraska Concerned Democrats — opposed to the war in Vietnam and its effects on domestic development and international relations — will resist the renomination of President Johnson.

The organization plans to file delegate candidates in Nebraska's 1968 Democratic presidential primary election pledged to oppose Johnson and his Vietnam policy at the national convention next year.

NCD delegate candidates are expected to pledge their support to Sen. Eugene McCarthy of Minnesota if he announces his candidacy for the Democratic nomination as a "peace" alternative to Johnson. Some NCD officials expect such an announcement next January.

In that event, McCarthy's name would also be entered on Nebraska's all-star presidential primary ballot as a Johnson opponent.

NCD members are also soliciting signatures on petitions asking the President to end the war, and hope to purchase a full-page advertisement in the Omaha World-Herald later this month listing Nebraska signators.

Michael Oldfather of Lincoln, chairman of the NCD steering committee, outlined the organization's goals Wednesday in a letter to Democratic State Chairman John Mitchell of Kearney.

Oldfather wrote Mitchell that NCD would "welcome your support and the support of all party officials who share our views on the war, on Johnson's unpopularity, and on the need for a more progressive image for the Nebraska Democratic Party."

NCD members "would look very unhappily on the prospect of having to leave the Democratic Party in order to make our convictions felt," Oldfather wrote.

Other members of the steering committee were listed as Mrs. Mack Backhaus of Lincoln, Harold Forbes of Omaha, Gene Pokorny of Schuyler, and Irwin L. Schpok of Omaha. Most of them are currently affiliated with Young Democratic organizations.

Oldfather is a member of the state executive committee of the Young Democrats and a former member of the senior party's state central committee.

NCD listed five basic principles to which it subscribes:

—The costs of the Vietnam war are "not justified by the requirements of national security." Those costs include unmet domestic needs and loss of diplomatic influence "in areas which are of vital significance to national security, such as Europe and Latin America."

—A Democratic ticket headed by Lyndon Johnson will lose the presidency and elective offices at every level, in Nebraska and throughout the nation.

'Starved'

—As long as Johnson is viewed as the only possible Democratic standard-bearer, "we will be unable to induce large numbers of outstanding young persons to come into our party," and "be starved for attractive young candidates and campaign workers."

—Nebraska needs a strong Democratic Party, and it can grow if it is made "more hospitable to voters of progressive persuasion."

—The Nebraska Democratic Party's appeal should be made "to the young and progressive elements in the Nebraska electorate, rather than to the opponents of reform and change in the Republican Party."

Housing Ordinance Aims At 'Dangers'

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the second of four articles on subjects to be voted upon at the Nov. 14 city election.)

By BOB SCHREPF
Star Staff Writer

Basically, the minimum housing standards ordinance up for a city wide special election vote next Tuesday says that if the sanitary, structural, fire hazard or occupancy conditions of a dwelling are dangerous to the health and safety of the occupants or the public, they must be corrected.

If the structure is beyond repair, it must be removed.

The ordinance outlines who is responsible for declaring a dwelling substandard, what criteria is used, the procedures for administering and enforcing the code and methods of appeal for the property owner or occupant.

The code applies to all dwellings within the city or city limits, except it does not apply to trailers, mobile homes and farmsteads.

What's Substandard?

According to the ordinance, "a substandard building is one in which there is present a substandard condition or combination of substandard conditions which are determined to exist by the building official" using the criteria listed in the code.

"A substandard condition," the ordinance states, "exists only when there is a danger to the life, limb, health, property, safety or welfare to the public or the occupants of a dwelling."

The city attorney's office suggests that the city, acting under existing ordinances, is severely limited in insuring the proper care and upkeep of dwellings.

While the city does have the power to act on citizen complaints on dilapidated housing, fire hazards and public nuisances, backers of the code say its primary purpose is to prevent the development of these conditions.

The housing code vests the authority to administer and enforce the provisions of the code in the building official, who is the city superintendent of building inspection. He may have the assistance of the health officer when necessary.

The code provides for inspection by the building official or his representatives under the following conditions:

Notice by mail to the owner or occupant five days prior to inspection; presentation of official credentials; inspections only between the hours of 8 a.m. and 5 p.m., Monday through Friday; an inspection "shall not have for its purpose the harrassment" of owner or occupant and "shall be made so as to cause the least amount of inconvenience" to owner or occupant.

Initial Check

The code specifically states that the "purpose of each initial inspection . . . shall not be the procurement of evidence to be used in any criminal proceeding."

The United States Supreme Court, in an opinion dated June 5 this year, upheld the kinds of inspections outlined in the housing code.

One of the opponents of the code, attorney Lawrence Murphy, representing the Lincoln Taxpayers and Homeowners League, agrees, contending that the "question of unconstitutionality is peripheral and not a useful issue in this campaign — this is a political matter."

Under the code, the homeowner or occupant has the protection of appeal if the building official declares his dwelling substandard.

If building inspectors determine, using criteria set forth in the code, that conditions exist which are hazardous to health and safety, repair or rehabilitation of the building will be ordered.

"If such repair or rehabilitation is impractical, he (building official) shall then order such building or portion thereof vacated and removed or demolished."

7-Member Board

The owner may appeal the decision to a seven-member advisory board appointed by the mayor with the consent of the City Council, that is "qualified by experience and training to pass upon matters pertaining to housing."

This board must hear the appeal in the presence of the mayor, who renders a written decision concerning his findings within 30 days after the hearing. Decisions of the mayor may be reviewed by a court as provided by law.

City officials are careful to point out that violations of one or more of the standards will not necessarily make the dwelling substandard. Among the standards listed in the code:

Ceiling height: Habitable rooms and service rooms shall have a ceiling height of not less than seven feet.

Superficial floor area (excluding efficiency living units): Every dwelling unit shall have at least one room which shall have not less than 100 sq. ft. Rooms used for both cooking and living or living and sleeping — not less than 140 sq. ft. Sleeping rooms — not less than 70 sq. ft. Where more than two persons occupy a room for sleeping — area shall be increased at the rate of 50 sq. ft. for each occupant in excess of two. Kitchens — not less than 40 sq. ft.

Width: No habitable room shall be less than seven feet in any dimension and no water closet space less than 30 inches in width. "There shall be adequate space and privacy to a person within said room."

Other rooms: Every bathroom, toilet room or similar room shall have an aggregate window area of not less than three square feet, but no window will be required in adequately ventilated bathrooms equipped with a mechanical ventilation system approved by the building official.

Openable window area: Forty per cent of the required window area in all rooms shall be openable.

Hallways: All public hallways, stairs and other exits shall be adequately lighted at all times.

Dwelling units: Every dwelling unit shall be provided with a water closet, a lavatory and a bathtub or shower.

General: Buildings may be of any type of construction permitted by the Lincoln Building Code. Electrical equipment and ventilation shall be provided as required by existing codes.

The code also sets forth the following "guidelines" the building official will consider in determining whether or not a building is substandard:

Inadequate sanitation structural hazards, hazardous wiring, plumbing and mechanical equipment, faulty weather protection, fire hazard, unsanitary premises, inadequate exits and inadequate fire protection and fire-fighting equipment.

Tomorrow: Methods of enforcing the code.

Mayor Urges Facts Check

Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf Thursday asked citizens who have questions about the minimum housing standards ordinance to check those questions directly with City Hall.

"The amount of misinformation in circulation about the ordinance is alarming", said the mayor. "There is a rumor that a dwelling will be made substandard if it only has one minor trouble area. This is not true."

"Another rumor is that the ordinance requires five-foot hallways," the mayor said, "but the ordinance does not even mention any required width for hallways.

Mayor Schwartzkopf said any citizen can receive assistance by calling the mayor's office, 435-2981, extension 39.

The mayor said calls may be made from 8:00 to 5:00 p.m. Thursday, Monday and Tuesday. (City Hall is closed Friday due to Veterans Day).

Israeli Criticizes Draft Resolutions On Mideast

(C) New York Times News Service

United Nations—Abba Eban, the Israeli foreign minister, criticized the United States and Indian draft resolutions on the Middle East. In a news conference, he said the resolutions did not sufficiently support Israel's demand for direct peace negotiations with the Arab nations. (More on Page 11)

U.S. Resolution Hit

Cairo—The United States resolution was criticized here, as the Egyptian government's chief spokesman, Dr. Mohammed H. El-Zayyat, said the United Arab Republic guaranteed the "right of Israel to exist." The statement was considered the strongest affirmation from Cairo since the June war that it considered itself bound not to infringe on Israel's security. (More on Page 44)

Saigon—President Nguyen Van Thieu named a cabinet composed mainly of persons associated with the military regime he headed as chief of state until his inauguration 10 days ago. (More on Page 1)

2 Companies Attacked

Dak To, South Vietnam—North Vietnamese troops attacked two U.S. infantry companies with mortars, rockets and small arms fire from dense jungles near the Cambodian border, six miles southwest of here. It was the third straight night of bitter fighting in the central highlands. (Another Story on Page 43)

Remap Compromise Nixed

Washington—The Senate rejected a House-approved conference committee bill that was intended to delay court enforcement of congressional redistricting until 1972. (More on Page 29)

Tax Rise 'Needed'

Washington — Gardner Ackley, chairman of President Johnson's Council of Economic Advisers, said the steep rise in defense spending appears to be flattening out, but that a tax increase was still needed to achieve "an economy which is healthy, balanced and non-inflationary." He spoke in Los Angeles.

Which Party Won?

Washington—"Which party won in Tuesday's local and state elections?" The answer to that question depended on which party was speaking. John M. Bailey, Democratic national chairman, said his party's mayoral successes "foreshadow greater victories to follow, including the big one a year from now." His Republican counterpart, Ray C. Bliss, said the state results in Kentucky and New Jersey "show very clearly that the upsurge in Republican strength which began in 1966 is continuing." (More on Page 2)

Foreign Aid Bill Passed

Washington—Both Houses of Congress approved and sent to the White House a badly battered $2.7 billion foreign aid authorization bill for the fiscal year that ends next June 30. (More on Page 1)

Hatcher Certified

Gary, Ind.—The Lake County election board certified Richard D. Hatcher, a Negro Democrat, as winner of the election for mayor of this city by 1,389 votes. But there were charges of voting irregularities in the tight contest, which ran on racial lines, and the white Republican candidate, Joseph B. Radigan, refused to concede defeat.

Stokes Wins Narrowly

Cleveland — Nearly unanimous balloting in Negro precincts plus an estimated 43,000 white votes enabled Carl B. Stokes, a Negro Democrat, to overcome a 20,000-vote margin and narrowly win the mayoralty election by 2,501 votes. (Another Story on Page 28)

GOP Firms 1968 Base; Dems Keep 2 Big Cities

World News

Washington (AP) — Republicans firmed up their base for the 1968 presidential contest by capturing the Kentucky State House in Tuesday's elections, but Democrats were cheered by retaining their holds on the big cities of Philadelphia and Cleveland.

Democrat Carl B. Stokes, a Negro, demonstrated by his election as mayor of Cleveland that it is possible for one of his race to take the top office in a major city even where Negroes are a minority.

He takes a place in history as the first Negro to accomplish that.

The 40-year-old lawyer could be one of the big guns of 1968 Democratic campaigning, particularly in areas with a large Negro vote.

Pivotal In Close Race

Mayor James H. Tate's re-election in Philadelphia is another important one for the Democrats. The patronage and power that go with the mayor's office can be decisive in a close statewide election.

For President Johnson, who presumably will seek another term in the White House in next year's election, it was heartening that San Francisco decisively turned down a ballot proposition for U.S. withdrawal from Vietnam.

The referendum vote was 2 to 1 against a pullout.

A Vietnam vote was also on the ballot in Cambridge, Mass., but the result may not be known for three weeks or so.

It'll Take Awhile

Cambridge elects a city council by proportional representation with second and third choices. Election officials said this complexity will be sorted out before they get around to looking at the Vietnam vote.

When Johnson's reaction to the San Francisco voting was sought, the White House press secretary, George Christian said, "I would doubt that we would have anything on it."

As for the balloting in general, Christian said, "The President has a long-standing policy not to inject himself into state and local elections."

Nunn Made It Issue

On the other side of the Vietnam question, there was the factor that Louie B. Nunn, successful GOP candidate for governor of Kentucky, had made it an issue in his campaign.

"Tired of the War?" one of his slogans asked. "Vote Nunn."

Negro In Gary

In Gary, where the outcome teetered uncertainly through much of the night, Hatcher was certified Wednesday by the Lake County Election Board as the winner by 1,389 votes in the city of 180,000 population.

But Republican Joseph Radigan, a white businessman, kept open the possibility of a court challenge.

Democrat segregationist John Bell Williams was as expected elected governor of Mississippi by a whopping majority.

Looking to 1968, Nunn's election as governor of Kentucky means that when he takes office next year the Republicans will hold a majority of 50 governorships for the first time since 1954.

Shift To 26-24

The division by parties will shift from the present 25-25 to 26-24 for the GOP.

Those 26 Republican states, including Nebraska, will have a total of 304 electoral votes, 34 more than needed to name a president.

Aside from the Kentucky victory, GOP National Chairman Ray C. Bliss pointed to the elections for the New Jersey legislature as evidence his party is still on the upsurge demonstrated in the 1966 elections. Republicans took control of both houses of the legislature from the Democrats.

Bliss said the campaigning in New Jersey was on the national issue of "Why Wait Until '68" and called the results very significant.

Hughes Plays It Down

But Democratic Gov. Richard J. Hughes deprecated the significance, calling it a "local phenomenon."

"This state acts like a yo-yo from year to year," Hughes commented.

Democratic Chairman John M. Bailey took the view that local candidates and local issues so dominated everywhere that no national trend was discernible.

In his assessment, Bliss also spoke of the GOP cutting into Democratic majorities in the big cities. He noted that two years ago the Republican candidate got only 17% of the vote in Cleveland.

NEGRO ELECTED TO BOSTON COUNCIL

Harvard Law School student Thomas I. Atkins, 28, and his wife Sharon read congratulatory messages Wednesday. He was elected to the Boston City Council Tuesday. Atkins is the first Negro elected to the council since members started running citywide in 1951.

Slayer To Die In Gas Chamber

Phoenix, Ariz. (AP)—Robert Benjamin Smith, convicted slayer of five persons in a Mesa beauty college, was sentenced Wednesday to die in the state gas chamber next Feb. 2

Superior Court Judge Laurance T. Wren passed sentence after the defense attorney, Rob Wood, tried unsuccessfully to get an arrest of judgment based on a constitutional amendment barring cruel and unusual punishment.

Smith, 19, a former high school honor student, leaned forward nervously as sentence was passed.

The judge then told Smith: "Few judges in the nation are ever called to pass the maximum penalty on one so young as you. Your sole reason for the crime was to gain publicity. How much better it would have been had your name been on your school's honor roll or service to your community or church."

Wood said he would file an appeal.

Soviet Celebration Ends Without World Meeting

© New York Times Service

Moscow — Nicolae Ceaucescu, Rumania's Communist Party chief, left for home Wednesday as soon as the last official ceremonies to mark the 50th anniversary of the Soviet Union were completed.

Ceaucescu was the first Communist leader to leave and did so, according to informed sources, to underline that he had come only for the official jubilee ceremonies and not for political consultation with the leaders of the Soviet bloc assembled here.

But though the other government and party chiefs of the European Communist countries are remaining briefly in Moscow, it is not for any important joint meeting, such as the calling of a world conference of Communist parties, according to these sources.

Out Of Courtesy

The leaders are staying, it is reported, mainly out of courtesy to the Soviet Union and the historic event they came to celebrate, and only secondarily for bilateral contacts.

No agreement to call a world conference had been reached, according to informed sources, and none of the parties that harbored reserve over the idea have changed their minds.

But because Leonid I. Brezhnev, general secretary of the Soviet party, went further in his key note speech than Moscow had gone in the past toward committing the Soviet Union to a conference, agreement is reported to have been reached to consider the convocation of a preliminary meeting by next spring.

Some representatives were reported suggesting a conference on a specific issue, such as Vietnam, or a conference larger than the Communist movement, including "progressive" and "national liberation" groups.

Such a conference, according to its proponents, would preclude a deepening of the split that Communist China has caused in the world movement or a restoration of Moscow as the undisputed center of world communism.

The European leaders remaining here are spending more time in seeing the new sights that the jubilee has brought to Moscow than in political meetings.

President Tito of Yugoslavia and Janos Kadar, Hungarian party chief, were reported scheduled to return home Thursday. Walter Ulbricht, East German leader, will leave Friday.

The low-level delegation that had come here from Cuba completed its apparent design to show its country's disrespect for the celebration by departing Tuesday evening—on the day it had come to honor.

Cuba remains one of the few Communist nations from whom no congratulatory message on the Soviet anniversary has been published in Pravda, the Communist Party newspaper.

North Korea, whose absence had been noted Tuesday, appeared among Wednesday's well-wishers. Communist China sent a coolly-worded message but it has not been published here. No messages from North Vietnam or Albania have been reported so far here.

Republicans Hold Poverty Huddle

Washington (AP)—House Republicans declined Wednesday to support a proposal to cut funds for the antipoverty program to a level the administration says would end the program's usefullness.

At a strategy meeting held in connection with the anti-poverty bill now before the House, a majority of the GOP members indicated they preferred to try to change specific programs rather than vote for an across-the-board cut in spending.

The result of the meeting is believed to have improved the chances for House passage of a bill that would leave intact most of the programs now administered by the Office of Economic Opportunity.

No votes or firm decisions were reached at the GOP meeting, but participants said sentiment was strong against a proposal by Rep. William H. Ayres, R-Ohip, to cut OEO spending to $1.2 billion. It is now funded at $1.6 billion and President Johnson has asked for $2.06 billion for fiscal 1968.

Some cuts will undoubtedly be made and supporters of the bill indicate they expect to see the House put the figure at around $1.6 billion.

The Senate has passed a bill authorizing $2.2 billion and a final compromise figure in the neighborhood of $1.8 billion is considered likely.

Tree-In, 'Planty Raid' Create Instant Campus

. . . November Arbor Day For Pershing College

By DEAN TERRILL
Southeast Nebraska Bureau

Beatrice — Would you believe a tree-in, a "planty raid" and an instant campus all in one grandiose happening?

To Pershing College students the unusual project is also Arbor Day in November and "a late head start toward tomorrow." All the titles are apropos to a 200-tree campus that only hours ago was prairie-bare.

"We had about 10 small willows altogether and even they weren't on the main campus," shrugged Dr. Richard Brengle, president of the second year school. "Best part of all isn't the speed, however, but the fact that this improvement comes from our townspeople."

With contributions ranging from $18 flowering crabs to $150 30-foot pin oaks, some 160 donors backed the mass planting. At least 18 varieties will lend shade to the modernistic campus.

Paced by a new hydraulic "tree spade" that bites out holes the size of boulders, workmen set close to 100 trees Wednesday. Probably three days' digging will be required for a goal of 250 by the college's November 19 Founders Day.

5 Year Project

"Actually the shade trees are only phase one of an ultimate planting of 1,000 to 1,500 over a five year period," said Leonard Whittaker, project chairman and executive vice president of State Federal Savings and Loan Association. "As much improvement as this is, 40 to 50 acres of campus can stand a lot more trees."

Although most donations were local, some came from other states and one from an English couple with Beatrice business connections. Mrs. Dean Sackett and Mrs. Wayne Waddell were other key organizers of the campaign.

Robert Campbell of Lincoln was responsible for the landscaping plan. Both his farm, Campbell's Nurseries, and the Earl May Seed and Nursery Store of Beatrice participated in the contribution.

3,200 Acres Land At O'Neill Brings Dowd Over $1 Million

Omaha (AP)—Twenty quarter-sections of irrigated land, totaling 3,200 acres, near O'Neill has changed hands in a million dollar sale, an Omaha real estate firm announced Wednesday.

E. Thomas Stacey, sales manager for the land department of Byron Reed Co., said the transaction was thought to be the largest single sale of irrigated land ever made in Nebraska.

The land was sold by Leo J. Dowd of Columbus, Neb., to John Brown of Providence, R.I. The sale price was not announced. Stacey would only say the price was more than $1 million.

Showpiece For Dowd

Each of the 20 quarter-sections six miles northeast of O'Neill is equipped with a self-propelled irrigation system manufactured by Dowd, who owns the Dowd Manufacturing Co. at Columbus.

Dowd put the tract together over the past three years as a showpiece for his irrigation equipment.

Stacey said the tract will be managed by the land department of Byron Reed. Brown also owns the Rex Ranch near Whitman, Neb.

Ex-Nebraskan Is Metropolitan Audition Winner

Lincoln Star Special

New York — A former Fremont resident, Constanza Cucaro, has won the Metropolitan Opera auditions sponsored by the Metropolitan's National Council.

Miss Cucaro last spring won the Upper Midwest Regional audition, and later in New York won a $2,000 study grant in the semifinals.

She is now studying for her master's degree at the University of Iowa. She is 23 and is married to Edwin Penhorwood.

Pickup Kills Chadron Man

Chadron (AP) — Sixty-nine-year-old Ferd M. Merritt of Chadron was fatally injured Wednesday when struck by a north-bound pickup driven by 76-year-old Keith J. Lenington of Chadron at the edge of the Chadron business district.

Merritt was struck by the vehicle at an intersection and was carried about 150 feet. Merritt died instantly.

Merritt was an employe of the city for 20 years as superintendent of the water department and plumbing and building inspector. He retired last year.

The Dawes County attorney's office is continuing its investigation.

Omaha Teachers Seek Guidelines

Omaha (AP) — Teachers in school District 66 at the west edge of Omaha have taken the first step toward setting up professional negotiations with the district.

Ralph Farrar, president of the Westside Education Association, has asked the board to consider the development of a policy to establish guidelines to enable representatives of the certified staff and the board of education to meet and confer regarding employment and relations.

A bill passed by the 1967 Legislature set out provisions for professional negotiations.

Neighbors Cut 53 Acres Milo

Lincoln Star Special

Firth—Fourteen combines manned by neighbors and friends made swift work of milo harvesting at the Ed Doeschot farm northeast of here this week.

Thirty 'good Samaritans' combined 53 acres of milo in approximately two hours for the Firth farmer.

Mrs. Doeschot was aided by 16 women in preparing a lunch for the harvesters.

Mr. Doeschot is recovering at home from brain surgery he underwent in June.

Pork Industry Future Will Be Explored At Meet

The future of the pork industry and swine production will be the theme of the 10th national pork industry conference here today and Friday.

A series of program sessions and workshops will be held at the Nebraska Center, according to W. C. Haase, of Swift & Company, program chairman.

The noon luncheon on Thursday will begin with a welcoming speech by Clifford M. Hardin, chancellor of the University of Nebraska, and will feature the presentation of the National Hog Farmer awards by C. R. Mitchell, editor of the National Hog Farmer.

Gov. Norbert T. Tiemann, will be the featured speaker at the Thursday evening banquet.

Kearney School Issue Appears Likely Winner

. . . Unless 44 Absentees Oppose Bond

By the Associated Press

Only the chance that 44 uncounted absentee ballots oppose a $1,995,000 school bond issue, stands in the way of approval of the issue in a special election at Kearney.

The ballot box count on the special Tuesday election showed 2,116 votes in favor of the issue and 1,738 against it for a 55.48% majority. A 55% vote is required.

Nebraska News

The excitement of the close vote was increased when the last ballot box could not be opened because the key had been lost. School Board President Robert Nootz used a hacksaw to cut through the lock.

The bonds would finance construction of a $1,536,300 junior high school, a $270,000 expansion program at the senior high school, a $155,700 expansion program at an elementary school and a $33,000 remodeling project to convert the present junior high into an elementary school.

In March of this year, a proposed $1,520,000 bond issue designed to cover basically the work, failed as it only received a 51.6% favorable vote.

Fremont Issue Wins

In Fremont a vote of 1,907 to 1,106 authorized the Fremont Housing Authority to negotiate with the federal government for federal aid in construction of 150 low-rent units.

Gordon School Favored

Gordon voters approved a $300,000 bond issue for construction of an addition to the Gordon Junior-Senior High School. The 477-127 vote gave the proposal a 73% majority.

Rites At Glenvil For 2 Children Found Strangled

Hastings (UPI) — Funeral services will be held at 10:30 a.m. Friday at St. Paul's Lutheran Church in Glenvil for Thomas Stromer, 7, and Terry Stromer, 4, who were found strangled in a bedroom of their home here Monday.

The children's mother, Mrs. Doris Stromer, 27, is in custody in connection with the deaths, authorities said.

Adams County Atty. William Connolly said that no charges have been filed pending mental tests being given the woman at the Hastings State Hospital.

The children's father, Larry Stromer, found his wife bleeding from self-inflicted razor wounds and found the bodies of the children when he returned home from work Monday, Connolly said.

Agronomy Club At NU Nation's Best

Washington — The University of Nebraska Agronomy Club has been named the top agronomy club in the country by the American Society of Agronomy (ASA) at its annual meeting here.

The club, which has about 75 members, will receive $200 and a trophy from the ASA. Approximately 50 clubs from across the country competed for the honor.

In the past few years, the Agronomy Club has gone from an $80 deficit to a $2,000 cash reserve.

Members have sold primary noxious weed mounts to weed districts, vocational agriculture instructors and county agents, made slide sets and surveyed crops and weeds in Nebraska.

The University of Nebraska Agronomy Club last won the top national award in 1953. Faculty advisors are Dr. William Colville and Dr. James Drew.

2 Students Place

An Agronomy Club member, Robert Sukup of Verdigre, won third place in the annual ASA student essay contest. He will receive $80 and a bronze medal from the American Potash Institute and his essay, "New Approach to Narrow Row Planting," will be printed in Crops and Soils magazine.

Another NU agronomy student, Mrs. Judith (Seaver) Boyle of Lincoln, received $60 from the American Potash Institute for her fifth place essay, "High Lysine Corn, A Scientific Breakthrough."

Juricek Wins Speech Contest

Washington (UPI) — University of Nebraska senior Charles Juricek was announced Wednesday as the winner of the American Society of Agronomy's annual speech contest here.

It was the second year in a row a NU student captured first place in the nationwide competition. Last year Bill Amen of Lincoln won the title.

Juricek, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Juricek of Jansen, will receive $100. His speech was entitled "Agronomy: The Key to World Peace."

Northern Gas Dividend Rises

Omaha (AP) — Northern Natural Gas Co. directors declared a fourth quarter dividend on common stock, increasing the quarterly rate five cents per share to 65 cents a share.

The dividend is payable Dec. 20 to stockholders of record Dec. 6. The quarterly dividend for the first three quarters of the year was 60 cents per share.

Rodrigues Given Extradition Stay Pending Hearing

Farmington, Utah (AP) — A 64-year-old convicted murderer who escaped from a Nebraska mental institution 28 years ago has been granted an extradition stay pending the outcome of a hearing on the original 1926 charges against him.

District Court Judge Thornley K. Swan ruled that Jose Rodrigues, a Mexican national, may not be returned to Nebraska until Utah courts rule on defense motions that his rights were violated before and during the murder trial in Hastings, Neb. He had been scheduled for return to Nebraska Thursday.

Rodrigues says he walked away from the institution in 1939 and has been working since as an itinerant laborer in Mexico, Texas, Idaho and Utah.

Wakefield Youth Fatally Injured

Wakefield (AP) — Brian Samuelson, 11, of Wakefield was killed Tuesday when the pickup truck in which he was riding was in collision with an auto about eight miles south of Wakefield on Highway 16.

He was a passenger in the pickup driven by DeLloyd Meyer, 46, of Pender.

The State Patrol said Meyer was southbound and was making a lefthand turn into a driveway when the vehicle was in collision with a northbound car driven by Roger D. Hansen, 25, of Wayne.

Both vehicles rolled over. Young Samuelson was thrown from the truck.

Col. Olds Certain All-Out Bombing Of North Vietnam Will Not Win War

Omaha (AP) — All-out bombing of North Vietnam will not win the war in the opinion of Col. Robin Olds, commandant of cadets at the Air Force Academy and leading MIG killer in the Vietnam air action.

Olds told an Omaha Club dinner that the possible use of nuclear weapons is unthinkable.

The colonel who downed four North Vietnamese MIGs and 24 Axis planes in World War II, said North Vietnamese MIG pilots are good and well disciplined and anti-aircraft defenses are among the toughest he has seen.

He also lashed out at the extremes on both sides on the Vietnam issue, and said the American people should be told of the courage and loyalty of American fighting men in Vietnam.

On the other hand, he rapped the super-hawks who claim civilians are dictating the war policy. Olds said every recommendation of the joint chiefs of staff is taken under serious advisement by Secretary of Defense McNamara and President Johnson.

EVENTS
IN PERSPECTIVE

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

Monday, November 27, may turn out to be a momentous day for the city of Lincoln. On that day, the City Council has scheduled its decision on controversial zoning matters in the area of 50th and R.

The land in question is proposed to go from residential to commercial use, according to application to the council. Involved are a number of developments, including a substantial shopping center.

Tied in with this are a number of other proposals, including the development of Stevens Creek watershed and a major shopping center in the area of 48th and Van Dorn. All of these issues are in conflict with the city's comprehensive city plan, the land use and development bible of city government.

The decision on 50th and R and then others will be made in the light of a report soon to be made to the city from Hammer, Green and Siler, a consulting economics firm from Washington, D.C. This report will concentrate on the validity of the city's comprehensive plan, the product of Harland Bartholomew & Associates of St. Louis, Mo.

This is a mixture of economic and planning consultants but the two are as one for all practical purposes, anyway. Good planning is good economics and vice versa.

The Washington consultants will tell us whether, in their opinion, our comprehensive plan furthers the commercial, residential and governmental economies of the city. It will tell us whether the plan encourages progress and prosperity or whether it hinders our development and infringes upon our freedoms.

Then, the City Council will have to decide whether to follow the recommendations or opinions of the consultants or to go its own way. It will take courage to do either so the council is advised to let its conscience be its guide.

This entire issue will face the classic conflict between individual rights and the protection of society collectively. There is no way to avoid this conflict and no way to make it totally palatable to everyone.

It is hoped that city officials appreciate this fact because it is the only basis on which they could possibly accept the findings of their consultants. The consultants can be wrong and this is for the council to determine but it must be understood the public interest can never be protected to the total satisfaction of individual desires.

The individual is frequently going to seek situations advantageous to him but harmful to the welfare of others. The private property owner wants to do with his property what to him seems the economically sound thing to do.

The trouble is that what may be economically sound for the individual property owner may be disaster for others. The fact that a man owns property does not entitle him to develop it as he sees fit.

If property is properly zoned for residential but more money could be made with business zoning, that is the problem of the property owner, not the concern of the city. The city must be concerned for all property owners combined, not just individual parcels of land.

If a man has poor land, it is not necessarily the job of the city to enhance the value of this land through zoning. If the zoning, in fact, detracts from the value of the land, it is proper if there are legitimate corresponding benefits to others and the community as a whole.

This is why it counts for practically nothing for a man to argue that business rather than residential is the only use to which his land can be put. The City Council doesn't have to buy everything the consultants tell it but it is imperative that it follow the theory and principle of good zoning.

It is this theory and principle as well as their implementation in the city plan that will be tested later this month.

RUTH MONTGOMERY
Kiss-And-Stab Treatment Of Our Aging Legislators

WASHINGTON — At least until recently the Chinese venerated aging kinsmen and worshipped them after their demise, whereas Eskimoes led theirs out on the ice and left them there to freeze.

In the United States, our treatment of hoary politicians tends to combine these two extremes. As we laud them to the skies, we simultaneously prepare to freeze them out.

This kiss-and-stab technique has saddened the sunset years of many legislative notables, and is now being applied to 75-year-old Speaker John W. McCormack. The modern Brutus who has come to bury Caesar as well as praise him is Rep. Richard Bolling of Missouri, a fellow Democrat, who says McCormack "has done a great job for his party and his country," but "just doesn't have the skill to anticipate trouble" and should "step aside."

Bolling has thus brought into the open an undercurrent of revolt, particularly among young liberals, that could sweep McCormack from his lofty throne.

Such action would not be unique. Less than a decade ago, another Massachusetts legislator, who had also served as House speaker, was deposed as Republican leader. Joseph W. Martin Jr., was then the same age as McCormack is now.

The insurgent revolt against McCormack brings to mind the dreadful days following the assassination of John F. Kennedy, when the country suddenly realized that only one heartbeat — that of Lyndon B. Johnson — separated McCormack from the presidency.

Compounding this garish situation was the chilling thought that the next man in line for the presidency, after McCormack, was Senate President Pro-Tem Carl Hayden, who was then 86 years old.

Hayden has now achieved the age of 90, and although he is so frail and doddering that he has to be virtually carried to the floor on his rare appearances for a crucial vote, he has declared his intention to seek another six-year term next year.

There are few sadder sights than a decrepit old man, once a shining knight in politics, who pathetically clings to the accoutrements of high office after his usefulness has waned.

Our hearts go out to these old soldiers, even as our heads tell us that the time has come for them to make way for younger, keener minds. Joe Martin, deposed as speaker, lingered on in the House for a few more years, until defeated in his party's primary by a pert young woman.

☆ ☆ ☆

Vice President Alben W. Barkley suffered heartbreak when big labor, for whom he had long been a champion, turned thumbs down on him for the presidential nomination, on the grounds that he was "too old." He later returned as a low ranking "freshman" senator, to the chamber over which he had long presided as majority leader and "veep."

Perhaps the more fortunate soldiers are those who go valiantly in the heat of battle, or the politicians who bow out at the height of their career, with plaudits still ringing in their ears.

Why? Because we Americans have a tendency to freeze out our political oldsters while they are living, and venerate them only after they're gone.

Crime In The Streets

Elections Matter Of Opinion

More than partisan politics was involved in scattered elections across the country this week. Republicans saw in the balloting a continued swing among voters to the GOP while Democrats said they could discern no trends in the outcomes. The GOP did pick up several mayoralties, a governorship and control of one more legislature but this would be a risky outcome to bank on because it is too small a sampling of national attitudes.

More significant, it seems, is the fact that two large cities, Cleveland, O., and Gary, Ind., went to Negro candidates for mayor and the white backlash candidate for mayor of Boston was defeated.

News wires noted that the slender margin of victory for the Negro candidates and the large vote picked up by the backlash candidate in Boston indicated that white backlash against Negro bids for political power is still a potent force to be dealt with by the national political parties.

The whole civil rights matter, of course, is a vital one politically but it would seem that the decisions rendered by voters showed a continued trend toward full racial equality and civil rights. While the three victories singled out were narrow ones, they would hardly have been won at all a few short years ago.

While there still may be a reservoir of white backlash in the country, the significant thing is that equal rights prevailed. Once again, the results show members of the Negro race achieving goals they would never have sought at an earlier time. This is a mark more of our progress than our continued prejudice.

Thick Skin Lacking In Europe

No American politician can survive without a thick skin. Harry Truman summed it up with his remark that "if you can't stand the heat, get out of the kitchen." Most of our politicians can stand the heat.

Not so overseas.

France and Britain may be the cradle of our basic freedoms, but French and British politicians seem to have lost interest in such basics. Freedom of speech, for instance. For example, the biting satire "Macbird" which raps President Johnson and other U.S. politicians was a flop in England. But it may have opened the way for the staging of a play with characters portraying British Prime Minister Harold Wilson and his wife. The lord chamberlain, who censors British drama, has reluctantly agreed to allow the show to go on.

So far, however, no one has been able to get a play on a Paris stage with a "Charles de Gaulle" in it. The old fraud wouldn't stand for it, obviously. But in a Paris suburb, a current play about the Congo has a character portraying Moise Tshombe.

Europe, which gave us so much, still frowns on political satire. In America, of course, it is taken for granted that a politician is going to be ridiculed, imitated, laughed at, satirized. Even President Kennedy had to tolerate this. And he did, with a grin.

Evidently the Europeans are still clinging to the idea of nobility and aristocracy.

In the U.S., nobody is off limits. But Europe, which sometimes likes to thumb its nose at us, hasn't attained a degree of sophistication high enough to allow its citizens free artistic and dramatic expression.

DREW PEARSON
The Loud Talkers On Matter Of Economy Don't Believe In It On Their Home Front

WASHINGTON—The congressmen who clamor the loudest for budget cuts apparently haven't heard that economy begins at home.

Republican Floor Leader Gerald Ford, for example, keeps agitating for reductions in federal spending. Yet he makes impassioned speeches every year on the need for federal school aid in the depressed areas of his native Michigan.

Rep. Mel Laird, R-Wis., another economy crier, definitely does not want to economize on the food and drug laboratory he has persuaded the government to build in Madison, Wis.

Although everyone on Capitol Hill is, of course, for God, country and economy, the average congressman favors economies in someone else's district.

Taking note of this, House Appropriations Chairman George Mahon remarked dryly at a close Senate-House conference on HEW appropriations: "There are 21 different projects in this bill over and above those recommended by the Budget Bureau. If we are going to cut, let's start cutting there. We can't economize by padding the President's budget."

Mahon also warned his committee colleagues that the Ways and Means Committee, headed by Wilbur Mills, by holding up a tax increase until federal spending is cut, was encroaching on their territory.

"Wilbur and I have been discussing this matter almost every day," added Mahon. "I'm convinced that he doesn't really want to intrude on our powers, but the pressure is on us. We are in danger of losing our authority over federal spending unless we knuckle down and do the job we're supposed to do."

The Republican Coordinating Committee, the party's top policy-making body, charged that President Johnson's clean-air program lodges too much authority in the federal government. The committee demanded that air pollution be handled more by the states. Yet it was the Republican members of the House Commerce Committee who insisted upon federal controls and refused to let California set its own, tougher standards.

The Republicans, with help from a few Democrats, knocked a provision out of the anti-pollution bill that would have permitted California to set more stringent standards. The Republicans deserted their traditional states-right stand, of course, because of pressure from the automobile industry. The auto manufacturers want the federal government to set and enforce the standards for all states. Otherwise, they will have to install special devices for cars sold in California.

Secretary of Defense McNamara has ordered the Armed Forces to accept more misfits and dropouts for military service, so President Johnson won't be forced to widen the draft or call up the reserves during the 1968 election year.

One hundred thousand draftees from the next-to-lowest category, who have been turned down in the past, will be inducted this year. They will be given special training with more emphasis on the use of charts, films and closed-circuit television.

The Armed Services also have been less strict about washing out recruits who don't make the grade during basic training. The Marines, for example, set aside a diet table and give special training to overweight recruits who formerly would have been discharged.

Misfits are also given a second chance.

LA VERNA HASSLER
Patchwork Prairie Country

The cottonwood tree that I see from my picture window is bare and drab. Only last week it was all aglitter in brilliant yellow. The sun was caught in the saffron leaves and reflected like the brilliant glow of a burning candle. Then one night the frost came. The following day the leaves dropped from the tree, covering the yard with a golden carpet. There were so many leaves that I caught their glint under the yard light in the evening and thought it was raining. I was so convinced that it was raining that I had to step outside to see the rain come down. How surprised I was to see it was the light again reflecting on the fallen leaves.

I knew he was coming . . . in fact I have been waiting for him for some time just as one waits for a neighbor to drop in and chat. His first visit is always exciting.

He was late arriving the other night but I bided my time. Sure enough! In the nocturnal stillness I saw him approaching through the garden. Had I not been watching, he would have entered unnoticed. He blinked his eyes as the cold wind blew, then set about his work. There was not a sound as he applied his craft. First he steadied his palette and readied his brush. A deep hush settled over the garden and I waited with bated breath just as one waits for a great conductor to begin an orchestral arrangement.

He busied himself for precious time he did wish to lose. With deft strokes of his brush he applied his craft. He dipped into his silvered glass and touched the shrubs and pin oaks. He tiptoed across the front lawn and touched the rose bushes and lilacs, scattering glass crystal as he went.

I saw the moonlight reflect the gossamer beauty in every blade of grass. Content that his glass canvas was finished, he stole into the orchard and made neat ornate motifs on the leaves of the cherry trees. The fatigued world slumbered, the task was completed for another year and Jack Frost stole quietly away to his cozy home.

This is a year for frustrating farmers. First was the dry spell of early spring, then too much rain for getting the crops in or cultivating them. Now we have another period of frustration . . . wet corn and milo. Just as the weather turns favorable, it drizzles or rains, it's cloudy or damp. Always there is the milo that seems to absorb additional moisture instead of drying.

Since we have only one dryer, the process of harvesting the grain goes rather slowly. We cut a day and dry a day while secretly hoping the sun will shine bright and warm for sometime so the cutting can proceed at a swifter pace.

How nice it is to be back to standard time again. I didn't relish getting up and prowling about in the dark for such a long time before the sun peeked over the hill. The school bus with headlights glowing made its way down our road and I thought of all the sleepy little children who must almost be nodding on their ride to school.

I didn't seem to mind quite so much during the summer hours when we work from daylight to dark but at this time of year when the work slackens I found it rather difficult to wait until daylight to begin outside work. No street lights line our fields or shed a glow across our farm and one feels rather ridiculous going about with a flashlight early in the morning just because the clock says we should.

Housing Problems

Lincoln, Neb.

I read in the paper that our mayor has been in Minneapolis checking on the federal housing in that city. He did not mention if all the existing living units there had been inspected before the building of the high-rise apartments, how many houses were found to be so substandard according to the Minimum Housing Code that they had to be torn down, how many had been repaired or remodeled to meet the standards of the code, and if all occupants in the federal high-rise apartments were people displaced because of substandard housing.

It is my understanding that federal property pays no property taxes, so all services to federal housing that the property owners pay for through property taxes would have to be paid by the local taxpayers. As federal property is acquired, the taxes paid on the property prior to federal ownership would have to be shifted to the local taxpayers.

The City Council talks out of both sides of its mouth when it states it is concerned about our elderly. Most would prefer to remain in their own homes but the current building code is so restrictive they cannot make many minor changes such as screening an existing porch that is less than 25 feet back from the sidewalk. In the same neighborhood, new apartments are being built only 10 feet from the sidewalk. Is there a different set of building code laws for new buildings in the older parts of town? Or maybe it is the same old story that money talks. Any existing home 30 years or older should have more realistic building laws so property owners would be encouraged to improve their homes. In return for improving the property, the city should not levy additional taxes.

We also have a surplus of homes and apartments in Lincoln, to say nothing of the hundreds of houses at the old air base. Why not put all of these homes to use before we spend millions of tax dollars on federal housing? Keep our senior citizens who prefer to stay in their own homes in their homes by lowering their taxes and letting them make reasonable improvements on their homes without a building inspector breathing down their necks and the tax assessor right behind, slapping on more taxes.

Walter Riggs

Monterey Park, Calif.

The following death notice appeared in a local paper recently:

"RIGGS, Walter B., beloved husband of Clara, father of Eileen Wetzel of Westchester, grandfather of Cheryl Lawrence of Inglewood."

This might be of interest to some of the old-timers still living in Lincoln who like to remember the happy, easy, carefree days of the early 1900's and sometimes wonder what became of so-and-so or so-and-so.

Walter Riggs was the nephew of the owner of the popular Riggs Pharmacy where the dashing young swains met their charming, timid swanies to indulge in —of all things — a banana split and ice-cream soda or a delicious chocolate sundae with plenty of chocolate served by Trago McWilliams at the fountain. Walter was an errand boy and a very familiar figure as he dashed about the streets on his high-powered bicycle delivering prescriptions from his uncle's drug store. He made frequent side trips down 14th Street to see his gal, Clara Framstad, who became his wife more than 58 years ago.

Walter was also well known for his bicycle racing cross-country, winning most of them. Since moving to California some 20 years ago, he had been very active in senior citizens' affairs, going all-out as he always did in all of his undertakings.

Some short personal remarks: Walter Riggs was a dedicated American, loyal to family and friends, befitting one who spent his young and impressionable years in a clean, wholesome city such as Lincoln, Nebraska, was and I would hope still is.

Some may wonder who "G. B. Hodges" is. He married the other Framstad girl.

Life Begins At 40:

Wife Feels He Retired Too Young

By ROBERT PETERSON

Q.—"My wife nags me constantly because I retired at 55 on a reduced pension from my civil service job. We've got enough income, but she says I should get back to work like other men my age. I've worked since my teens, don't like a nine-to-five grind, and am much happier puttering in the garden and tinkering with my collection of antique clocks. Does society really expect me to work till 65?"

A.—No, early retirement is entirely respectable. Society may frown on younger men who don't work but no criticism is due those who have completed a respectable work stint and who choose to retire early on pensions adequate for family needs. Since you don't care for working regular hours and can support your family on your pension, you should feel no qualms about telling your Frau to pipe down. You've earned the right to putter.

Q.—"Young people certainly get the breaks. I'm 71 and have never seen the nation's capital. Yet our community recently raised funds to send a bunch of high schoolers on a trip to Washington, D.C. Why isn't someone helping old people take a few trips?"

A.—One reason youngsters get more breaks than oldsters is because they're more vocal about their wants. If you and other elders decide on some specific wants and then stir up community interest, you will stand a good chance of getting action. There's a lot of power in the maxim, "The squeaking wheel gets the grease."

Q. — "Our 'Dun Workun Club' composed of retirees past 65, is thinking of chartering a bus for a group trip to Florida this winter. What do you think of the idea?"

A. — Sounds great. Hundreds of clubs for older people have discovered the economies and joys of chartering buses — thus enjoying group travel at the lowest possible cost. Every community should have a club which plans chartered trips to points of interest for older people who yearn to travel but don't want to venture forth alone.

If you would like the booklet, "Starting a Travel Club for Older People," write to Robert Peterson, "Life Begins at Forty," in care of The Lincoln Star, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope and 10 cents to cover handling costs.

Funds Given For Kennard House Work

The Nebraska Centennial Commission Wednesday announced $20,000 gift to the State Historical Society for restoration of Nebraska's oldest standing residence — the Kennard house in Lincoln.

Centennial Commission Director Don H. Shriner said the money results from tight budgeting of the $600,000 appropriated to the commission by the Legislature for the statehood celebration this year.

The 1965 Legislature allocated $58,000 for rebuilding the Kennard house, located just southeast of the Capitol at 1627 H St., to its original 1869 design.

But the Historical Society estimates the project will cost $112,000. Private donations hopefully will allow the job to be completed.

The stucco-faced, two-story structure was the residence of Nebraska's first secretary of state, Thomas P. Kennard. It was designed by Chicago architect John K. Winchell.

Kennard also was one of the three state commissioners who designated Lincoln as the capital of Nebraska.

Historical Society Director Marvin Kivett said the restoration project had been hampered by a lack of funds but that the Centennial Commission donation will permit work to progress again.

Kivett said plans call for the job to be finished late this year or early next year.

Decision On Complaint In Fatal Mishap Pending

Lancaster County Attorney Paul Douglas late Wednesday said he hopes to decide Thursday whether a complaint will be filed in connection with the ditch cave-in that killed one worker and injured two others Monday night.

Douglas conferred Wednesday with two State Labor Department inspectors regarding their investigative report on the mishap.

Labor Commissioner Thomas D. Doyle has recommended a civil complaint be filed for alleged violation of the state's safety laws by the contractor, William R. Lesoing.

Ben Zersen, state safety engineer, said his investigation showed the sewer ditching showed no signs of shoring in compliance with the law requiring shoring up of excavations exceeding four feet.

The sewer ditch construction near 10th and Military Road measured 11 feet, 2 inches in depth at the point where the cave-in occured, he said.

Doyle said the state safety engineer's office was not aware of the sewer project or the accident might have been avoided by a routine inspection of the construction site.

However, he noted that no such notification is required but that his department hopes to enlist the cooperation of contractors and local governmental officials in advising the department of new construction projects.

Zersen said 10 cave-ins have been reported in the state this year, but the Lincoln mishap was the first fatal one.

Arnold Boettcher, state safety inspector, said Lesoing has been warned "to provide shoring on several previous projects" on which he was job foreman or contractor.

Doyle agreed that more prosecutions for violation of the state's safety law would be a deterrent to violations, but also noted a "real dent could be made in preventing these types of accidents if we are notified in advance."

The commissioner said his office may recommend to the 1969 Legislature that it require notification.

Violation of the state's safety regulations is a misdemeanor, carrying a fine of $50 to $1,000.

State Received $65 Million In Highway User Revenue

The Federal Transportation Department reported Wednesday $65,137,000 in highway user revenue was distributed in Nebraska last year.

It said 55.5% of this went to state highways, 33.5% to county roads, and 11% for city streets.

Nationally $7.2 billion in highway user revenues were allocated in 1966, with $4.6 billion assigned to state highway purposes, $1.9 billion for local roads and streets and $700 million for non-highway purposes.

State Highway Engineer John W. Hossack said Nebraska's allocation ranked 34th among the 50 states.

However, Hossack added, 36 states have less than Nebraska's 103,000 miles of highways, roads and streets.

A comparison of the six states surrounding Nebraska showed that South Dakota and Wyoming collected less highway user revenue. All states in the region except Iowa apportioned a greater percentage of their funds to state administered highways and less to county roads and city streets than did Nebraska.

Hossack said about $48 million, or 75%, of Nebraska's user revenues are derived from motor fuel taxes. He said $16.5 million comes from motor vehicle and motor carrier taxes and fees.

Liquor Licenses Suspended At 4 Lincoln Establishments

The State Liquor Control Commission reported Wednesday it has ordered a five-day suspension of the class C liquor license of East Hills, Inc., a Lincoln supper club, for exceeding the 30-day limitation on credit purchases of liquor and failing to file a monthly report of credit.

The suspension was ordered to take effect at the closing hour of business on Nov. 26.

In other actions, the commission:

Suspended for five days the class C license of the Plaza Bowl, Inc., Lincoln, in connection with liquor procurement by a minor.

Suspended for five days the class C license of Robbies, Inc., Lincoln, for violating the 30-day credit regulation and failing to file a monthly report of credit.

Suspended for five days the package liquor license of S & M, Inc., 200 S. 18th St., Lincoln, in connection with beer procurement by a minor.

Denied the package liquor license application of Dwayne L. Kushner, 841 N. 27th St., Lincoln.

Granted a package liquor license to Morris, Seymour and Stanley Schrier, 1000 South St., Lincoln, although the local governing body recommended denial.

City Urged To Join In Nuclear Power Generation

. . . POWER BOARD RECEIVES STUDY ON ECONOMICAL ELECTRICITY

By BOB SCHREPF
Star Staff Writer

Large, nuclear fueled generating units and a system of city-owned peak-shaving generating units would provide the most practical and economic long-term source of power for Lincoln's future electrical growth, the City Power Board was advised Wednesday.

The recommendation was contained in a comprehensive engineering study and report of Lincoln's future power needs and sources of supply prepared for the city by the consulting engineering firm of Gibbs, Hill, Durham and Richardson, Inc., of Omaha, specialists in electrical power plant design and construction.

The firm's principal recommendation is that Lincoln participate with Consumers Public Power District in its nuclear power plant at Brownville.

Would Own 12½%

Under the plan, the city would own 12½% of the 800,000 kilowatt electrical facility and would share in the same proportion in the operation and electrical output of the new plant.

Robert Heidenreich, vice president of the firm, said the city could also economically install peak shaving generating units to augment future power supplies

These units would be used to reduce peak demands on the present power sources, and to provide emergency power for essential city needs in case of regional power blackouts such as occured in July, 1966.

The units would also supplement nuclear electric power, after it becomes available at Brownville in 1972.

Most Economical

The engineers told the power advisory board this would be the most economical method of meeting Lincoln's future power needs. Several methods were studied by the firm.

It was noted that the cumulative savings through the 14-year period (1972 through 1985) would be about $78 million if the nuclear power and shaving units plan were used instead of continuing with the purchase of all energy.

The substantial cost savings result from the low cost energy available from large, efficient nucler base load fuel generating units and the low capital cost of peak shaving units.

Although the power board reserved action on the recommendations until a later date, chairman R. E. Campbell commented, "All of us are astonished at the cost premium over a 14-year period for purchasing all power.

"Nothing is more important for the future welfare of the city than to make a study such as this and carry out its recommendations to save the citizens money."

Heidenreich also said that under the existing electric rate structure, the plan could produce an operating surplus of $4 million to $10 million annually in the 1972-1985 period.

A capital outlay of $22 million between 1972 and 1978 for peak shaving units and power transmission lines would be required. Another $8 million would be required between 1979 and 1985. This could be financed through 20 to 25 year revenue bonds.

The Lincoln Electric System now requires over 186,000 kilowatts of power at peak demand. The peak demand is expected to increase four-fold by 1985, according to the engineers, and new power sources will be required to meet the increase demand.

About three-fourths of Lincoln's present electrical needs are supplied by Consumers under a 25-year power supply agreement ending in 1992. The balance of the energy is largely supplied by the Nebraska Public Power System.

A very small amount is produced by the city-owned A St. power plant, which the report terms "too small and inefficient to be given consideration in Lincoln's long-term power supply plans."

The engineering report also recommended that:

—Lincoln begin joint planning with Consumers and the Omaha Public Power District on the proposed 345 kilovolt transmission line from Omaha to Hallam and from Hallam to Brownville.

—The city enter into a purchase agreement by March 1, 1968, with Consumers to buy the Greenwood-Lincoln Hallam segment of the transmission line and the high voltage 345 kilovolt power step-down substation in Lincoln.

—The Nebraska Public Power System be notified before Dec. 31, 1968, that Lincoln wishes to terminate its present power supply contract on Jan. 1, 1972.

—The city notify Consumers before Dec. 31, 1969, that it wishes to terminate the "initial period" of its management contract with Consumers on Jan. 1, 1972, and take over direct management of the Lincoln Electric System.

—Lincoln Electric System permanently shut down the city's A St. plant when the first peak shaving unit is placed in service. The shutdown date would be in 1970 or 1972 depending on arrangements worked out with Nebraska Public Power System.

N. L. Cole's Bid On Water District Is Apparent Low

N. L. Cole Construction Co. was the apparent low bidder Wednesday on a water district covering streets in the 1st and O area.

Cole bid $16,643, followed by Dobson Bros. Construction Co. $16,934 and H. R. Bookstrom Construction Co., $17,500.

Water lines will be installed in 1st, O to P; P 1st to 3rd; 2nd, P to Q and 3rd from P to a point 210 feet north.

Other bids received by the city Wednesday:

—Front-end loader for the water department: Reddish Bros., $4,677 and Construction Service Equipment Co., $5,598. Spilker Farm Equipment Co. and Beltline Ford Tractor Sales each submitted four alternate bids.

—Dutch Elm disease spray (9,000 gallons): Thompson-Hayward Chemical Co., 78 cents per gallon; Standard Oil Co., 81 cents per gallon; Michlin Chemical Corp., 87 cents per gallon and McKesson Chemical Co., $1.32 per gallon.

Soviet Nuclear Arsenal Assayed

Washington (AP) — The Defense Department estimated Wednesday that the Soviet Union's (current arsenal of intercontinental missiles could destroy about 100 American Minuteman nuclear weapons and that by 1973 the destruction could be about three times greater.

But Paul Nitze, deputy defense secretary, said the remaining American missiles could "inflict unacceptable damage on the U.S.S.R."

Israeli At U.N. Hits Resolution By India

United Nations, N.Y. (AP) — Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban flatly rejected Wednesday an Indian resolution aimed at promoting a Middle East settlement through the U.N. Security Council.

He also expressed reservations about a plan introduced in the council by the United States, and East European sources said they thought the Soviet Union would veto the U.S. proposal if it appeared likely to obtain enough votes to pass.

Eban told a news conference that Israel "cannot in any circumstances give any consent, support or cooperation" to the Indian plan, which calls for the withdrawal of Israeli armed forces from "all the territories" seized in the Arab-Israeli war in June.

Won't Cooperate

Asked if this meant Israel would refuse to cooperate with a special U.N. representative to work out a settlement under this resolution, he replied he had no quarrel with this interpretation.

The Security Council is scheduled to meet Thursday at Egypt's request to debate the Middle East situation after several weeks of intensive but fruitless negotiations for a settlement.

In Cairo, a government spokesman told newsmen that Israeli withdrawal from the captured Arab territory was an essential first step to any Mideast settlement. He urged the council to show the world that "aggression does not pay."

'So Irrational'

Asked about this frequently stated Arab view, Eban said it was "so irrational that it is amazing even to see it imposed."

Eban said the Indian draft resolution, which is cosponsored by Mali and Nigeria, prejudices Israel's position in advance by defining what shape a settlement should take.

He reiterated Israel's contention that there would be no return to armistice demarcation lines that existed before the war. These, he said, "must be superseded by an agreed and secure permanent frontier."

Beauties Arrive For Contest

London (AP) — Ten national beauties settled into London Wednesday with their eyes on the Miss World title and the crock of gold that goes with it. By the weekend, they'll be joined by about 50 others.

The winner, chosen Nov. 16, will get $7,000 and a silver globe trophy valued at $420.

But the big money comes in fees for personal appearances, endorsements and other activities.

The top money-maker in the 16 years of the contest is Britain's Anny Sidney, Miss World 1964, who collected $84,000 in one year.

Cuba Mourns Death

Havana (AP) — The city administration announced it has canceled the annual carnival in Cuba's capital because of the death last month of Ernesto Che Guevara, once Prime Minister Fidel Castro's top aide.

Congolese Soldiers Massacre Africans

Brussels (UPI) — Congolese troops who swept into the eastern Congo town of Bukavu after white mercenaries fled across the border to Rwanda were reported Wednesday to have massacred a number of African residents of the town.

Informed sources in Brussels said the killings began after the troops marched into Bukavu Saturday. They were reported in a "bloodthirsty mood" after the flight of rebel white mercenaries and Katangese gendarmes who had held the town for three months.

The reports did not say how many of their own nationals the Congolese troops killed.

Checking On Belgian

The Belgian Foreign Ministry said it had no confirmation of the massacre. It was checking reports that Congolese troops killed a Belgian. They reportedly told Rwanda frontier guards they had killed "the last white man in Bukavu."

It was not known what happened to four other whites who stayed behind when the mercenaries left.

In Kinshasa, President Joseph Mobutu called an urgent meeting of the Special Committee of the Organization of African Unity (OAU) to decide on the fate of the white mercenaries who sought refuge from the Congo in Rwanda. Foreign Minister Justin Bomboko announced Wednesday night.

Hold Mercenaries

At the same time he asked President Gregoire Kayibanda of Rwanda to prevent the mercenaries from leaving that country. Rwanda borders Congo.

The Bukavu population sought refuge in Rwanda early in July when Bukavu had been held for two days by rebelling mercenaries who then pulled out to join other rebels in Kisangani.

Study Warns Of Red China Attack

London (UPI) — A publication of the influential Institute for Strategic Studies warned Wednesday that Communist China might launch a "suicidal nuclear attack" if the Vietnam situation got out of control.

The study said that during the next few years there probably will be a rapid development of a Chinese nuclear deterrent "which will certainly create strategic instability among the three superpowers" including China.

The publication said no substantial Chinese nuclear threat need be expected for the forseeable future.

"However, it would be foolish to dismiss the possibility altogether," it said.

"Nobody can be sure that Chinese leaders will 'never act inadvertently. China might launch a suicidal nuclear attack on neighboring countries out of fear, if the situation in Vietnam went beyond the control of either the United States or North Vietnam," the publication added.

The conclusions were contained in a study entitled "the Asian Balance of Power— A Japanese View" dratfed by Michio Royama, Rockefeller fellow in strategic studies at the London School of Economics.

Boulder Voters OK Liquor Sales

Boulder, Colo. (AP)—Boulder residents in Tuesday's city election knocked out a ban on the legal sale of liquor that had stood for 60 years.

They voted 9,701 to 3,965 to repeal an ordinance against such sales. Boulder is the home of the University of Colorado.

Mahon Backs Senate Move To Avoid Payless Employes

Washington (AP)—A Senate-approved proposal to head off payless paydays for several thousand federal employes next week gained powerful support Wednesday from Rep. George Mahon, D-Tex., chairman of the House Appropriations Committee.

Mahon made his stand known after another inconclusive House-Senate conference on a temporary financing resolution. The measure is bogged down in a dispute over House insistence that it be coupled with multibillion dollar budget cuts.

The Senate voted to extend to Thursday a stop-gap financing measure for federal agencies still without regular appropriations for the fiscal year that began July 1. This would provide authority to issue paychecks due next week.

Affected would be employes of the office of Economic Opportunity, Agency for International Development, the Peace Corps, the Export-Import Bank and the Migrant Refugees Bureau.

Mahon told a reporter he is supporting the Senate plan.

Discussions will continue meanwhile on the resolution involving budget cuts, he said.

Pope's Prostate Gland Was Not Cancerous

Rome (AP)—Doctors for Pope Paul VI confirmed Wednesday that the pontiff's prostate gland, removed surgically last Saturday, was not cancerous.

Enlargement of the gland had put the pontiff to bed with an inflamed urinary tract. Bulletins after the operation indicated the enlargement was not the result of malignacy.

The doctors said the Pope's condition continued good, with normal pulse and blood pressure, and lessening pain.

Uni Place Plan Action Deferred

By BOB SCHREPF
Staf Staff Writer

The City-County Planning Commission Wednesday deferred action on a plan for changes of land use in the University Place area until the commission and the City Council can meet to discuss the matter.

The council had requested a planning commission recommendation on the question in light of suggestions by University Place interests that some type of industrial zoning be created to replace existing business zoning.

Businessmen in the area are concerned that the character of University Place has changed substantially in the past 30 years and that little retail activity remains.

Planning Director Douglas Brogden told the commission that the "council is presenting this to you as a general problem—what they want is a report on how to deal with older areas."

He had recommended deferral until consideration is given to the use of a planning consultant to investigate alternative developments for University Place and other similar business areas.

Mindful that the council budgeted $10,000 this fiscal year for that purpose, the commission withheld any recommendation until it is decided whether the amount should be spent on a study of University Place only, or if it should be spread out on studies of other areas, such as College View.

Commission members said they would also discuss with the council the possibility of inviting the business communities involved to participate by helping to finance the studies.

In other action, the commission recommended approval of an amendment that will permit an increase in height of buildings in the F restricted commercial zoning districts.

The amendment would allow buildings in F restricted zoning not to exceed five stories or 57 feet. On buildings of less than five stories, penthouses a maximum of 12 feet high can be constructed provided the aggregate height of the structure does not exceed 57 feet.

The present ordinance permits a maximum building height of not more than four stories or 50 feet, excluding penthouses.

The commission deferred its recommendation on a change of zone from A-2 single family dwelling to H-2 highway commercial on the west side of 14th from Furnas to Adams in order to notify surrounding property owners that the application is pending.

The applicant, James C. Weaver, told the commission he proposes to develop a service center on property at 14th and Butler. Plans tentatively include a service station, drugstore and beauty and barber shops.

Other planning commission recommendations:

—Change of zone from I commercial to H-1 highway business on the southeast corner of 47th and Cooper, requested by Howard J. Gotfredson, denied.

—Special permit to develop a community unit plan to construct entrance gates to Skyline's Rolling Hills addition, requested by F. Pace Woods Jr., approved.

—Proposed amendment to the zoning ordinance relating to enlargement and extension of nonconforming uses by special permit, denied.

—Proposed amendment to the zoning ordinance permitting signs to a greater height under stated conditions, approved.

—Vacating a portion of No. 40th north of Cornhusker Hwy., approved.

—Preliminary plat, South Pacific View, located on the south side of South St., west of 70th, deferred.

First Deadlines Set For Desegregation

Washington (AP)—The government for the first time is setting deadlines for complete public school desegregation in the South and expects most school districts to finish the task by fall 1969.

The deadlines will vary with individual school districts, however, said Peter Libassi, director of the Office for Civil Rights in the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

"Some will be required to do it sooner," Libassi said in an interview, "and some districts—such as those which have school construction going on or especially large numbers of students or some other complication—may be given some more time."

Choice Plans Fail

He said the new approach, developed during the last few months, is necessary because freedom-of-choice plans failed to eliminate completely the pattern of separate school systems for whites and Negroes in the South.

In districts where federal officials determine freedom of choice is not working, Libassi said the department is requiring school officials to develop new plans on their own. He said the new plans must be designed to eliminate completely the dual-system approach although they may vary widely according to local conditions.

Many Southern districts have met the department's nondiscrimination requirements by using the plan which permits students to attend the school of their choice.

July Report

But the U.S. Civil Rights Commission said last July the approach was failing to achieve substantial racial intergration.

A total of 1,238 school districts now operate under so-called voluntary desegregation plans, most patterned on freedom of choice.

The Welfare Department cut off federal school aid from about 100 Southern school districts, although about 40 of those are again receiving federal money after complying with HEW requirements.

Deadline Policy

The new policy of setting deadlines repersents a move away from earlier department techniques of requiring a certain percentage or number of Negro students in school with whites.

But Libassi said totally dismantling white and Negro school systems will greatly increase the amount of racial mixing in the schools. About 75% of the Negro youngsters in the southern and border states now attend all-Negro schools.

Libassi added that eliminating the dual school system may not decrease segregation in some large southern cities since Negroes there usually attend schools in their own neighborhoods.

Industry Beats Odor In Election Pitting Brothers

Franklin, Idaho (AP) — Brother met brother Tuesday in an election battle pitting industry against odor—and industry won.

Harley Lowe was elected mayor of this southeastern Idaho community over his brother, Dennis Lowe—111 votes to 74.

The voters only got wind of the odor-industry issue a day before election when the brothers issued statements. Dennis said he would try to deodorize such Franklin area industries as mink farms and a sauerkraut canning factory. Harley said he would save the factory.

FOOD

oven dinner for cold weather

Stuffed pork chops seem to signal the return of winter weather. Their herb-scented aroma suggests a sumptuous oven dinner certain to satisfy even the heartiest of appetites.

Stuffing is a delightful menu extender. It's delicious . . . economical . . . nutritious . . . and a welcome change from potatoes or other starches.

STUFFED PORK CHOPS

8¾" loin pork chops
1 cup chopped onion
1 cup chopped celery
1 package (7 oz.) herb seasoned cube stuffing
¼ teaspoon each salt, pepper, thyme, sage
¼ cup snipped parsley

Brown chops lightly in hot fat trimmed from chops. Remove chops from skillet; add onion and celery and cook until tender. Prepare cube stuffing according to package directions. Combine with vegetables and seasonings.

Place a chop, fat edge up, at each end of a 10"x5"x3" loaf pan. Alternate chops and stuffing. Insert skewers through chops. Bake at 325 degrees 1 hour, or until done. Garnish with spiced peaches and grapes. Yield: 6-8 servings.

GOLDENAISE BROCCOLI

1 bunch broccoli
3 egg yolks
½ cup mayonnaise
1 tablespoon lemon juice
½ teaspoon onion salt

Wash broccoli, remove large leaves and cut off tough ends of stalks. Cover and cook in boiling, salted water 20 minutes. Drain. Meanwhile place egg yolks in strainer; lower into simmering water to cover; simmer 6 minutes, until firm. Remove; sieve. Combine remaining ingredients in small saucepan; simmer only to heat thoroughly. Pour over broccoli in serving dish; top sauce with sieved yolks. Yield: 6 servings.

PORCUPINE MERINGUE APPLES

6 baking apples
6 tablespoons seedless raisins
¾ cup brown sugar
½ teaspoon cinnamon and nutmeg
2 tablespoons lemon juice
6 teaspoons butter
3 egg whites (room temperature)
dash of salt
6 tablespoons sugar
¼ cup blanched slivered almonds

Wash and core apples; remove about 1 inch of peel from stem end. Place in baking dish; put raisins and 2 tablespoons sugar in each cavity; sprinkle with lemon juice; dot with butter. Add boiling water to cover bottom of baking dish. Bake at 325 degrees about 40-45 minutes or until tender, basting 3-4 times with water in baking dish.

Meanwhile, beat egg whites with dash salt until stiff but not dry. Gradually beat in sugar, sprinkling a little at a time over the surface. Continue beating until very smooth and glossy. Pile meringue on apples; stud with almonds. Return to oven and bake about 5-8 minutes or until delicately brown. Yield: 6 servings.

Pie As Pretty As A Picture!

A beautiful to-look-at and easy-to-make dessert which is one of more than 3,000 recipes included in the new book, "America Cooks," is this delicious French Silk Pie — a favorite recipe contributed by Mrs. W. Willard Wirtz, wife of the U.S. Secretary of Labor.

Mrs. Wirtz's recipe is one of many contributed by prominent American women to the new cook book, which will appear in bookstores in the very near future.

Ten years in preparation, "America Cooks" contains the best recipes of thousands of American women — gathered from the membership of the General Federation of Women's Clubs.

Side-by-side with these American family "bests," are the recipes contributed by former First Ladies, Mrs. John F. Kennedy and Mrs. Dwight D. Eisenhower, as well as Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson's chili, and Mrs. Everett Dirksen's cheese rolls.

Mrs. Wirtz's pie is sure to be a favorite with the family, as well as starring as a guest dessert.

FRENCH SILK PIE

9-inch baked pie shell
½ cup softened butter
¾ cup sugar
1-ounce square unsweetened chocolate, melted
Pinch of salt
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 eggs
1 cup heavy cream, whipped
Chopped toasted almonds

Prepare pie shell.

Beat butter in mixing bowl until fluffy. Gradually beat in sugar until well blended. Add chocolate, salt and vanilla; blend well. Add eggs, one at a time, beating for 3 minutes after each addition.

Pour into pie shell; spread with whipped cream. Refrigerate well. Just before serving, sprinkle with almonds.

Did You Ever Eat A Scallop?

Every year about this time, we are reminded of the New Bedford, Mass., Scallop Festival which this year is celebrating its tenth year.

If this year proves to be as successful as the years in the past, more than fifteen hundred seafood lovers will consume some 30,000 pounds of deep fried scallops.

The theory is that as long as you don't overcook the scallop, you can cook it any way and it's delicious. Here is a recipe for herbed and breaded scallops

MARINATED SCALLOPS

1 pound sea scallops, fresh or frozen
¼ cup corn oil
2 tablespoons fresh lemon juice
¼ teaspoon salt
Freshly ground pepper, to taste
⅛ to ¼ teaspoon dried thyme leaves or ¼ to ½ teaspoon chopped fresh thyme leaves
¼ to ½ teaspoon dried basil leaves or ½ to 1 teaspoon chopped fresh basil
⅓ cup fine dry bread crumbs
1 teaspoon paprika, optional
¼ teaspoon salt

Thaw scallops if using frozen ones. Place scallops in a bowl or refrigerator dish. Mix corn oil, lemon juice, ¼ teaspoon salt, pepper, thyme and basil. Pour over scallops; cover and marinate in refrigerator 2 hours or longer, if desired. Drain scallops. Mix bread crumbs, paprika, if used, and ¼ teaspoon salt. Roll scallops in bread crumb mixture until evenly and lightly coated.

Makes 3 to 4 servings.

To Broil: Place scallops in a single layer in broiler and broil about 3 inches from heat for 3 to 5 minutes or until done and lightly browned.

To Oven Fry: Place scallops in a baking dish; sprinkle with 1 tablespoon marinade or leave crumbs dry as preferred. Bake in a 425-degree F. oven about 10 minutes.

GATEWAY CENTER

NEWS of the suburban areas

This morning we find that there are several new faces in some of the suburban areas—but before we introduce them, we'd like to tell about some weekend activity in the form of a birthday party and some out-of-town visitors.

The center of attention last weekend in the Fiene Heights home of Mr. and Mrs. George Sackett was young Diane Sackett who became an eleven-year-old on Friday, Nov. 3.

Helping Diane celebrate on Saturday afternoon were a group of friends, who enjoyed games and traditional party fare —cake and ice cream. Taking part in the festivities were Mary Bomberger, Helen Conklin, Terri Krivosha, Ruth Moss, Rhonda Ossian, Debra Scheidt, Denise Scheidt, Barbara Seuss, Myna Strawn and Cindy Watkins.

We also understand that Diane's brother, Dale, 4, was the only male representative at the party — but we imagine that he didn't mind filling that role at all!

Sunday afternoon provided a good opportunity for some of Diane's relatives to gather for a family observance of the occasion. The list of guests included both of Diane's grandmothers, Mrs. Florence Pierce, and Mrs. Mary Sackett of Agnew; an uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Tom McCarthy and daughter, Roxanne; and W. F. Young.

Entertaining guests who arrived for the Nebraska-Iowa State football game on Saturday were Bethany Park Heights residents, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne B. Roelle. The visitors were Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Hagedorn and children, Mary and Mark, from Spirit Lake, Iowa.

Although Mr. and Mrs. Hagedorn were probably a little less than satisfied with the outcome of the game (both are ISU graduates), Mrs. Roelle tells us that they and their friends had a "very nice visit."

And now about those newcomers, who, in Trendwood, are Dr. and Mrs. Robert L. Haag and children, Randy, 8; Lissa, 6; and Michael, 5. Because they've beein in their new home at 1717 Devoe Dr., just since last Friday, we imagine that the family is still busy getting settled.

When he has some spare time, Dr. Haag enjoys pheasant hunting, and we understand that Mrs. Haag is an avid reader and seamstress.

In Park Manor, the new arrival is a very young one — Michelle Anne Kreie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Kreie. Michelle, who was born on Oct. 30, has a sister, Cindy, who is 11; and two brothers —Mark, 8, and Terry, 2.

Proud grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Ottoe Kreie of Salina, Kan., and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Heath, also of Salina. A special admirer, who we understand has been to Lincoln to get acquainted with Michelle, is her great grandmother, Mrs. Hazel Kuhne of Salina.

Arriving in Bishop Heights recently, from Lawrence, Kan., were Mr. and Mrs. Tom Hedrick and daughter, Nancy, 6. Mr. Hedrick — who has become a familiar face to Lincoln television viewers as the sports director of KOLN-KGIN TV — has been in the city since Sept. 1, and his wife and daughter joined him here on Nov. 1.

It's understandable that Mr. Hedrick's avocation, as well as his vocation, concerns athletic activities of all kinds; and we understand that Mrs. Hedrick is quite an enthusiastic sports fan herself.

Another family which is getting acquainted in Bishop Heights is that of Mr. and Mrs. George Edward Howard, who have moved from 3909 Pace Blvd. to 2735 Kucera. Mr. and Mrs. Howard have one son, George, 13, who is a 9th grader at Irving Junior High School.

Mrs. Howard told us that, like so many other suburban residents, they are a "family of golfers" — when the weather is a little warmer, that is!

around town

Although it's only Thursday, the excitement around and about town brought on by the annual Homecoming "fever" is beginning to pressure frantic hostesses—and alumni are beginning to arrive by plane, train and car filling Lincoln homes to the rafters. Rumors of various reunion gatherings indicate the weekend will be a gay one.

* * *

Flying in Thursday from the west coast will be Mr. and Mrs. Maynard E. Arnot who will be the houseguests of Mr. Arnot's brother and sister-in-law, Dr. and Mrs. L. D. Arnot, while they "reunion" with former NU classmates. The visitors will leave Sunday to return to their home in Eureka, Calif.

* * *

Also planning to visit with former university classmates during the Homecoming activities about town is Mrs. Bryan Davis, who arrived by plane Wednesday from Colorado Springs, Colo. Mrs. Davis, who will be remembered as the former Patricia Cooper, will be the houseguest of her mother, Mrs. Herbert Cooper.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Whitehead also will entertain visitors for the game weekend. Coming from Gering will be Mr. Whitehead's sister, Mrs. Milton Rothenberger and her daughter, Miss Jana Rothenberger.

* * *

NU alumni who will combine a family reunion with homecoming festivities are Dr. and Mrs. Leo Beattie of Ainsworth, and Dr. and Mrs. John Beattie of Creston, Iowa, who will headquarter at the Hotel Cornhusker for the weekend.

Bridal Courtesies, Plans

A calendar filled with November weddings has been the incentive for numerous bridal courtesies in recent weeks.

Honored at a series of showers recently has been Miss Beverly Jiskra, whose marriage to Larry D. Gish will be an event of Saturday, Nov. 18, at St. Paul Methodist Church.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Jiskra of Swanton, the bride-to-be also was honored recently at a miscellaneous shower held in Swanton, and was presented a linen shower at a party given by members of Mr. Gish's family in Wymore.

Mr. Gish, who is the son of Mrs. Ray Gish and the late Mr. Gish, is completing studies at the University of Nebraska following service with the Army.

A bridal shower Wednesday evening honored November bride-elect, Miss Sandra Kay Wright whose marriage to Michael Gutschenritter will take place Saturday, Nov. 18.

Honoring the soon-to-be bride were Mrs. John Leesley and Mrs. Roger Wright who were hostesses to a group of guests at the home of Mrs. Lessley. During the evening party a linen shower was presented to Miss Wright.

The bride-elect also was presented a miscellaneous shower recently by feminine friends of her family, in Greenwood.

A graduate of the Lincoln School of Commerce, Miss Wright is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne L. Wright of Greenwood. Her fiance, a former student at Omaha University, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Gutschenritter of Red Oak, Iowa.

Next Monday evening, Mrs. Wally Sedden and Mrs. Jerry Kohel will be hostesses in prenuptial courtesy to Miss Cheryl Krohn, who has chosen Saturday, Nov. 18, for her marriage to Stephen M. Schultz of Grand Island.

The party will be held at the home of Mrs. Sedden, and the guests, who have been invited for 7:30 o'clock, will present a miscellaneous shower to the honoree.

Miss Krohn also was honored Tuesday evening when a group of friends presented her with a personal shower at a party for which Miss Angie Rosenthal was hostess at her home.

For the wedding, which will take place at Faith Lutheran Church, Miss Krohn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley W. Krohn, has named her sister, Miss Debby Krohn, as her maid of honor. Her bridesmaids will be Miss Angie Rosenthal and Miss Bonnie Mayberry of Niobrara. Miss Liza McKown of Creighton, will be the flower girl.

Lighting the candles for the 7 o'clock service will be Miss Krohn's brother, Greg Krohn, and her cousin, Miss Pam Krohn.

Russell Schultz of Grand Island, will serve his brother as best man, and the groomsmen will be the bride-elect's brother, Delwin Krohn; Larry Theisenvitz, Grand Island; Stan Burst and Paul Pieper.

ABBY: what's in a name?

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: That letter signed "Just an In-law" got my goat. Why should in-laws be "hurt" over what they are (or are not) called? If the relationship is right, they will be called whatever the new son-in-law or daughter-in-law feels comfortable calling them. If they aren't called anything, that's all right, too. The most important thing is for everyone to feel at ease.

I don't think there is any problem unless a person makes one.

VINCENT

DEAR ABBY: Will you please tell me how mother-in-law got to be such a dirty name?

I have friends with married children who detest being referred to as "my mother-in-law." Why? That's what they are.

I do not wish to be called "mother" by anyone other than my own children. It sounds so forced and artificial.

A young woman comes into the family as a stranger, really, and after having properly addressed me as "Mrs. Jones" during the time my son courted her, suddenly I am "mother"! No thank you.

CALL ME GLADYS

DEAR ABBY: Would you believe that I have been married for 4 years and have avoided addressing my mother-in-law directly because I do not know what to call her?

If she would only say, "Please, call me Hilda, or mother, or mom," I would be so relieved. Please print this as many of my friends have the same problem.

BEWILDERED

DEAR ABBY: Don't tell me about young wives who call their mothers-in-law "mother" out of respect.

I have several friends who call their mothers-in-law "mother" to their faces, but you should hear what they call them behind their backs. Respect? Hah!

Music

By HAROLD C. SCHONBERG
(c) New York Times News Service

New York—It isn't every day that one gets the chance to rub shoulders with one of the great prima donnas of the past, and when an invitation arrived for a ceremony involving Maria Jeritza, we rushed to accept. Mme. Jeritza was receiving an award from the city of Vienna—the Ring of Honor. It was in Vienna that Jeritza made her first success. That was in 1910. She sang Elisabeth in "Tannhauser." Her career was thenceforth tied up with the Vienna Opera and, from 1921, The Met.

She was Puccini's favorite Tosca, and she worried over the fact that she was a blonde. Should she wear a wig? "Madame," gallantly said Puccini, "There are blondes in Italy, and they are the most beautiful women in the world." Jeritza, it so happened, was one of the most beautiful women in the world. She sang her Tosca in all her radiant blondness, and it was she who first sang "Vissi D'arte" from a prone position, thus establishing the tradition.

Her repertory was big. And she sang in a big, glorious, extroverted, temperamental manner with a big, glorious, extroverted voice.

Anyway, she made another entrance the other week at the Park Avenue home of the Austrian Consul General, and she made it as a prima donna should — 20 minutes late, volubly explaining that she had got lost. She is the peppiest 80-year-old you ever saw. She shakes hands, and you quietly retire to count your fingers, so bone-crushing is her grip. She talked, and laughed, and stood indomitably erect, and she wore a string of pearls, each as big as a baseball, and she also wore a diamond brooch, each diamond as big as a basketball. This was the way a prima donna should look. She gracefully stood up to the ordeal. At the end people swarmed around her. There was kissing, there were tears, there was champagne.

Art—harassed and haunted men

By JOHN CANADY
(c) New York Times News Service

New York, Juan Genoves, who was born in Valencia, Spain, in 1930, and now lives in Madrid, has had a dozen one-man shows since 1957, all in Latin countries except one, which was in the Marlborough Galleries in London last February. He has been in 22 other exhibitions, of which only three, including the current Pittsburgh International, have been in the United States. He won an honorary mention in last year's Venice Biennale, and is represented in three American museums — the Guggenheim, the Museum of Modern Art, and the Worcester, Mass., Art Museum, and eight others in Europe, South America and Africa.

These, at any rate, were the statistics when his first one-man show in this country opened not quite two weeks ago at the Marlborough-Gerson Gallery. The puzzle is how a talent so arresting has remained virtually unrecognized in this country, But the question is now beside the point. I do not see how this painter can be anything but one of the most conspicuous contemporary names in New York after the impact of this show.

Genoves's theme is not one that ordinarily makes for an attractive, saleable art. He shows man harassed and hunted down by war machines (the shadows of flocks of bombers sweep across a field as flat and less eventful than a board, where men scatter in flight, pointless because there is no protection anywhere), or by criminals (a minuscule body lies solitary in a vast, featureless space, while two tiny figures crouch and run) or by the unnamed murderous force in "Man Alone" that spotlights its victim as he twists and runs through an empty world and at last is eliminated.

There are other pictures, not many, that are more specific: in "The Prisoner," a man with his hands shackled behind his back is led by two captors down an infinite vista, from nowhere to nowhere, as if in an endless walk toward execution.

But Genoves is most moving when his subjects are most generalized: it is the anonymity of "Man Alone" and of each of the hundreds of little men in the terrified mobs that affects us — because, for whatever reason, it is with these anonymous figures that this artist makes us identify ourselves.

By approximating elements of the look of news photographs, even to the blurring of hasty focus, the elimination of detail by coarse printing on poor paper, and the striations that come from radio transmission (and whether this is the artist's intention I do not know, but it is the effect, which is what counts) Genoves calls on a set of vivifying associations that include, also, news reels and on-the-scene television reportage. But by identifying no time, no place, no individual (all his men are faceless) he replaces "this was" with "this is."

When Goya created his "Horrors Of War," he was first inspired by the Napoleonic invasions, and his murderers and torturers are shown as Napoleonic soldiers. But in the end he was not telling us of a single invasion, or even about war, but about man's capacity for beastliness. In the same way, Genoves's final comment, no matter what his point of departure, concerns 20th-century man's capacity for self destruction.

Books

True American cuisine? No one really knew—not, at least, until the publication of a new, basic American cook book, "America Cooks." Complied by the publishers, G. P. Putnam's Sons, in cooperation with the General Federation of Women's Clubs, the book is the result of a 10-year research program and the energies of a former president of GFWC, Mrs. William H. Hasebrook of West Point, Nebr.

Not since the "Joy Of Cooking" was published more than 20 years ago has such a comprehensive portrait of the American kitchen been available. And it is mostly due to the efforts of a million club members who contributed 3,500 recipes from their treasured personal files along with "how to make it faster" hints, guides for meal planning, nutrition, freezing, wine serving, and many others. Included with members' recipes are contributions by prominent American women.

NFWC Officers

Scheduled for Thursday at the Hotel Cornhusker is an orientation meeting for the new executives of District I of the Nebraska Federation of Women's Clubs.

Presiding at the meeting, to begin at 9:30 o'clock followed by a noon luncheon, will be Miss Ruth Ebmeier, president of the state federation, who is pictured at right (above) with Mrs. Arthur Oestmann of Auburn, newly-elected president of District I.

Elected at the 64th annual fall convention of the district, Tuesday, Oct. 24, at Auburn, other new officers attending the meeting will be Mrs. Kenneth McDonell, Greenwood, first vice president; Mrs. J. B. Douglas, Jr., Tecumseh, second vice president; Mrs. Laurence R. Wiseman, Weeping Water, third vice president; Mrs. Lowell Buerstetta, Tecumseh, secretary; Mrs. Frank Heskett, Auburn, treasurer; and Mrs. Robert Peterson, Lincoln, junior director.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
Pass	Pass	1 ♠	Pass

Opening lead — six of diamonds.

A slight deviation from routine play occasionally produces an unusual result, as it did in this hand which occurred in a team of four match.

At the first table, West led a diamond which declarer won in dummy with the ace. A low spade to the king lost to the ace, and West returned a diamond which South ruffed.

After playing a spade to the queen and a low spade back to the eight, declarer finessed the ten of clubs, losing to the queen. Back came a heart, the queen losing to the king, and South went down one when West returned a club to East's ace.

If you examine all four hands, it would seem that there is no way for South to escape defeat.

But the declarer at the second table succeeded in making the contract by introudcing a slight variation in the play. He also won the diamond lead with the ace, but at trick two he ruffed a diamond instead of leading a low trump to the king.

This deviation from the play at the first table created a problem in defense for eWst which he was unable to solve.

At trick three, declarer led the king of spades which West won with the ace. (Declarer led the king in order to guard against the possibility of West's having the A-J-9.)

Shorn of his safe diamond exit by declarer's play at trick two, West had to choose between returning a heart or a club, and, not knowing how the unseen cards were distributed, he elected to return a heart. This play gave declarer the contract.

NU Coffee

Homecoming activities at the University of Nebraska this weekend will include a 9:30 o'clock to 11:30 o'clock coffee for the alumnae of the department of physical education for women.

Included among those expected to attend the reunion in Bancroft Hall will be Miss Mabel Lee, former head of the department.

Coffee hostesses will be Mrs. Jette Simpson, chairman, Miss Elizabeth Petrakis, Mrs. Patricia Sims and Miss Marilyn Fagerstrom.

Party Planned

Plans for their annual Christmas party were discussed by the members of the Nebraska Alpha Chapter. Delta Theta Chi national cultural and philanthropic sorority at the group's recent meeting.

Mrs. C. E. Mitchell, Jr., was named chairman for the party, and will be assisted by Miss Agnes van Ackeren.

Election

All members of the University of Nebraska chapter of Pi Lambda Theta honorary for women students are urged to attend the meeting to be held at 4:30 o'clock, Thursday afternoon, at the Student Union. The group will hold election of officers.

Rita's

Mailbox

Dear Rita: Am enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope with paper, for the drawings of the horns, eyes, nose, ear and tail of the deer. My sister said she made a deer similar to this out of coat hanger wire with paper mache wrapping, ears, etc. At the bend after making the hind legs, before the back was made, a loop was formed in the wire to make the tail which tilted up. The paper mache was made of strips of newspaper dipped in cold, mixed wall-paper paste and applied.

Padding was w a d d e d newspaper wrapped with the strips to be held in place. Work must be smooth and well firmed so it will hold. After drying, the article may be painted with thick water paint, even enameled, and lastly varnished, if desired. It is heavier when complete than the plastic, I believe.

To make ears, 3 or 4 layers of newspaper were pasted together. While still wet the shape was cut. Fold about one-half inch above the base of the ear, then make a cut from the base to the center of the folded line. The fold goes from side to side of the ear. This will allow the ear to be shaped a bit forward or back to give it character. Then paper strips applied over, behind and in front of the ear (which is sticking up) will make it adhere to the body.

When paper was pasted together to be cut for ears, tail, horns, etc., it was called "buttering the paper."

Wall-paper paste or "wheat f l o u r paste" can be obtained vermin proofed and, while dry, will keep a long time. It is easy to mix in cold water. Paper mache figures are almost impossible to break. They will take a lot of dropping before any part breaks off.

Sincerely, Katherina Kuska, Exeter, Nebr.

Thank you, Katherina Kuska, for the instructions for making the paper mache reindeer. We are indebted to you. You should have your drawings before now. I might mention that we also have the drawings of the turkey parts which are available to our readers. Send a sheet of paper to make the drawings on, and a self-addressed stamped envelope.

The cutest story of the season involves a friend who likes to do nice things for others. She decorated her porch with all of the spooky trimmings for Halloween. To add the final touch, she donned a witches' costume.

Noticing that the smallest of the children seemed to be afraid of her, she would remove her mask and say, "See, I have two faces."

As one such group left her porch she overheard one child say to the others, "Well, now we know where the old witch lives."

We have a new supply of patterns on hand. All requests have been answered. If you have not received your pattern there must have been a slip-up somewhere, so won't you please make another request, including a self-addressed stamped envelope? If you are requesting drawings, please also include a sheet of paper. Patterns available are the net tree (pom), net poodle, net swans, net turkey, and net reindeer. Drawings of parts are available for only the turkey and reindeer.

Send your hints, questions and answers to Rita in care of The Lincoln Star. Send your real name, but if you would rather we didn't use it send a pen name also. We will not publish your real name if you do not wish.

Spring—Fashionwise

By BERNADINE MORRIS
New York Times News Service

New York — Spring, a short season by the fashion clock, may be the time when fashion indulges in one of its spectacular turn-arounds. That's the mood on Seventh Avenue this week, where spring, 1968, is already underway.

In the first of three weeks of showings of new collections, designers appear to be concerned not so much with making clothes that shock as with making women look pretty. Legs are still in; waistlines and even bosoms are back.

"I think in this life we have forgotten simplicity and the pure beauty of a woman," a poster announced in the showroom of Tiffeau & Busch, where clothes cost from $145 to $300.

The words were by Jacques Tiffeau, an "enfant terrible" of the fashion world.

When Tiffeau first raised his hemlines four years ago, everybody gawked. That they are now acceptable helps explain Tiffeau's very special place in the fashion spectrum. He has a way of anticipating how the pace-setters want to look.

His talent is that he can make even chiffon look contemporary. His current crop of chiffons—some of which are no longer than the fingertips—are in prints so brilliant they look psychedelic.

While some dresses swing, others wrap-around the waist or around the bodice, outlining and emphasizing the bosom. Many necklines plunge and plunge. Lest this be misinterpreted, it is not a call for wired bras and iron corsetry. The effect is totally natural.

'Advisers' Urge Strong School Health Education

Dr. Paul Bancroft, Lincoln pediatrician, and Dr. Joe Sills of the University of Nebraska called for a strong health education program headed by a medical director in the Lincoln public schools at a meeting of the Citizens Advisory Committee Wednesday night.

A medical director could fulfill such roles in the Lincoln school district as an administrator of school nurses, director of health education, consultant on health education vocational courses, coordinator of medical services for athletic events and other activities, Bancroft said.

Such a director has been recommended twice by the Lancaster County Medical Society school advisory committee in letters to Supt. Steven Watkins, it was noted.

Never Reached

However, school board member Don Biehn, attending the PTA group's meeting, said the recommendation had never reached the board of education.

Bancroft, who is employed by the school board at the rate of $250 per year for consulting services, said he daily receives calls from school nurses about special problems.

He also emphasized the problem of getting doctors to be present at varsity high school football and basketball games. There is no effort, he added, to provide medical services for the ninth grade inter-school athletic events.

Trainer

Bancroft also called for the provision of a trainer at each high school. Such a person, he pointed out, is a physical therapist who is almost as valuable as a medical doctor in treating athletes.

"There is a tremendous need for developing teaching materials and courses in health and sex education," he declared, stressing that there "needs to be some relationship to the medical profession here."

Sills, chairman of the department of public health and health education at NU, told the PTA group that elementary teachers should be as well prepared to teach health as English.

Advisory Unit Corrects Letter On Languages

The Citizens Advisory Committee on Schools did not mean to say that the foreign language program in the junior high schools had been completely dropped, chairman Dr. Harvey L. Gunderson said Wednesday night.

Correcting a letter that had been sent to school officials and the Board of Education, Gunderson indicated that an editorial change in the wording resulted in an untrue statement.

The committee is aware that some foreign language courses are offered in some of the junior high schools, he said.

Preaching Mission

Tonight, 7:30

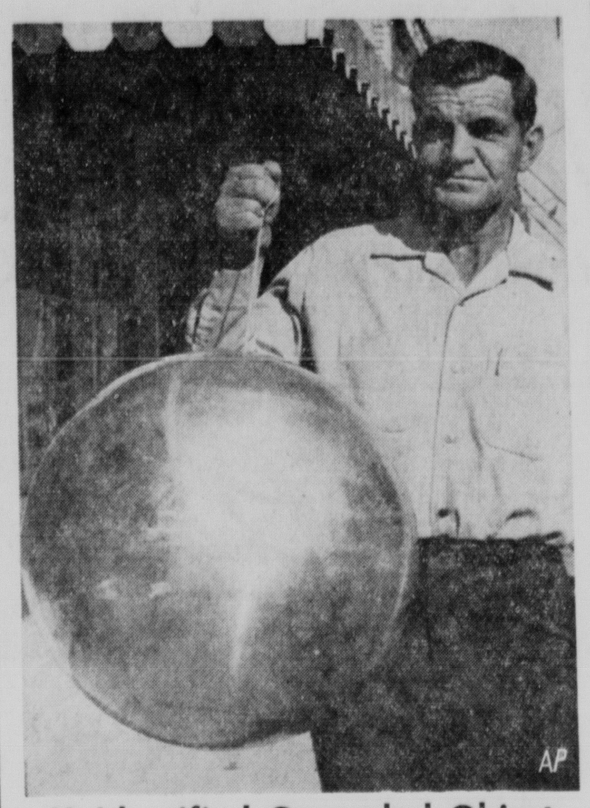
Sponsored by Lincoln's American Baptist Churches: Belmont, First, Second, and Sheridan Boulevard. Series ends Thursday night.



Unidentified Grounded Object

Arkansas farmer Richard Cummings was "a little skittish" when he came upon this 23-inch stainless steel spheroid while hunting wolves 10 miles northeast of Conway. Now he's just puzzled. The nylon string he's holding apparently is attached to a clamp or spring inside the seven-pound object. The Air Force, Weather Bureau and the state Civil Defense Agency haven't been able to tell him what it is.

NU Homecoming Displays Slated For Friday Showing

University of Nebraska alumni and friends will have an opportunity to view 20 homecoming displays starting at 5 p.m. Friday.

To facilitate pedestrian traffic flow around the displays, the following streets will be closed from 5:30 to 10:30 p.m. Friday: 16th Street from Q to Vine Streets; R Street, 13th to 17th Streets; S Street, 14th to 16th Streets, and U Street, 14th to 16th Streets.

Trophies for the first and second place displays will be presented at the homecoming dance in the Coliseum Friday evening. The 1967 homecoming queen also will be announced at the dance.

Alumni will have an opportunity to view the new College of Dentistry building on the East Campus Saturday morning and also may attend the annual Homecoming Luncheon at 11 a.m. Saturday in the Lincoln Hotel.

Debray Informant

La Paz, Bolivia (AP)—A military prosecutor said Regis Debray, French Marxist on trial for guerrilla activities, was the first informant to give authorities solid information that Ernesto Che Guevara was leading the rebels in Bolivia.

Tactics Of 'Opposition' Denounced By Mayor

Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf told about 50 Lincolnites at Trinity Methodist Church Wednesday night that there was nothing he liked better than a good, clean fight (verbal, of course) with his "opposition."

He was speaking at the third of four area meetings to answer any questions on the proposed minimum standards housing ordinance and the $5 million storm sewer bond issue.

"But," the mayor said "the opposition (to the minimum housing proposal) that I am facing is using gestapo tactics by passing out filthy garbage, and using children to do it, that would insult the intelligence and common sense of anyone."

Denounced

Mayor Schwartzkopf denounced his opposition and accused them of misleading the citizens by printing and circulating pamphlets containing what he called "half-truths."

Mayor Schwartzkopf said that his opposition, represented by Charles A. Bates and Otis Glebe, quoted one of his speeches in the pamphlet that tended to mislead the populace.

The mayor said that this was done by quoting only parts of his speech causing the people to gather the wrong impression.

Profitable

Charles Bates accepted the mayor's offer to speak and told the gathering that the mayor wanted, among other things, to buy Air Base housing by using the city's money and then rent it out for a profitable gain.

The mayor quickly rebutted this by saying that he wanted to buy the Air Base housing to keep certain slum landlords from purchasing the buildings and creating another slum.

The mayor told the gathering that the city would then use the housing for senior citizens and other low income families in an attempt to do away with the sub-standard housing that presently exists in some parts of Lincoln.

He then told the people that Lincoln would probably double in size within the next 20 or 25 years and some kind of code should be established that would provide the future generations with decent housing.

$500,000 Suit Alleges Leased Car Defective

Omaha (AP) — The death of Arkadius P. Wolodkewitsch, 28, of Omaha in a car-cattle truck crash near Schuyler Oct. 26 has resulted in the filing of a $500,000 suit in Omaha Federal Court.

The suit was filed by the victim's wife, Carole, of Omaha, against the Chrysler Leasing Corp., alleging that a car leased to Wolodkewitsch was defective and that it veered in defective and that it veered into the semi-trailer truck.

Music news is covered thoroughly in the "Sunday Journal and Star."

September Sales Tax Receipts Up

Nebraska sales tax receipts for September have reached a record monthly high of nearly $5.9 million, State Tax Commissioner Murrell McNeil reported Wednesday.

The figure continues a steady climb recorded ever since the 2½% sales and use tax took effect June 1.

McNeil said there is at least a chance that September collections not yet remitted may boost the month's total to $6 million.

There had been estimates prior to levying of the tax that from $4 million to $5 million a month could be expected.

September receipts as recorded through Wednesday totaled $5,874,078. This compared with August receipts of $5,730,865; July receipts of $5,161,461, and June receipts of $4,284,729.

Beat-the-tax buying prior to June 1 is believed to have kept June revenue in check.

McNeil said the fact that some late receipts could yet boost the September revenue total "does not mean that the money is not being deposited promptly or reports are not being processed promptly." He noted that a number of large corporations are under accounting cycles which call for reporting after the first of the month. Some corporations use a 13-month year and corporations with numerous outlets in Nebraska have central accounting requirements that vary the format of reporting, he noted.

The normal postmarking deadline for remittance to the state of a month's tax rereceipts is the last day of the succeeding month.

Union College Slates Dorm Open House

Union College's new high-rise dormitory for men, featuring wall-to-wall carpeting, kitchenettes and a sauna bath, will have a public open house Sunday, Nov. 19, 1-5 p.m.

The seven-story building, which will house 208 men, has wall-to-wall carpeting, walk-in closets, built-in study desks and sofa beds in each room. There is a bathroom between every two rooms.

Lounge areas, study rooms, and typing rooms are located on every floor. There are two kitchenettes in the dorm, a sauna bath, and a physical fitness room for all men.

A dean's apartment, guest rooms, offices and the main lounge are located on the first floor.

Past State Solon From David City, Schlentz, 91, Dies

Peter N. Schlentz, 91, of 1417 G, a former state senator and David City city councilman, died in Lincoln Wednesday.

Mr. Schlentz was survived by a son, LeRoy, of Lincoln, a daughter, Mrs. C. L. (Lillian) Crawford, Boca Raton, Fla.; a sister, Mrs. Philip Levy, David City; three grandchildren, and six great-grandchildren.

Services for Mr. Schlentz are scheduled for 2 p.m. Saturday at the Knott's Funeral Home in David City. He will be buried in the David City cemetery.

State's 'Patriotic' Youth Unaffected By Draft Policy

"Young people in Nebraska are very patriotic. They cause us no trouble whatsoever," stated Lt. Gen. Guy Henninger, head of the Nebraska Selective Service, Wednesday.

Henninger was replying to a statement by national Selective Service Director Lewis B. Hershey, who recommended in Washington that any students who physically interfere with military recruiting should lose their student deferments and become eligible for the draft.

Commenting on Hershey's letter of Oct. 26, Henninger said he knew of no one who would be affected in Nebraska by such a policy.

Stokes Sniffed Victory

© New York Times Service

Midway in his campaign for mayor of Cleveland, which he won Tuesday, State Rep. Carl Bolden Stokes arrived late at night for a small gathering of Negroes, decided to unwind a bit and confided that he smelled victory in the air.

He carefully hitched up the trouser legs of his conservatively cut suit so as not to spoil the razor sharp crease, perched himself on the corner of a desk and soon was well into one of the monologues that have endeared him — A Negro — to members of his race in Cleveland.

"They (his white opponents) thought all they had to do," he said with a grin, "was

CARL B. STOKES

Man In The News

just to sit back and let 65% of the voters — the whites — vote down the 35% Negro vote.

'Fooled Them'

"Well, Carl Stokes fooled them. I went into every white home that would let me in there and every hall that would have me. I didn't sit back. Carl Stokes doesn't sit back."

He has driven himself steadily upward from a life of poverty in Cleveland's Negro slums.

His father, a laundry worker, died in 1929 when Stokes was 2 years old and his mother supported the family (one other son, Louis, a lawyer) by working as a maid when she could find work and with welfare payments when she could not.

Helped Out

Stokes helped when he was older by delivering newspapers and working in stores.

When he was in high school, Stokes decided he was not earning money fast enough and dropped out to accept a job at wartime wages in a foundry.

When he turned 18, in the closing days of the war, he entered the Army. He later told associates that this was a major turning point in his life.

He took up boxing in the service, discovered that two of the best boxers were college graduates and changed his view of education.

Minnesota Grad

Discharged as a corporal after a year and a half in the Army, he earned his diploma from East Tech High School, enrolled at West Virginia State College and ultimately was graduated after dropping out for three years to work as an investigator for the Ohio state liquor control department, from the University of Minnesota.

He returned to Cleveland and worked as a municipal court probation officer while getting his law degree from the Cleveland-Marshall Law School at night.

He next became an assistant city prosecutor, then left public life to enter a private law practice that soon became lucrative. Among his clients is Cyrus Eaton, the multimillionaire industrialist.

First Negro Demo

In 1952 he became the first Negro Democrat ever to sit in the Ohio House and has held his seat since, earning a reputation as one of the legislature's best-informed, most independent members.

Stokes is married to the former Shirley Edwards and has two children.

He has become a skilled debater with enough polish to impress white audiences without losing his rapport with the city's Negro ghetto residents.

New Jet Bomber Shown By Navy

Washington (UPI) — The Navy demonstrated Wednesday a new carrier-based jet bomber that is subsonic in speed but boasts superior range and bombing accuracy.

Officials said about 1,000 of the planes, called Corsair II, are expected to improve bombing accuracy by 50% in aircraft carrier strikes, reducing the "circle of probable error" from 300 feet to 150 feet.

Randall-Leigh

Hollywood (UPI) — Tony Randall and Janet Leigh will co-star for the first time in "Hello Down There" for producer Ivan Tors.

Senators Nix Remap Measure

Washington (UPI) — The Senate voted 55 to 22 Wednesday to reject a House-passed bill to delay "one-man, one-vote" congressional redistricting until after 1970. It then quickly passed a bill to ban at-large elections for the House.

The measure the Senate turned down, a compromise worked out by conferees from both houses, provided that no state would be required to redistrict until after the 1970 census, unless a special census was held.

The ban on at-large races was offered as a rider on minor bill being considered by the Senate. Offered by Sen. Howard H. Baker Jr., R-Tenn., it passed by voice vote.

Courts

Courts seeking to implement the Supreme Court ruling that each voter should be equally represented can order states to redistrict or elect all House members in at-large races.

House members fear running at-large and Baker's rider was seen as encouraging states to go ahead and redistrict themselves.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., who led the fight to reject the bill, said there "is absolutely no question but that this legislation is unconstitutional."

But the bill's manager, Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., warned the Senate not to "look for some pie in the sky by and by." He said no bill was perfect, but that failure to pass this one would result in chaos and confusion."

Chances Slim

The Senate's rejection of the compromise appeared to have killed chances of passage of any redistricting legislation this session.

During debate, Sen. Joseph S. Clark, D-Pa., said that in good conscience, Senate conferees—"at least five of the six of them"—should resign.

Ervin said he would not resign but he was in "no hurry" to try to do anything about another conference.

The Senate version of the redistricting bill called for redistricting before the 1968 elections with no more than 10% population difference between districts in a state. It also prohibited "gerrymandering"—the drawing up of legislative districts in a way to benefit the party in power—and banned at-large elections.

Hruska Concedes Point

Sen. Roman L. Hruska, R-Neb., leader of the bill's GOP supporters, conceded that the exemption provision was unconstitutional, but he said the bill's opponents were seeking "storybook purity."

"I subscribe to that idea (one-man, one-vote) with limitations," Hruska said, arguing that if states redistricted now they would have to repeat the process after 1970.

Sen. Baker, son-in-law of Republican leader Everett M. Dirksen, joined Kennedy in opposing the bill, although Dirksen is a major supporter of the measure.

"No bill at all is better than this bill," Baker said.

Remap Suit Ruling May Be Speeded

U.S. Senate rejection Wednesday of a congressional reapportionment measure may speed a ruling in the related lawsuit pending in Nebraska.

The senate turned down 55-22 in Washington a House-Senate conference compromise bill, approved earlier by the House, which would have prohibited courts from forcing states to redistrict on the basis of 1960 census figures.

The Nebraska suit designed to force such a remapping of the state's three congressional districts before next year's elections was brought by Lincoln Democrat J. J. Exon, who contends population disparities violate the one-man, one-vote principle.

A three-judge federal court panel took the case under advisement after a three-hour trial last month, but the ranking jurist, Eighth Circuit Court Judge Donald P. Lay of Omaha, said at the time the panel probably would not rule until Congress had completed action on the pending House-Senate compromise bill

The Senate action Wednesday apparently disposed of that bill.

Hartford Has First Woman Mayor In Its History

Hartford, Conn. (AP) — Ann Uccello's looks belie her 45 years. Her claim that she isn't a politician belies her success at the polls.

But she had some qualms Wednesday about being the first woman mayor in the history of Hartford and being a Republican working with a City Council that is dominated by Democrats by a 6-3 margin.

"I'm afraid it may be politics as usual," says the woman who is annoyed by the maneuvering and practically everything else that goes along with the game of politics.

Miss Uccello, who comes from a close-knit family and lives with her parents and two of her five sisters, calls herself a "practical worker" rather than a politician. "I like to work hard and I like to work quietly," she says.

But the post of mayor, while prestigious, especially in Miss Uccello's case, has been largely ceremonial. It's the city manager, an appointive post, who genuinely administers in Hartford.

Miss Uccello became mayor by receiving the most votes among the successful nine candidates for City Council. A Republican councilwoman since 1963, she unseated Democratic Mayor George B. Kinsella, whose brother and grandfather served as mayors before him, and who trailed Miss Uccello by a scant 165 votes in Tuesday's election.

"I can't believe right now that it's true," she said of her victory, "but it's beginning to dawn on me.

"I'm going to concentrate on being mayor," she said. "It's a double challenge — not only as a Republican but as a woman. I want to make women look good — to show that a woman can fill a top position of responsibility.

"I know it's not going to be peaches and cream," she said, adding that she's going to do her best toward focusing on the problems of crime in the streets and improved housing.

Miss Uccello was born in Hartford, went to public schools there and then to St. Joseph College, where she majored in political science. Her interest in government prompted her to run for the city council in 1963.

International Week To Be Held At NU

International Week, a program aimed at creating an atmosphere for furthering world understanding, will be held at the University of Nebraska Nov. 13-19.

International Week, cosponsored by People-to-People and the Nebraska International Association, will provide an opportunity to acquaint the American students with those foreign students attending the university and "to make them more aware of the diversity in world culture," said Pam Cot, president of the People-to-People organization at the university.

A fashion show will open the week, Nov. 13 at 7 p.m., in the Nebraska Union ballroom. Foreign students of the countries represented on campus will model clothing predominant in their respective countries.

Dr. G. Robert Ross, vice chancellor and dean of student affairs, and Dr. Adam C. Breckenridge, vice chancellor and director of international programs, will speak during the evening program.

A cultural display of national costumes, paintings and pottery will be presented from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., Tuesday, at the Nebraska Union.

To initiate a more personal level between the American and foreign students, a tea will be held in the union from 2 to 5 p.m., Wednesday. "In addition to the tea, all living units have been urged to invite a foreign student as a dinner guest sometime during the week," said Miss Cot.

A panel discussion conducted on "Success and Failure of American Foreign Policy" will be presented Thursday evening in the union.

International Week will end Nov. 19, with a soccer game pitting the Nebraska team, composed primarily of foreign students, and the Omaha kickers at 2 p.m. and an international buffet in the evening. Profits from this year's annual buffet will be used to finance a scholarship for a foreign student.

Ten Engineering Students Take Part In Protege Plan

Ten University of Nebraska engineering students and an equal number of the state's professional engineers began a year-long "Protege" project Wednesday, following a luncheon at the Nebraska Union.

"The engineer will spend time periodically with his student protege, showing him how his office is operated and what work he is doing," said Bob Peterson, who is student leader of the program. The "Protege" project is sponsored by the Engineer Executive Board.

The students taking part in the program are selected by the student professional societies in electrical, agricultural, civil, mechanical and chemical engineering. During its first year, 1966-67, the "Protege' project had five students and five professional participants.

The students and the professional engineers are:

Merlin Parde of Douglas, with Roger Ghormley, chief engineer, Lincoln Telephone and Telegraph Co.; Ken Samples of Aurora, with Glenn Carter, director of advanced engineering, Dale Electronics, Columbus; Marvin Paulsen of Minden, with Gayle H. Lewis, field engineer, Portland Cement Acco., Lincoln; Gary Frecks of Culbertson, with John W. Neuberger, general manager, Papio Watershed Board, Omaha; Roland Rossmiller of Chester, with Willard Opocensky, Harold Hoskins and Associates, Lincoln.

22 Sophomores Named To Honorary Society For Men

Twenty-two sophomores have been elected to membership in the University of Nebraska chapter of Phi Eta Sigma, national freshman scholastic honorary society for men.

To be eligible for membership, male students must maintain a 3.5 grade average or higher (4.0 is an A) for his first semester or for the entire freshman year.

New members include:

Amendment Seeks Stronger Meat Inspection Bill

© New York Times Service

Washington—The administration is seeking to strengthen a House-approved meat inspection bill in the Senate and assure that within three years all meat sold in the country will meet federal standards.

The Department of Agriculture has circulated to key senators a proposed amendment that would give states three years to establish adequate inspection programs for meat sold within the state that it is processed. If they failed to act, the federal government would be empowered to apply federal standards.

This would add a "stick" to the House version of the meat inspection bill which the administration supported but also sought unsuccessfully to amend to extend federal inspection immediately to some non-federally inspected plants. Present federal law covers only meat sold interstate.

White House Approval

The White House was understood to have approved the amendment drafted at the Department of Agriculture and will help move it along in the Senate for action before adjournment.

Nearly 83% of the meat sold in this country is federally inspected. The remainder comes from about 14,000 plants without federal inspection and in some states without adequate scrutiny. Department of Agriculture inspectors have reported widespread unsanitary conditions in many plants engaged in intrastate business, even in plants governed by mandatory state inspection.

Only 28 states have laws providing for mandatory inspection, while 12 states have voluntary laws. Eight states are without any meat inspection statutes and two states have limited regulation of meat. Because of inadequate state laws, some major cities adopted stringent inspection laws to assure wholesome meat.

Early Bill Defeated

The House defeated Oct. 31 a move to require federal inspection in all plants doing an annual business of $250,000 or more. This would have covered about 6,000 of the 14,000 plants.

The meat industry, which lobbied heavily in the House to beat the extension of federal inspection to all plants, is expected to accept the new amendment as reasonable because it would not immediately pre-exempt the states' right to set up their own inspection systems.

The House bill would make available federal grants to states if they tighten state laws. But the bill provides no power to the secretary of agriculture to assure that laws meeting federal standards are established. The grants would be retained in the Senate bill but with the time limit imposed on states for action.

As presently drawn, the administration's proposal would empower the secretary of agriculture to work with the states in inspection services governing intrastate meat before and after slaughter. If, at the end of two years, he found that the states had not set up programs, he could impose federal standards to assure completely sanitary conditions. If he found that the states were making progress, he would be empowered to give them another year to complete their systems before imposing federal standards.

Victories Make Negro Leaders Happy

New York (AP)—The broad victories, some of them historic, won by Negroes in Tuesday's election brought uniform smiles to the faces of moderate and militant Negro leaders Wednesday, along with cautious predictions that a trend to disregard color may have begun.

Few were as enthusiastic as A. W. Willis, defeated in last summer's primary election as a candidate for mayor of Memphis, Tenn.

"We're going to see the election of more and more Negroes . . . acceptance by the white community of responsible Negro officeholders will become more and more a normal happening," Willis said.

Backlash Downgraded

But there were statements that the white backlash is not as strong as feared, that whites have shown their willingness to vote on the basis of job qualificatons instead of race, and that extremists on both sides were repudiated.

The election of Negro mayors in Cleveland, Ohio, and Gary, Ind., signifies a stunning defeat for black militants who argue that gains can't be won by the ballot, said Sen. Edward W. Brooke, R-Mass., himself the first Negro elected to the Senate since Reconstruction.

". . . It shows the American Negro he can achieve through lawful means," Brooke said. "The rules are beginning to apply to him as well as others."

But he warned that "the hungry, those with no jobs, those living in deplorable conditions are going to take little hope from the elections in Gary and Cleveland."

'Living Proof'

Whitney M. Young Jr., director of the National Urban League, said Democrat Carl B. Stokes' successful battle in Cleveland, and the narrow election of Democrat Richard G. Hatcher in Gary, are "living proof of what political organization and wise use of the ballot can do to benefit any group."

Those victories — plus the defeat in Boston of Louise Day Hicks, an opponent of busing to provide racial balance in public schools — show, Young said, "that while the backlash is there, it is not as powerful as the demagogues would have us believe."

In addition to those and other Northern victories, Negroes were elected for the first time since Reconstruction to the state legislatures of Virginia and possibly Mississippi.

Negro Sheriff

Six Negroes captured county supervisor, constable and justice of the peace posts in Mississippi, bringing to 24 the number of Negro officeholders in that state, while James M. Bradby defeated a white incumbent who had held the post of sheriff in Charles City County, Va., for 43 years.

Iona W. Adkins, a Negro housewife, comfortably won the Charles City County clerk position, while a Negro was elected to the Boston City Council and two more to school committees in other Massachusetts towns, all for the first time.

The victories "are a complete vindication of the overwhelming majority of the Negro community which says we want a fair chance to get in rather than a disruptive move toward separatism," said Roy Wilkins, executive director of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

CORE, Too

He and a spokesman for the Congress of Racial Equality seemed equally pleased, even though CORE has formally turned itself into a Black Power organization while the NAACP is strongly opposed to the concept.

In Cleveland where he had been helping register Negro voters, Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. said the election of Stokes and Hatcher showed "once again, American voters have successfully hurdled the barrier of race."

King told a news conference the victories represented "A new political fervor among America's Negro citizens. It was their overwhelming turnout which insured victory."

Business Said Planning More Than Agriculture

By GLENN KREUSCHER
Farm Editor

Nearly 1,000 Nebraska Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) committeemen, office employees and state office personnel took a break from workshops on farm programs to study the plans of the world's largest corporations at their annual convention here Wednesday.

In a well documented account of business plans, Charles Frazier of Washington, D.C., a career USDA administrator of state and county ASCS operations, said efforts are lacking in agriculture to compete with business plans for the future.

What will it mean to farmers that by 1985 200 corporations will be operating 80% of all business in the world, asked Frazier.

Can't Compete

He said that farmers don't have the tools or the organization to match big business today.

Perhaps farmers could obtain them, but there is not much time to prepare for survival if farmers don't match the competition, said Frazier.

Frazier, who reported on a two-week study he made in connection with large corporations, said that large businesses are employing young college graduates at $9,000 to $10,000 a year and placing them in training programs where the salary soon moves to $20,000 a year as the search for top future management is on the move in all corners of the country.

He noted that, while business is making careful plans for long term operations, the farmer has little idea of what he will have in agriculture after the expiration of the present four-year farm program.

Investment

Who do we have on the payroll working on agricultural marketing to match the investment being made by large corporations in merchandising, Frazier asked.

He said farmers should be thinking about the availability and should be taking lessons from the plans that have benefited business and industry.

The annual ASCS convention will conclude Thursday morning with an address by Walter W. Wilcox, director of agricultural economics, Washington, DC.

Wilcox will speak on "Impacts of World Markets on Nebraska Grain Prices," and will conclude his address with a question and answer period.

Saunders Honored

The Outstanding ASCS County Office award was presented to The Saunders County ASCS office by Hans Jensen of Aurora, state committee chairman.

Jensen said the award was presented to Saunders County ASCS office for an excellent record of service to farmers, good public relations in area, and for running an economy minded office within the budget allowed for operations.

Jensen noted that the county ASCS offices in the state now employ 26% less people than were on the payroll in 1962.

President Will Visit Military This Weekend On Wide Tour

Washington (AP) — President Johnson undertakes what may be his widest ranging U.S. tour of the year this weekend, visiting military bases in observance of Veterans Day.

The White House declined to say in its announcement Wednesday how many states Johnson would visit or how long he might be on the road. But it seems possible the trip might cover more than the Saturday holiday.

Johnson's limited travels within the country this year provide a marked contrast to his earlier zest for travel and mixing with crowds.

Some observers believe the 1967 travel schedule reflects pressure of official business and security concerns over probable anti-Vietnam demonstrations.

Everroad Taking Nebraska's Sales Story To Phoenix

Omaha (UPI) — Lt. Gov. John E. Everroad will carry Nebraska's sales story to Phoenix, Ariz., this week.

Featured speaker at the Arizona Motor Transport Association convention, Everroad's topic will be "Nebraska . . . On the Threshold of a Second Century of Progress."

While in Arizona the lieutenant governor will meet with Phoenix businessmen and government officials to discuss Nebraska's industrial potential.

Lynda's Fiance Gets 'Texan' Title

Washington (UPI) — Lynda Bird Johnson's fiance, Marine Capt. Charles S. Robb was made a "naturalized Texan" at a pre-wedding party given for the couple by former Supreme Court Justice Tom Clark.

Both President and Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson attended the celebration with about 275 other guests at a swank Washington club.

Equal Job Opportunity Unit To Add Investigator

By VIRGIL FALLOON
Star Staff Writer

The Nebraska Equal Employment Opportunity Commission agreed Wednesday to add a full-time investigator to its staff.

Executive Director Emmett J. Dennis Jr., had also recommended a position of compliance director, but the commission said consideration of this position should be postponed for at least a year.

The additional staff members were requested by Dennis because of "a growing case load" and "additional responsibilities on the commission staff because of 1967 legislation."

The commission instructed its director to bring a modified job description on the investigator's post, plus a salary recommendation and the names of any candidates to the commission's next meeting.

Dennis said the commission's responsibilities were increased by the placement of employes of governmental subdivisions as well as those of private employes under the state's fair employment practices.

The commission discussed in some detail the pace at which the commission should expand its staff and activities.

Mrs. Alyce Wilson, Omaha member, said she "would like to see Nebraska become a leader in the field of equal employment opportunity, and not just wait for what comes before us."

"I feel we should develop a program—not beyond the law, but implementing what is in the law," she added.

But, Chairman R. D. Andersen of Lincoln replied, "Are we (the commission) charged with being a leader by the law or just administering it."

In other action, Dennis reported the staff is attempting to establish guidelines regarding the equal pay provisions of the law and will be conferring with State Labor Commissioner Thomas D. Doyle.

He also reported on a preliminary draft of an application for a $15,000 federal grant that could be used in researching the patterns of equal employment opportunities since the 1965 law.

The commission's staff currently consists of Dennis as executive director and two stenographic-clerical personnel.

The commission also:

—authorized the purchase of an automobile for commission use.

—okayed the development of preliminary plans for a second annual conference on equal employment opportunity in early 1968.

—agreed to request an attorney's general opinion on whether formal hearing on complaints of discrimination —after concillatory efforts fail —should be public or confidential.

— were advised 32 active cases are pending before the commission, including these types of alleged discrimination, 23 racial, 2 national origin, 1 religion and 6 sex.

Participating in the first commission meeting since their appointments were John Rodriquez of Mitchell, Gar Donnelson of Lincoln and Owen G. Neary of Omaha.

More Than $13 Million In Grants Reported By University

Over $13 million in grants from outside sources was received by the University of Nebraska in 1966-67 to finance research, training, fellowships, and special and instructional programs.

Coming from federal, state and private sources, the total was $13,405,794.51 in grants and contracts, according to the annual report of Dr. James C. Olson, research administrator, and the University Research Council.

The 1966-1967 total represented an increase of $4,451,-107.05, 50% over 1965-66.

General grants totalled $4,868,590.29, followed by medical science grants of $4,628,-665.39. A total of $1,628,934.45 was given in the physical science field, and biological science projects received $1,420,375.96. Social science grants totalled $759,777.34, and humanities projects received $99,451.08.

According to colleges, the College of Medicine received the largest share of grant funds, with a total of $3,976,-038.29. Unclassified funds accounted for $3,941,579.49. Next was the College of Arts and Sciences with $2,321,262.43, and the College of Agriculture and Home Economics with $1,933,527.13.

Grants to Teachers College totalled $556,586.72, and the College of Dentistry received $267,607 in funds. The College of Engineering and Architecture was granted $197,392.45, and grants received by the College and Business Administration totalled $163,440. The College of Pharmacy received $46,361 in grants, and College of Law grants totalled $2,000.

Sixty-eight grants and contracts for special programs constituted the largest portion of the total, $5,492,388. A total of 375 research grants provided $5,004,947.26. A sum of $2,045,442 financed 55 training projects. Forty fellowship grants totalling $511,693 were received, and 17 instructional program grants and contracts were received, totalling $351,-319.25.

Business Seems Bound To Get Into Problems Of Cities

By ALBERT L. KRAUS

New York — John Kenneth Galbraith notwithstanding, business seems determined to involve itself in the problems of the cities.

Almost daily some new business leader addresses himself to the task, evoking wonder among such diverse observers as the Wall Street Journal and the columnist Murray Kempton.

The Journal finds that business support for various elements of the antipoverty program has completely confused the outlook for congressional extension of the act. Even the National Association of Manufacturers, it notes, is casting a rare affirmative vote — with important conditions, of course.

Kempton tries to explain business interest in the cities as a shift in fashion.

Amendment

Galbraith has amended what originally was interpreted as his rejection of a role for private business in making the ghettos livable. The amendment, however, does little to dispel the suspicion that the Harvard economist, who gave name to the conventional wisdom, has taken to purveying it.

Professor Galbraith no longer predicts utter failure for all business efforts to rehabilitate the slums. He now condemns only efforts founded solely in good inentions. This truism, which could apply equally to governmental efforts, can hardly be expected to win friends in the business community.

On the other hand, the suspicion is not allayed that Galbraith is saying exactly what many in his audience secretly are hoping to hear—that the problems of the ghettos are too overwhelming to be susceptible to solution by them, here and now, that no involvement is necessary, that only government, impersonal and distant, need respond.

To Shrug It Off?

The suspicion grows that, perhaps unwittingly, what the professor is saying would permit the white community once more to shrug off its moral debt to its Negro neighbors.

Fifteen years ago, the lure of lower wages and escape from the unions caused the New England woolen and worsted industry to follow cotton textiles to the south. In less than a decade, employment in the industry fell to one-tenth its former size.

Although perhaps envious, not all industry could follow. The utilities, retail stores, real estate owners, banks and insurance companies were forced to stay behind. So were the newspapers, which do not always think of themselves as profitmaking institutions.

Bring in New

To find new industry to replace the old, and thus to prop up their own sagging underpinnings, these locally based businesses helped to set up regional development corporations. Their aim: to marshal the capital and provide incentives to bring new business to the region.

The development corporations were empowered to make loans, for instance, to small and growing businesses —but only after the loan applications were certified by banks or other lenders as not creditworthy.

Very soon, it became apparent that the development corporations were making only a few loans. A failure of private industry, the critics shouted.

90% Bankable

Investigation, however, proved something quite different. The bankers, insurance company executives, and other lenders who sat on the boards of the development corporations — and who had certified the loans as not creditworthy — discovered that 90% of the loans they had rejected were bankable.

But this happened only after the professionals in the development corporations had spent days in consultation with the managements of the new companies, had induced them to change certain of their operations and procedures, and had helped them to restructure their loan applications.

Already, in the few weeks since their plan was announced, the 348 insurance companies that have pledged themselves to invest $1 billion in ghetto areas have made a similar discovery. They have found that workable projects are far harder to come by than funds to invest.

The unpleasant realization is now dawning that the industry will have to step into the slums to develop such projects or a substantial community relations liability will result.

China, Soviet Rift Near Permanent

Omaha (AP)—The rift between China and the Soviet Union is "serious and almost permanent," India's minister to the United States said here.

Despite their differences the Soviets probably would assist China should the Vietnam conflict engulf Red China, added Dr. P. K. Banerjee in an interview.

Dr. Banerjee was here to address the Omaha Committee on Foreign Relations at Creighton University. He also toured the Strategic Air Command headquarters.

"North Vietnam cannot be treated as an instrument of international communism trying to destroy the nations of Asia," he said. "There is only one member of the communist bloc against the concept of co-existence still anxious to infiltrate and spread subversion. That is China."

POSTCARD by Stan Delaplane

Here is a letter from Miss Pamela Elfast, quoted in a Japanese hotel magazine:

"If there were beauty contest of the hotel, I would like to recommend the Osaka Royal Hotel.

"Thinking of the role of this hotel in Expo '70, I feel reliable, I'm sure."

I wonder if Pamela said it —just that way.

☆ ☆ ☆

There's many a slip between spoken word and translation. A fact that cuts both ways — Japanese to American, American to Japanese.

You can hire a guide-translator. But he won't translate what you say. He's too polite. Spoken Japanese is indirect. Full of apologies.

"Good morning — excuse me. The mailman has not arrived I see. Pardon me for mentioning it. Mail is often late — forgive my saying so." And so on.

The American says: "Whereinell is the mailman? If I don't get that check today I'm ruined. Ask them when he usually comes."

☆ ☆ ☆

Now you may be a direct boor. But the guide-translator is not going to put himself down by showing he associates with such clods.

He says (in Japanese): "The foreign gentleman enjoys our beautiful Japan. Especially in cherry blossom time." (Big smile. Ah so? Sank you!)

He says to you in English: "They say the mailman will arrive shortly."

This has been discovered by many visitors. Among them Joan Baez. The singer addressed an audience on peace. The translator turned the whole thing into a Chamber of Commerce ballad of praise on Japanese scenery.

☆ ☆ ☆

Rainy, blowy days in Tokyo. A bad-tempered typhoon named Dinah has been clattering through the islands.

In rainy weather, the Japanese put on wooden clogs called geta.

The sound on the streets is a pleasant clackety-clack.

You must give the Japanese full marks on the way they handle footwear. The practical geta. The way they shed their shoes on entering a house. A Japanese thinks wearing dirty shoes from the street into a house is disgustingly unclean. And he is absolutely right.

☆ ☆ ☆

Americans who have lived in Japan for some time become used to the slipperiness of Japanese conversation.

It was customary long before Commodore Perry sailed the U.S. Navy's black ships into Tokyo harbor in 1854.

The noble Samurai sliced people in half for the least breach of etiquette. And were applauded for their action and swordsmanship. ("Nice going, Samurai! I particularly liked the way you carved the last one.")

Said a Japanese: "The commodore deplored such customs. But you must remember that even the Japanese who was executed approved of the system."

Bad manners lose face for the person. But also for the person who is the victim of such bad manners.

Japanese (like most people of the Far East) detest bodily contact. A Japanese shakes hands with you because it is the Western thing to do. Inwardly he shudders. Shaking hands is like grabbing a fish in the market.

Western hotels, Western dress, Western food are embraced.

☆ ☆ ☆

Commodore Perry was aghast at Japanese customs. Rich and poor bathed once a day. The Navy was lucky to get a bath once a month.

The Samurai cut up people for bad manners. The Navy only flogged them to death.

It is still confusing today. Thinking of role of same, I feel reliable, I'm sure.

NU Extension Unit Issues First High School Diploma

Elizabeth O. Schuelke, who is living with her parents in Heidelberg, Germany, has been granted the first high school diploma issued by the University of Nebraska Extension Division.

Her diploma was signed by Chancellor Clifford M. Hardin in a special ceremony.

It was the first issued since the Extension Division's pre-college correspondence course was given Class A accreditation by the Nebraska State Board of Education.

Before this year, the Extension Division had been allowed only to issue a certificate that indicated a student had completed the equivalent of a high school education. Now it can issue the diploma which is acceptable at all colleges and universities.

Miss Schuelke, 22, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert T. Schuelke. She completed the last two years of high school through correspondence courses from Nebraska's Extension Division. Her father is director of Amerika-Haus in Heidelberg.

Alcoholics Center Urged For Lincoln

By LUCILLE HOWARD
Star Staff Writer

An alcoholic rehabilitation center for salvageable alcoholics was recommended by a study committee to the Lincoln Hospital and Health Council here Wednesday.

Members of the alcoholic rehabilitation center committee formed by the council unanimously adopted a report by Lincoln psychiatrist Dr. John Baldwin generally outlining an inpatient and outpatient facility available to any individual.

The committee also recommended that the council establish two groups to form a corporate body to develop such a center and to investigate financing.

Cost Estimated

Baldwin had previously told the hospital council that he estimated the proposed rehabilitation program would cost $50,000 to $100,000 initial capital outlay and $100,000 to $150,000 annual operating costs.

The study committee rejected a proposal to consider use of professional consultants in preparing a budget for the center although hospital council President Joe R. Seacrest indicated that some $2,000 might be made available by the council for such help.

Strongly urging use of professional help for the budget, Seacrest said the hospital council is not in a position to contribute money to the center but can assist in planning the program.

Patterned

Committee members generally agreed that a proposed budget might be patterned after the budget of a similar center in Norton, Kan.

Baldwin emphasized that the director should have a free hand in determining what persons would be treated by the center. He indicated in the report that the director should be able to make his choice of specific treatment philosophy and be responsible for evaluating results of the center.

The center, Baldwin explained, should be an "intensive, flexible psychotherapeutic-oriented inpatient and outpatient facility promoted to rehabilitating salvageable alcoholics and including medical and psychiatric consultative services, groups and/or individual counseling or therapy, vocational rehabilitation, social casework, clinical psychological services and physical or recreative therapy."

Provisions

Other provisions for the proposed center outlined in the report included:

—A homelike or residential atmosphere starting with 20-25 beds.

—Follow-up outpatient services.

Not Included

—The facility will not include services for the drying-out or detoxification of acute alcoholics. Hospital and medical care will be provided by existing facilities.

—The program should be at least 50% self-supporting with rehabilitated alcoholics paying for care and treatment. Contributions from the local level are "highly desirable."

—Staff, in addition to the director, should include an assistant, vocational rehabilitation counselors, a social worker, psychiatric aide, practical nurse or registered nurse and other professional personnel according to the load of patients.

Cornhusker Kiwanis Club Cites Wolff For Youth Work

Billy Wolff, longtime Lincoln bicycle shop operator, Wednesday night received the distinguished service award of the Cornhusker Kiwanis Club.

BILLY WOLFF
Receives Award

Club members said the award was purposely given to "someone unrecognized in the past" but who had "contributed much to others."

Wolff has operated a bicycle shop in Lincoln since 1915.

The citation pointed to bicycle rodeos sponsored by Wolff, Halloween days which he originated as a means to keep youngsters out of mischief, 20 years in charge of youth activities for the Elks Club, for 25 years as head of youth activities for the State Fair and 25 years as head of American Legion children's activities. He has also been cycling counselor the the Boy Scouts for 40 years.

Wolff also was praised for work with boys referred to him by juvenile court, one today a bank president and another who had stolen 18 cars now the head of a large plumbing firm in California.

"Here then is a product of a childhood of caresses and kindness who in turn has lived a life of devotion to children," the citation said.

Lincoln Library Committees For 1967-68 Are Announced

Mrs. A. B. Winter, president of the Lincoln Library Board, Wednesday announced committee appointments for 1967-68.

Appointments were:

Administrative: Jack Hart, chairman; Mrs. Eames Irvin.

Finance: Dr. Walt Weaver, chairman; Chauncey Barney.

Building and grounds: Mrs. Bennet Martin, chairman; Dale Young.

New building (unit II of Bennett Martin Public Library): Barney, chairman; Hart.

New Building

At the monthly board meeting, Director Charles Dalrymple noted that start of construction of the new unit II addition to the main library will be delayed until next week due to mechanical difficulties.

While razing older buildings to make room for the new addition, contractors noted the necessity to eliminate live steam from the work area.

New Connection

A new steam connection to the main library will be completed next week without a stop in service, Dalrymple reported.

He also announced that all public libraries will be closed on Saturday, Veterans Day, instead of Friday.

Employes will receive days off on a revised schedule, he said.

7-Month Crime Study Finished

. . . 'Citizen Involvement' Urged

Omaha (AP) — The Citizens Crime Commission concluded seven months of work Wednesday expressing hope the end of its task will mark the beginning of "citizen involvement" in the war on crime.

Chairman W. W. Keenan said that two recommendations made in the 177-page report stand out above all the others.

Evaluation Sought

They recommended that Mayor A. V. Sorensen set up machinery to evaluate the report and implement every recommendation possible, and that a permanent crime commission — preferably privately financed — be setup as a watchdog over the operation and administration of criminal justice in Omaha.

Police Chief Richard R. Andersen said the study "is not going into the dusty archieves. It will be studied and implemented in every way it can."

Other recommendations by the 40-member commission included:

—Building a new police headquarters.

—Eliminating private law practice among city attorneys.

—Developing more effective probation procedures in Juvenile Court.

—Establishing an "aggressive" police public relations program.

—Declaring marijuana a noxious weed.

—Creating a council on alcoholism.

Quaker Ship Abandons Plan To Take Haiphong Supplies

. . . Buddhist Monk From Omaha In Crew

Hong Kong (UPI)—A Buddhist monk from Omaha, Neb., is a member on the crew of the Quaker ship Phoenix who Wednesday abandoned plans to sail to Haiphong and decided to deliver the $5,000 cargo of medical supplies to Da Nang in South Vietnam.

The Omahan was identified as Brian Victorian 27, who now lives in Japan.

The decision not to sail for Haiphong came because of American bombing of North Vietnam.

At a news conference Wednesday, George Lackey, project director of the Quaker action group of Philadelphia, said North Vietnamese President Ho Chi Minh cabled him that "barbarous American air attacks" prevented the trip.

Lackey said that although the crew still hopes for future runs to the north, and possible help to the Viet Cong, the 50-foot Phoenix will sail for Da Nang Tuesday, with or without South Vietnamese visas.

Lackey said he received the telegram in September, shortly after the Phoenix arrived in Hong Kong from Hiroshima, but was "foolishly optimistic that there would be a long bombing pause to enable us to sail to Haiphong."

Lackey said there was no loss of face in the change of plans because "medical supplies and medical assistance in South Vietnam have broken down far more than in North Vietnam."

The drugs and surgical instruments will be delivered to the Red Cross and the unified Buddhist Church of South Vietnam, he said.

Poppes Accepted For Peace Corps

Ogallala — Mr. and Mrs. William R. Poppe have been accepted as Peace Corps volunteers assigned to El Salvador. Poppe is the son of the Rev. and Mrs. Louis G. Poppe of Ogallala.

The Poppes completed 13 weeks of training at the Peace Corps Training Center in Puerto Rico. They formerly lived in Whitewater, Kan., where Poppe taught in high school and Mrs. Poppe was a secretary in the school system.

Parasite Control Seminar Planned

Grand Island—Aerial application of insecticides to cattle is one of the external parasite control procedures which Dr. Earle Raun will discuss at a cattle parasites seminar at Liederkranz Hall here Nov. 16.

Dr. Raun, chairman of the University of Nebraska Entomology Department, will also discuss cattle grub life cycles, killing stable and horn flies with mist blowers and feedlot sanitation at the conference, which is sponsored by the Merck and Co. and Nebraska Livestock Feeders Association.

State Colleges' 'Inefficiency' Hit

Scottsbluff (AP) — The State Normal Board has been criticized for alleged inefficiency in using state college businesses.

The charge was made by a member of the State Board of Education, Robert G. Simmons.

Simmons told the Scottsbluff Lions Club, some state college dormitory rooms are not filled and the Normal Board maintains empty rooms do not cost the taxpayers any money.

Potter Is Choice

Cozad — Earl Potter of Cozad was named president of the Cozad Chamber of Commerce for the 1967-68 term. Potter served on the board last year as vice president. Max Rathman, administrator of the Cozad hospital, was named vice president of the group.

Silent Movie

Hollywood (UPI) — Gene Autry, Rudy Vallee and George Raft will make guest appearances in the all-silent movie, "The Silent Treatment," starring Marty Ingels.

Speed Limits Put On Planes Below 10,000

Washington (UPI) — The Federal Aviation Administration Wednesday imposed speed limits for airplanes operating in the crowded lower altitudes to try to cut down on an increasing number of in-flight collisions.

The FAA said that beginning Dec. 15, all planes operating below 10,000 feet mean sea level would be restricted to flying less than 250 knots, 288 miles an hour.

The order "is intended to give pilots more time to 'see and avoid' other air traffic in the nation's most heavily traveled air space," the FAA said.

Growing Number

The agency cited the growing number of high performance airplanes using the airspace below 10,000 feet in issuing its order.

At present, the only speed limitations imposed on air traffic are those for aircraft arriving at an airport. That limitation is for an airspeed of 250 knots when below 10,000 feet and within 30 miles of their destination.

The FAA said that the bulk of all flying is done below 10,000 feet. "The rule is designed to promote the safe separation of aircraft in this airspace . . ." the agency said.

Maximum Performance

The rule, the FAA said, would "promote a safer and more efficient utilization of airspace." It explained that pilots of many high-speed planes probably would choose to fly above 10,000 feet in order to gain maximum performance.

"This would promote segregation of the airspace by aircraft speeds which would benefit the air traffic control system, and thus the users," the FAA added.

GOODBYE, AMERICA

Tears slide down the cheeks of 16-year-old Ana Mercedes Mangles of Puerto La Cruz, Venezuela, as she looks out her bus window to say goodbye to her new American friends at Murray High School in St. Paul, Minn. She is a member of "Operation Amigo," which brings selected Latin American students to U.S. cities for two weeks of living with an American family.

Voters Show Up Wrong Day

Redwood City, Calif. (AP) — Several hundred confused citizens showed up at familiar polling places Tuesday to vote in the San Mateo County special congressional election, in which Shirley Temple Black is one of 10 candidates.

They were surprised to learn that the congressional election is scheduled for Tuesday, Nov. 14, and that there wasn't any election on Tuesday, Nov. 7.

A great many called the county clerk's office to protest because the polls were not open.

There also were numerous inquiries from distant points to newspapers and news services, wanting to know how Shirley came out.

There were municipal elections Tuesday in nearby San Francisco and many cities throughout the nation, but the only elections here were on small local issues in seven special fire and school districts.

Wilson Files Additional Suit For 'False' Arrest

. . . Seeks Total $40,000 Damages

Lexington (AP)—James R. Wilson of Lexington has filed an additional suit to recover $20,000 in damages, claiming he was falsely arrested in connection with the Oct. 9 Elm Creek bank robbery. He had previously sued for a similar amount.

Larry Harold Wilson, 26, a former resident of the Lexington area, has been charged with the robbery.

In the new action James R. Wilson seeks to recover $20,000 damages from Trooper Martin Gutschenritter, the Nebraska Patrol and Lexington Policeman John Wiley. He claims false arrest, false imprisonment and public humiliation.

In the previous suit Wilson and his wife, Rose, asked $20,000 in damages for an alleged occurrence at the Wilson home in Lexington the day of the robbery.

'Abusive Threats'

Wilson contended the defendants "without warrant or other process, broke and entered the residence occupied by the Wilsons, accosted him, dragged him from the premises to an automobile at the curb and that he was subjected to questioning, interrogation, abusive threats and demands by the defendants that he produce the details of a bank robbery that took place at Elm Creek, Neb., the same day."

Wilson alleged he suffered great mental anguish and was placed in fear of his own safety and the safety of his family and that he has suffered damage to his reputation and integrity.

Blast Blamed On Grain Dust Accumulation

State Deputy Fire Marshal William Watson said that an Oct. 28 explosion at a Farmers Co-op Elevator grain storage tank in Tekamah was caused by grain dust accumulation.

Damage to the 240,000-bushel bolted steel storage tank was estimated at between $50,000 and $60,000.

The tank contained about 80,000 bushels of corn and 10,000 to 15,000 bushels of milo.

Elevator Manager Kenneth Method has not released an estimate of damage to the grain. A grain dryer was also damaged in the blast.

Hogan Awarded Silver Beaver

Hastings (AP)—Howard Hogan of Hastings, currently vice president of the Overland Trails Boy Scout Council and former chairman of the Pony Express District, has been awarded the Silver Beaver, the highest district award for an adult scouter.

Hogan received the award at a Pony Express district Boy Scout appreciation banquet.

GOP Pre-Primary Meet Criticized By Democrat

By The Associated Press

Republican Party plans to hold a pre-primary convention next year to name a national committeeman and a national committeewoman came under fire Wednesday night from Mrs. Maurine Biegert of Shickley, Democratic national committeewoman.

Noting that delegates to that convention will be those elected to last year's post-primary convention, Mrs. Biegert said, "I'm sure the rank and file Republicans must be faced with the grim futility of filing for county conventions or seeking elections to a post-primary state convention where their party leaders have already been elected.

"If not a legal right, certainly it is a moral right to allow duly elected representatives to exercise their freedom of choice."

The remarks were prepared for delivery at a Young Democrats meeting at Nebraska Wesleyan University.

Mrs. Biegert also took note of Republican Gov. Norbert T. Tiemann's suggestion last week that the Democrats would do better to improve their party organization than spend their time criticizing the Republican state administration.

"We appreciate his tongue-in-cheek remark concerning the welfare of the Democratic Party," said Mrs. Biegert, "but perhaps Gov. Tiemann would be better advised to offer the same recommendations to his own political party.

"Certainly a party that emerged from a successful campaign should not be facing a power struggle within its own back yard in a situation that has been labelled as 'Who is No. 1?'."

100 North Vietnamese Killed In 5-Hour Battle

Saigon (AP) — U.S. 4th Infantry Division troops fought a bloody five-hour battle Wednesday in the jungled central highlands of South Vietnam and found 100 North Vietnamese bodies in a sweep of the battlefield Thursday, American officers reported.

In the air war, U.S. Air Force jets made a concentrated assault all along the main northwest railroad line linking Hanoi with Red China.

Heavy fighting in the Dak To area of the central highlands in the last few days may be a prelude to Communist dry season offensives.

More Fire

Before the two companies of infantrymen could complete their sweep of the battlefield near Dak To, 270 miles north of Saigon, they came under still another small arms and mortar attack, the second in less than 24 hours.

"There are more North Vietnam bodies in the area," said a 4th Division spokesman, "but we had to stop our sweep because of the new attack."

The 4th Division troops suffered six killed and 15 wounded, officers said, when they came under a five-hour heavy ground, mortar and rocket assault as they were moving into night defensive positions late Wednesday. Simultaneously, a battalion artillery support base nearby came under mortar attack.

Counterbombing

Under a massive counterbombardment by artillery, jet fighter-bombers and twin-engine C47s armed with rapid-firing Gatling guns, the Communists broke contact Wednesday night but sporadic fire continued through the night. Many of the enemy casualties apparently were from the artillery and air strikes.

Early Thursday morning, after B52 bombers unloaded a string of 750,000 pounds of bombs to the west of the battlefield in efforts to block a withdrawal by the North Vietnamese troops, the American infantrymen began pushing out from their night defensive positions to sweep the battlefield.

When the Communists opened up again with small arms and mortars, the infantrymen again called in air strikes and artillery to pound the enemy positions.

3 Borders

Dak To is along the triborder region of South Vietnam, Laos and Cambodia, where the North Vietnamese reportedly have up to six regiments poised for a possible offensive across the center of South Vietnam. U.S. infantrymen have been conducting numerous search operations in efforts to check a Communist thrust.

Since last Friday, units of the 4th Division and 173rd Airborne Brigade have run into fierce fighting with North Vietnamese elements in the Dak To area, the heaviest in more than three months in the central highlands.

U.S. officers said 204 North Vietnamese troops have been killed since last Friday compared to 44 American dead and 130 wounded. The Americans also reportedly captured more than 200 weapons.

Less than 100 miles to the south, another base and command post of the 4th Division came under mortar attack early Thursday. Communist gunners lobbed in 35 rounds of 85mm mortar on the American positions, killing one and wounding 11, headquarters said.

B52s Called In

The U.S. command called in B52 saturation bombers Thursday to support the infantrymen. The eight-engined Stratoforts blasted suspected North Vietnamese base camps, caves and defensive positions 10 miles southwest of Dak To.

Two other ground actions also were reported. U.S. Marines operating south of Da Nang, in the An Hoa area where fierce fighting took place two days ago, reported a short but heavy fight with Communist troops Wednesday. The Marines reported killing 13 while suffering no casualties.

Closer to Saigon, units of the U.S. 9th Infantry Division clashed with about 100 Viet Cong troops 19 miles south-southwest of the capital. The infantrymen reported killing five of the enemy. American casualties were reported as 14 wounded.

Mild Earthquake Damages Sicily

Enna, Sicily (AP)—A mild earthquake shook central Sicily Wednesday for the fourth time in nine days, damaging more than 100 houses and leaving scores of families homeless.

No deaths nor injuries were reported.

Egyptians Guarantee 'Israel's Right To Exist'

© New York Times Service

Cairo — Egyptian government's chief spokesman said Wednesday the United Arab Republic guaranteed "the right of Israel to exist."

Observers here said the declaration was the U.A.R.'s strongest public affirmation since the June war that it was not bound to infringe on Israel's security.

The spokesman, Dr. Mohammed H. El-Zayyat, also criticized the United Nations Security Council's draft resolution on the Middle East crisis that was put forward Tuesday by the United States. He said, "It does not say that aggressors should finish their aggression."

Answering reporters' written questions, El-Zayyat went on to imply that the U.A.R. wanted ro resume diplomatic relations with the U.S. and would aid Jordan if she were attacked by Israel because "we are faithful to all our commitments."

Cairo's commitment to guarantee Israel's existence, he said, was embodied in the Egyptian - Israeli armistice agreements of 1949.

"We do know Israel exists, we have signed a piece of paper (the agreement); we did not sign it with shadows," he continued. He observed, however, that his statement was "not a recognition of Israel."

This disclaimer was taken to refer to diplomatic recognition or to recognition of the legitimacy of Israel as a state.

El-Zayyat recalled that the U.A.R. had never denounced the agreement, which stipulates "the right of each party to its security and freedom from fear of attack by the armed forces of the other shall be fully respected."

Freezing Weather Hits All 48 Mainland States

By United Press International

Forty-eight mainland states had freezing temperatures Wednesday.

Record lows were set for the date at Atlanta, Ga., 27; Augusta, Ga., 23; Savannah, Ga., 29, and Macon, Ga., 24.

Temperatures dropped into the teens in north-central Arkansas and parts of the Virginia mountains. Watertown, N.Y., had 17 degrees in the morning.

The Central Plains and Midwest warmed up in the day with brisk, southwesterly winds raising the temperature 20 to 30 degrees into the 40s and 50s.

Sunny weather covered most of the country. Rain fell from the Pacific Coast inland to Idaho, on Florida's southeast coast and over much of Texas. A few showers and snow flurries occurred in northern Minnesota and in the north and central Appalachians.

Bodies of water in New Hampshire cover 115,000 acres and vary from small ponds to Lake Winnipesaukee, 22 miles long and 8 miles wide.

Forms Now Available For Cash Tax Refunds

. . . On Property Sold In '66-67

By GERRY SWITZER
Star Staff Writer

Forms for taxpayers who sold real estate during 1966 or 1967 are now available in the Lancaster County Assessor's office for making application for cash refunds on paid 1966 taxes declared illegal in a court ruling.

The refunds stem from a Nebraska Supreme Court ruling earlier this year which struck down valuation increases placed on real estate in Lancaster County by the State Board of Equalization.

Assessor Fritz Meyer said the forms may be picked up in his office or will be mailed upon request.

Can't Be Transferred

He said credits cannot be made on the 1967 taxes of individuals who transferred property and may own another property in the county since credits cannot be transferred from one legal description to another.

Credits will be applied only on the 1967 taxes of a property which remains in the same ownership as when the taxes were paid, and cash refunds will be made where a transfer is involved.

Meyer said the cash refunds are being made to the individual who paid taxes on the property in 1966; and unless that individual makes application for the refund, a refund will not be given to anyone since the new owner is not entitled to a refund on taxes which he did not pay.

According to Lancaster County Attorney Paul Douglas, transfers of property where there are unusual situations such as purchase on contract or assumption of loans will be handled on an individual basis.

These individuals are urged to discuss their particular situations with the assessor so that the refund or credit may be made to the right person, Douglas said.

Loan companies have indicated that they are not handling the refunds for their mortgagees who sell property but that the matter is between the seller and realtor or buyer.

About 20%

Meyer said the refunds amount to approximately 20% of a taxpayer's total 1966 county real estate tax bill, so that an individual who paid $500 in 1966 taxes would receive a credit of approximately $100 on 1967 taxes or a cash refund in the case of a property transfer.

Persons who have not transferred their real estate and who have already filed a claim for refund or for whom a claim was filed by a loan company or bank need not file any further information but will receive the credit when they pay their 1967 taxes which are due Jan. 1, 1968, the first half of which becomes delinquent May 1 and the second half Sept. 1, 1968.

Schools Apply For $252,498 In Higher Education Grants

Nebraska's public and private institutions of higher education have applied for federal grants totaling $209,431 for instructional equipment and $43,067 for closed circuit television equipment for the current fiscal year.

If Nebraska is allotted as much as was available last year, the applications would exceed available funds by some $118,000, according to Dr. Rex C. Engebretson, director of the Nebraska Higher Education Facilities Commission.

The deadline for applications for the grants was Oct. 31. The commission decides which applications shall receive priority consideration.

The schools asking federal funds for instructional equipment included Creighton, $39,728; Doane, $980; Kearney State, $9,002; Nebraska Wesleyan, $17,244; Omaha University, $30,052; Peru State, $11,214; College of St. Mary, $14,504; University of Nebraska, $72,833; Wayne State, $9,406; and York, $4,469.

The closed circuit TV applications included Creighton, $7,037; Kearney State, $13,526; Nebraska Wesleyan, $4,218; Omaha University, $3,345; University of Nebraska, $11,191, and Wayne State, $3,750.

The grants are provided under the 1965 U.S. Higher Education Act.

Lincoln Winner For Most Ideas From Post Office

Lincoln's Post Office Department was named Wednesday as the winner of the regional director's trophy for the outstanding suggestion program in fiscal 1967. Charles W. Shoemake, regional director, made the presentation to Lincoln Postmaster Kenneth P. Lewis.

The 675 employees of the Post Office in Lincoln made 657 suggestions, of which 225 were pnt in practice.

Post offices in Oklahoma, Kansas, and Nebraska competed for the award. Lincoln's office won the award once before in 1964.

Here is a practical little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add three. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures gives you.

Huskers' Defensive Backfield Suffers Another Blow

By HAL BROWN
Star Sports Writer

Nebraska's defensive backfield corps may have suffered another blow Wednesday in its preparations for Saturday's Homecoming encounter against Oklahoma State at Memorial Stadium.

Randy Reeves, the sophomore from Omaha who moved in the starting defensive backfield because of the injury to Dana Stephenson, suffered a compound dislocation of a finger Tuesday and was taken to the NU Student Health Center.

"If there is no fracture, he should be able to play Saturday with no problems," NU physical therapist George Sullivan said. "However, if there is a fracture, it could cause him some trouble."

With Stephenson on the sidelines except for punting duties, head coach Bob Devaney was hopeful X-rays would prove favorable.

"I also had some hopes that Stephenson would be able to play some defense for us Saturday," Devaney said. "But now, I am quite sure we won't be able to use him for anything other than punting."

Stephenson suffered a bruised shoulder two weeks ago in the win over Texas Christian and was limited to punting duties last week against Iowa State.

The Nebraska defense that ranks No. 1 nationally in total defense and is third in rushing defense likely will face the toughest running attack it has met since becoming No. 1 two weeks ago.

"We have a great deal of respect for Jack Reynolds (OSU fullback)," Devaney pointed out Wednesday. "He hurt us badly last year and we know he is a good runner.

"They also have a good runner in Larry Gosney and we certainly hope we can come up with something defensively to stop those two.

"In addition, Ronnie Johnson runs well from that quarterback spot," Devaney concluded.

Super Bowl May Gross $3 Million

Miami, Fla. (AP) — Pro football Commissioner Pete Rozelle predicted Wednesday the world championship game to be played in Miami's Orange Bowl would be the first in history to gross in excess of $3 million.

Ticket sales would bring in $796,822 based on an expected full house of 75,546. Television and radio broadcasting revenue of $2.5 million would bring the total to $3,296,822.

This would top by a large margin the $2,768,260 grossed from last year's inaugural championship game between the National and American League champions played in the Los Angeles Coliseum before a disappointing crowd of 63,036.

Rozelle announced to a news conference that the Orange Bowl committee will handle the public ticket sales for the Jan. 14, 1968, Super Bowl and the 13,000 holders of season tickets for the Miami Dolphin games will receive priority in ticket purchases.

The stadium will oe scaled from a price of $12 for side line tickets between the goal lines to $8 for side line tickets behind the goal line and $6 for the end zone. Mail orders for $12 tickets will be accepted immediately. Lower priced ticket will be placed on public sale at the Orange Bowl starting Nov. 27.

Approximately 55,000 tickets will be available to the public, 34,000 through the mail order sale and 13,000 at the windows.

Each competing team will be allocated 5,000 tickets, and the other pro clubs will receive additional priorities.

Joe Robbie, managing director of Miami's American league team, said the game would make Miami the annual, or at last biennial, home of the Super Bowl.

The game will be blacked out within a 75-mile radius of Miami, which means that Fort Myers and Orlando would be the closest cities where it could be viewed on television.

The Green Bay Packers defeated the Kansas City Chiefs 35-10 in the first AFL-NFL playoff. Tickets for that game were priced at $12, $10, and $6 and the gross ticket sale was $707,560.

The television and radio rights to the Columbia Broadcasting System were increased this year from $2 million to $2.5 million.

Each player and coach on this year's winning team will receive a $15,000 share of the net receipts. Each losing player and coach will get $7,500.

At 40 players per club, the amount paid out in this manner would be $1,102,500. The remainedr of the net receipts will be distributed 50 per cent to the player benefit plans of the two leagues, five percent to each competing club, 10 per cent to each league office and 20 per cent to Rozell's office.

Rozelle said orders for tickets should be addressed to World Championship Games, Box 748, Miami, Fla.

FCA Meeting At NU Union Next Tuesday

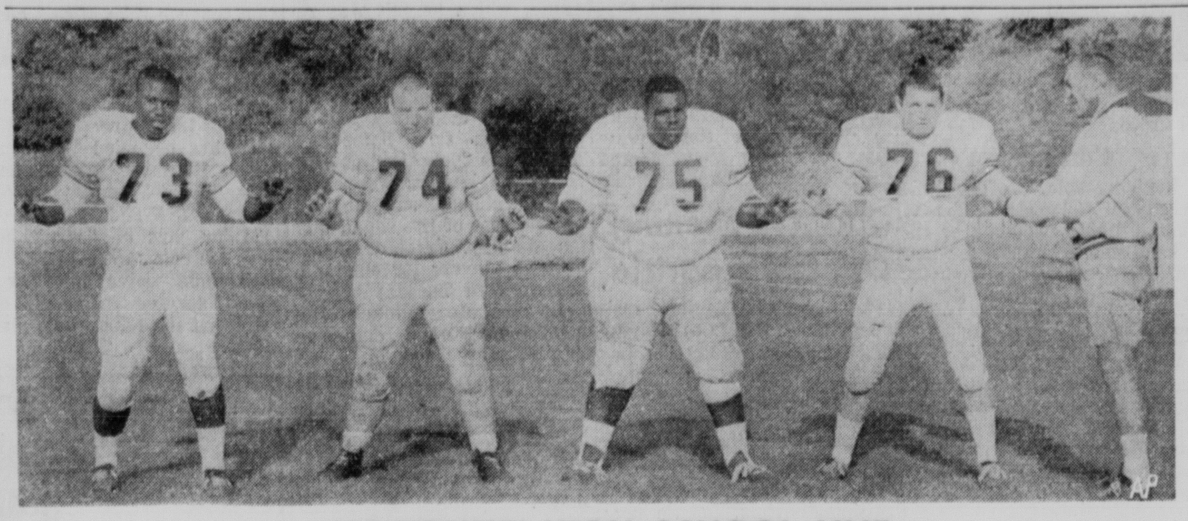
A Fellowship of Christian Athletes program has been lined up for the Nebraska Union at 8 p.m. Tuesday.

James Jeffreys, executive director of the FCA, will be the featured speaker. He is a former all-Southwest Conference halfback who played pro football for the Los Angeles Rams.

A few Nebraska athletes, including football stars Joe Orduna and Randy Reeves, also will appear on the program.

Program chairman Tom Osborne, an NU assistant football coach, stresses that all interested persons are welcome. "We are interested in haviing men, women and children there," Osborne says, "And we are especially interested in having athletes and coaches present."

AFL SELECTS BUONICONTI



313-POUND HIGH SCHOOL LINE

Boston Star Top Defender

. . . SPEARHEADED 18-7 WIN

New York (AP) — Nick Buoniconti, Boston's man in the middle, introduced himself rather abruptly to Houston's Roy Hopkins. And he didn't even say how do you do.

Buoniconti, named the American Football League's Defensive Player of the Week by The Associated Press Wednesday, spearheaded the defensive effort that carried the Patriots to an 18-7 victory over the Houston Oilers last Sunday.

He personally accounted for two of those points by tackling Hopkins, a rookie runner, in the end zone for a safety on the last play of the third period.

The Oilers, trailing, 6-0, were stranded near the goal line when quarterback Pete Beathard took the snap from center. Buoniconti burst through the right side and Beathard, who had been running away from Boston's middle linebacker all day, wanted no more of him.

So, with nowhere to go and nothing but Buoniconti to look foreward to, Beathard handed the ball to Hopkins. That only delayed the inevitable. A split second later, Buoniconti slammed into Hopkins and the Patriots had an 8-0 lead.

The tackle was one of six unassisted stops Buoniconti made against the Oilers, who learned the hard way that Boston's tough linebacker is regaining his oldtime form.

A kidney infection sidelined Buoniconti for one month and cost him 20 pounds at the end of the training season. Then a virus attack slowed his recovery.

Now Nick insists he is back at full strength although some opponents say he seems smaller than in other years. He was big enough for Houston, though.

Willie Mitchell of Kansas City intercepted two passes, returning one for a touchdown as the Chiefs bombed the New York Jets 42-18.

Mitchell also had 11 tackles and broke up another pass as the Chiefs' defense kept Joe Namath under constant pressure.

Coach Hank Stram said it is amusing how opponents try to exploit Mitchell. "I wonder," Stream said, "when they are going to realize he's one of the finest cornerbtcks in the game."

At Denver, rookie Jack Lentz made eight solo tackles and deflected four passes as the Broncos threw a scare into Oakland before losing, 21-17.

Hopeful Will Bypass Olympics

New York (AP) — Olympic boxing titles have been helpful springboards to Floyd Patterson, Cassius Clay, Joe Frazier and Nino Benvenuti among others, but 18-year-old Forest Ward, rated a prime prospect for heavyweight honors at Mexico City in 1968, is passing up the glory for gold.

Ward is a growing Brooklyn schoolboy who already has collected a golden harvest of amateur awards including the Golden Gloves, National AAU and Pan-American Games championship prizes. He figured to be outstanding for the 1968 Olympics at Mexico City next October.

But the 6-foot-2, 200-pounder is not waiting. He makes his pro debut in an all-heavyweight card at Madison Square Garden Friday night. His opponent in a six-rounder will be Larry Renaud, a Canadian from Rouyn, Quebec, with a 23-4 record.

"Forest didn't want to wait 14-15 months until the Olympics," said his manager, Gil Clancy, who also handles middleweight champion Emile Griffith and several other good fighters. "It is time that could be wasted for him.

"Sure, an Olympic heavyweight title like Frazier won at Tokyo in '64 would be an asset to Ward. But let's face it, anything can happen in three-round amateur bouts. Another year in the amateurs wouldn't help Ward toward his pro start. He's ready now.'

Clancy made the decision to turn Ward pro after the youngster tangled with a southpaw German with some 200 amateur fights behind him.

"Does he need this?" asked Clancy then. "He'd be better off fighting, learning and getting paid in the pros. I first saw him when he was 14 and when he was 16 I said I had to have him. He's the greatest prospect around, a young Joe Louis."

Ward has a facial resemblance to Sugar Ray Robinson and a boxer-puncher style in the manner of Louis. Now if he can fight half as well as either of the retired ring greats in their prime he could be on his way to the top ranks in two years.

World Cup Golf Starts Today

. . . AMERICANS NICKLAUS, PALMER FAVORED TO DEFEND CHAMPIONSHIP

Mexico City (AP)—The defending champion U.S. team of Jack Nicklaus and Arnold Palmer is paired with Ireland's Ryder Cuppers, Hugh Boyle and Christy O'Connor, today in the opening round of the 15th World Cup golf competition.

The millionaire Americans jetted to the scene Tuesday in their private planes and found themselves rated solid 2-1 favorites against 39 other handpicked teams from throughout the world.

Nicklaus took a quick exploratory swing around the 7,216-yard, par 72 Club de Golf Mexico, but Palmer delayed his first practice until Wednesday.

The length of the course, the longest over which this tournament ever has been played, and the fact that the ball flies farther in the 1½ mile-high Mexico City altitude has made the two long-hitting Yanks almost prohibitive choices.

Both are expected to reach the par five holes easily in two shots and reduce many of the par fours to simple wedge approaches.

Chief threat to the Americans is the South African pair of Gary Player and Harold Henning, who swept both the team and individual titles in 1965.

Player was the individual winner, rated 6-1 in the informal and non-betting odds.

Also rated highly are Canada's George Knudson and Al Balding; Australia's Bruce Crampton and Allen Murray and all of the four teams from the British Isles-Wales, Ireland Scotland and England.

The latter teams are made up of seasoned Ryder Cup players who have just finished battling the U.S. top pros in the biennial international series at Houston, Texas. O'Connor and Boyle will be among the toughest.

Knudson, the Canadian, is defending champion in the individual competition, having beaten out Hideyo Sygimoto of Japan in a playoff in Tokyo last year.

Palmer has shared in five team championships, three with Nicklaus, but never has taken the individual crown. Like the American PGA title, it is an honor he is eager to grab before his career ends.

Nicklaus, who has held every other major pro crown, has won two individual championships in the World Cup in addition to sharing in the three team titles.

Leading money winner in the United States with nearly $190,000, holder of the U.S. Open title and at 27 rated the best golfer in the world, he is favored to take his third individual championship. Palmer and Player are his main threats.

Roberto de Vicenzo, the 43-year-old veteran from Argentina who won the British Open this year, withdrew because of weariness and his place was taken by Fidel De Luca.

The first group, Mexico and Japan, tee off at 9 a.m. CST. The only four amateurs in the event, representing Norway and Czechoslovakia, go off last at 12:10 p.m. cst.

Pawnee City Rambles Over Hebron, 34-6

By RICK AKIN
Prep Sports Writer

Pawnee City — Aggressive Pawnee City won the Southern Nebraska Conference football championship here Wednesday night, unleashing Terry Borcher to three touchdowns to crumple limping Hebron, 34-6.

The Indians, rated sixth in the Class C Nebraska Prep Ratings, just a step behind Hebron, sent Borcher for 218 yards rushing and three touchdowns to complete a 9-1 season with Class B Auburn its only conqueror.

It was as even as could be through the first half but Pawnee City ran off a quick touchdown in the third period and struck for three in the final period, taking advantage of a Bear fumble and an interception.

Hebron, who had lost only to Minden, was obviously dejected when star fullback Doug Day injured his hip on the first series of plays as he rolled over the down marker on the sidelines. Day played all right, but was not his usual efficient self.

Quarterback Larry Mathiesen was also limping on an injured ankle through most of the game for Hebron.

Pawnee City started things off when quarterback Kenny Bowman threw to Dick Fischer to put the ball on the Hebron 20 and on the next play, Borcher swept off the left side for a touchdown with 2:30 left. Bowman's extra point kick was good.

Midway through the second period, Hebron's Lonnie Wiedel intercepted a pass and swept the midfield and from there Hebron drove in with Day accounting for the final yard but failing on a PAT run to make the score 7-6.

The rest of the game was all Pawnee City's.

Borcher put the Indians in the lead for good with a 20-yard run in the third quarter. Then Bowman sneaked one yard at the opening of the fourth quarter to put Pawnee City in command.

Borcher rambled 10 yards midway in the fourth period upping the advantage to 27-6, then Bowman finished off the scoring parade with a 29-yard run just 30 seconds before the game's end.

Political Wins Harder For Ex-Hurler Friend

. . . ELECTED COUNTY CONTROLLER

Pittsburgh (AP) — Bob Friend won 197 major league baseball games as a pitcher. He's 1-0 as a politician.

But he missed that bullpen help.

Friend was elected Allegheny County controller in Tuesday's election, upsetting county Democratic chairman James W. Knox, who had held the office for 20 years.

"It's quite a thrill, being the first time out," said Friend, whose last campaign in Pittsburgh was controlling enemy batters for 15 seasons with the Pirates.

Like a veteran ball player, Friend gave much of the credit to the team behind him.

"I've never seen such teamwork in a campaign," he said. "It paid off."

Friend trailed Knox in the early morning hours when the strongly democratic city votes were in and the county ballots were still being counted.

"After we came out of the city, I thought I'd move ahead. But I couldn't close the gap for about two hours," Friend said.

He said it was like coming down to the ninth inning in a tight game, "but there was no ElRoy Face in the bullpen."

Friend said the pressure over the last few weeks was as much as he faced in any ball game. And in his 16 major league seasons he was in a lot of big ball games. The big right-hander won 22 very long," he said. "It's a hell of a big county. And when three-day rotation."

He pitched for the Yankees and the Mets in 1966, his last season.

"You don't have as much control over the results of an election as you do a ball game," Friend said. "Here you go all out and meet the public and they decide the outcome of the contest."

Friend said his campaign pushed to get his qualifications over to the public. He holds an economics degree from Purdue University and is in the investment-banking business.

"It's one thing to be a baseball player. But, so what?" Friend reflected. He said he put in 20 hours a day telling people he was more than a ball player.

"I went to 40 mill gates and talked to workers," said Friend. It helped gain him the labor endorsement.

"Politics is a good competitive game now that I'm out of baseball," Friend said just before the May primary. Now that the long political season is over, he has found it a grueling game also.

"I'm 1-and-0, but if I have to go to the post 197 times in this business, I won't live very long," he said. "It's a h

Husker Crowd Second Largest Last Weekend

The 65,078 fans in attendance at the Nebraska-Iowa State game in Memorial Stadium represented the second largest crowd to witness a collegiate football game in the country last weekend.

Nebraska ticket manager Jim Pittenger said Wednesday only the Michigan State-Ohio State throng of 76,235 at East Lansing topped the Husker-Cyclone match.

The Nebraska crowd was not a stadium record. That was set three weeks ago when 65,766 fans turned out for the Nebraska-Colorado battle.

Cards' Coaches Sign '68 Pacts

St. Louis (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals announced Wednesday four members of the baseball team's coaching staff have signed contracts for 1968.

The returnees are Joe Schultz, Dick Sisler, Bob Milliken and Billy Muffett.

"The coaches were a big factor in helping win the pennant and the World Series and we're very pleased they'll be back with us," said manager Red Schoendienst.

Redlegs' Shamsky Traded To Mets

Cincinnati (AP) — Cincinnati first-baseman-outfielder Art Shamsky was traded to the New York Mets Wednesday for infielder Bob Johnson, Reds' officials announced.

Johnson, 31, registered his best year in the majors in 1967 as he hit .348 and slammed eight doubles, three triples and five home runs.

Johnson spent six years in the American League before being traded from Baltimore to New York on May 10.

Shamsky, 26, played for Cincinnati three years and hit .197 in 1967.

Test Game Goals Rise To 12 Feet

Knoxville, Tenn. (AP)—Would 12-foot baskets help the tall or the short basketball players?

Tennessee's basketball team may provide some answers in its annual intrasquad orange-white game Thursday night. The Volunteers will shoot at 12-foot baskets, two feet higher than standard.

Coach Ray Mears agreed to experiment with 12-foot baskets at the request of Sports Illustrated.

"We've got several tall players on our squad and we agreed to use the 12-foot baskets to help out in research Sports Illustrated is conducting on the effect higher baskets would have on the game," Mears said.

"Personally, I've never been in favor of altering the 10-foot basket. I think the higher basket would hurt the small man more than the tall one. For one thing, it will reduce his shooting range.

"But, of course, no one really knows and we hope to provide some answers."

Mears has attempted to divide his squad equally for the test game.

Tennessee's tallest player is 7-foot Tom Boerwinkle, all-Southeastern on last year's league champions. Tall Tom led the SEC in rebounds with 285 in 28 games. He will be on the orange squad.

Tallest men on the white team will be Bobby Croft, 6-foot-10, and Latty Mansfield, 6-foot-8. Both are sophomores.

Smallest man on the floor will be Dick Johnston, 5-foot-8. He's a sophomore playmaker and will be on the orange team.

EPC Has Space On Mizzou Trip

The Nebraska Extra Point Club has space remaining on its bus trip to the Missouri football game at Columbia next weekend.

The bus will leave at 5 a.m. Nov. 18 and will go directly to Columbia. Saturday night will be spent in Kansas City with the return trip set to Lincoln Nov. 19. Arrangements are being handled by Lincoln Tour and Travel.

Big 8 Football Workouts

Kansas

Lawrence, Kan. (AP)— Kansas University football coach Pepper Rodgers expressed dissatisfaction with the Jayhawks' showing in Wednesday's practice session.

"We didn't do things right," said Rodgers, "although some of the squad members played good."

KU scout Dick Tomey warned that Colorado which meets Kansas Saturday in Boulder, will be tough.

"Their defensive people are the biggest and strongest we've played against," Tomey said. "This is a very crucial game for them and they've got to win to have what they call a respectable season."

Tomey said Colorado's defense is the finest secondary in the league.

Colorado

Boulder, Colo. (AP)—The University of Colorado Buffaloes took a light, two-hour workout in sweat clothes for the third consecutive day Wednesday in preparation for Saturday's Big Eight football game with Kansas at Boulder.

Wilmer Cooks, John Farler and Mike Pruett still remained on the list of doubtful starters. To add to the miseries of Coach Eddie Crowder, Cooks' replacement, Tom Nigbur, is down with the flu.

Kansas will be Colorado's last home opponent of the season.

Oklahoma

Norman, Okla. (AP) — Oklahoma football coach Chuck Fairbanks drilled his team until dusk Tuesday, concentrating mainly on blocking assignments against Iowa State defenses.

Fairbanks said the Sooners "had a good practice" and "we got quite a lot of work done as far as our game plans are concerned."

Floodlights were turned on before the practice session ended.

Missouri

Columbia, Mo. (AP) — Offensive guard Alan Pepper was back in pads and working out with Missouri's football team Wednesday, leaving only defensive guard Carl Garber sidelined as the Tigers wound up the heavy phase of their preparations for Saturday's game with Kansas State here.

Coach Dan Devine excused the offensive unit a little earlier than he had planned when, during a field goal kicking drill, tackle Jim Anderson booted a successful 37-yarder against a stiff wind.

"I told them that if he made it, they could go in," Devine grinned afterward, "but I really didn't think he could."

Kansas State

Manhattan (AP)—Coach Vince Gibson of Kansas State says his team's offense is improving but that it needs better blocking.

"We've been working our heads off but that's the only way you can get the winning edge," Gibson commented after Wednesday's workout.

"I'm really impressed by Dan Devine's coaching," Gibson said. "When you get players like Missouri has you can really have some fun."

Assistant Sam Robertsonl who scouted Missouri at Oklahoma State Saturday, said the Tigers make the most of their opportunities.

Missouri got good field position on a long punt return and then went in for their winning touchdown, he added.

Oklahoma State

Stillwater, Okla. (AP)—Coach Phil Cutchin worked his Oklahoma State football players Tuesday on their kicking game, which he felt was responsible for Cowboy troubles in their 7-0 loss to Missouri last week.

OSU players held their final contact drills Tuesday in preparation for Saturday's game with Nebraska at Lincoln. The kickers were kept at work about ten minutes after the rest of the squad quit for the day. Cutchin singled out two players for outstanding work in Tuesday's practice—alternate fullback Duane Porter and defensive guard Jimmy Goodwin.

Iowa State

Ames, Iowa (AP)—Iowa State held a 90-minute practice session Wednesday with 25 minutes devoted to live scrimmage.

Coach Clay Stapleton said sophomore linebacker Larry Thompson has recovered from a knee injury and should be available for at least part-time duty against Oklahoma Saturday. Thompson has missed the last two games.

Dodgers Seeking Orioles' Aparicio

Los Angeles (AP)—Vice President E. J. (Buzzie) Bavasi disclosed Wednesday the Los Angeles Dodgers are interested in making a deal for shortstop Luis Aparicio of the Baltimore Orioles — but the deal is up to the Orioles.

"Yes, we are interested in getting Aparicio, and we have talked to Harry Dalton of the Orioles," said Bavasi. "If we can satisfy them, we'll get the shortstop. If we can't, that's the end of it."

Bavasi would not go into details but Baltimore reportedly is seeking pitching help.

The Dodgers feel Aparicio, a star in the American League for years, has several good seasons left and would fill the void which developed when Maury Wills was traded to Pittsburgh last season.

Mira Likely Free To Go

Miami, Fla. (AP) — George Mira, the forgotten quarterback of the San Francisco 49ers, may become a test case of the unwritten rule that forbids player jumping between the National and American Football Leagues.

Creighton Miller, attorney for the NFL Players' Association, told the Miami Herald Wednesday that when Mira plays out his option with the 49ers May 1, 1968, he should be free to deal with any club that wants him.

If not, Miller said, he would recommend "without reservation to the Players Association that we take Mira's case to court. That would be restraint under the anti-trust laws."

Mira, a sensational quarterback at the University of Miami, has occupied the 49ers bench for three seasons and says "there is simply no future for me here."

Miller says he doesn't believe the rule that every NFL club must waive on Mira would survive in court, or even that the NFL would risk a test.

Huskers Lead Big 8 Assault

New York City — Nebraska's defensive Black Shirts, the top defensive unit among the nation's major colleges, leads a Big Eight invasion of the nation's defensive statistical charts, according to the National Collegiate Sports Services.

The Huskers' defensive average of 144.3 is the best in total defense and the Huskers rank third in rushing defense at 53.4, only five yards behind Tulsa's leading total, and sixth in pass defense with 90.9.

Missouri is sixth in total defense at 192.4 while Oklahoma State, Nebraska's Saturday foe is third in pass defense at 84.5 and Oklahoma is fifth at 87.2.

Kansas State ranks eighth in punting at 41.8.

Three Big Eight teams are in the top five in defense against scoring with Oklahoma No. 1 at 2.7, Missouri fourth at 6.6 and Nebraska fifth at 7.4.

How's your won-lost record? Bad?

Small matter if you belong to college football's Top 40. That's a tight little society of the nation's strongest teams.

They keep playing among themselves and knocking each other off. You can lose in this category and still be one of the best.

They represent the top rated one-third of the 116 major schools.

For example, Louisiana State, despite a 4-2-1 record, ranks No. 10 this week in our Index, which disregards won-lost and measures only average strength per performance (scoring margin combined with opposition rating). bined with opposition rating).

There are 650 college teams in the USA, but LSU's seven opponents to date have the following ranking numbers: 6, 7, 8, 21, 25, 36 and 65. This week's opponent, Alabama, ranks No. 17 to add more woe to the Tiger program.

Of 28 U.S. teams still undefeated and untied only four belong to the exclusive Top 40.

Here are Index differences which national leaders show over this week's adversaries:

Southern Cal 12 over Oregon St.
Notre Dame 36 over Pitt
Houston 15 over Memphis St.
N.C. State 8 over Penn St.
Purdue 6 over Minnesota
Tennessee 18 over Tulane
Miami, Fla. 13 over Ga. Tech (Fri.)
Georgia 9 over Florida
LSU 3 over Alabama
Oklahoma 25 over Iowa St.

That's par — not a forecast —and shows what they must do in order to maintain present ratings.

The higher rating teams have won in 76.3% of the 1,326 games, excluding ties, covered here through last week.

Schedule with ratings follows:

Automatic Scorer Set For Keglers

© New York Times Service

New York—Bowling, which enjoyed a multimillion-dollar renaissance in the 1950's with the advent of the automatic pin-setter, is hoping to emerge from its current slump with the introduction of another electronic marvel—the automatic scorer.

The Brunswick Corporation Tuesday announced that it would accept orders for purchase or lease of the Brunswick Automatic Scorer, which received the American Bowling Congress seal of approval in early August.

The scorer is a digital computer linked to a detection system in the automatic pin-setter. In a fraction of a second it registers the pinfall after each ball is rolled. It calculates and prints the score frame by frame on a score-sheet and, at the same time, projects it to a large overhead screen above the foul line.

There are provisions for entering a team handicap, for fouls, error correction, late-arriving bowlers and provisional balls.

The automatic scorer is expected to bring new speed to the sport and eliminate inaccuracies.

Robert Reynolds, a West Coast electronics calculator expert, conceived the idea of the automatic scorer in the mid-1940's. Since then, he has worked, with Brunswick technicians, on perfecting the machine.

According to Milton Rudo, the president of Brunswick's bowling division, the purchase price is slightly under $3,000 per lane, installed. Lease terms are for a 10-year period at five cents per line with an annual minimum of $450. Bowlers using the device will have to pay about a dime a line extra.

Each scoring unit services four lanes and has three components—one console and two bowler - identification panels (each panel services two lanes). After inserting scoring cards in the console—behind the bowlers' countour chairs and minitables — the bowlers need only be concerned with the identification panels when play begins.

The bowler has only to move the identification lever to his name each time his turn to bowl arrives.

Big 8 Really 'Balanced'

. . . STATS IMPRESSIVE

By The Associated Press

Rushing - passing balance and offense-defense balance are greater than ever before in Big Eight football.

Maybe that is the reason for the unprecedented balance which has produced a tight title race.

The balance shows up in many ways:

1. Every team except Kansas State is averaging more yardage on the ground than in the air, yet six teams are making more than 100 yards a game in the air, for the first time in league history, and a seventh team is just under 100.

2. In spite of the improved passing, the Big Eight owns three of the nation's top six pass defense teams. Oklahoma State is third, allowing 84.5 yards a game, Oklahoma is No. 5 at 87.2 and Nebraska No. 6 at 90.9.

3. The Big Eight is still near the top as a rushing league. Oklahoma is No. 5 nationally with a 245.3 average. Missouri has a 202.4 average. It takes balance, however, to rank high in total offense these days. Nebraska is second in the league with 325.6 run-pass yards a game and Kansas is third at 301.7 although they rank 4-5 in rushing. Oklahoma is the total offense leader, of course, with a 355.3 average.

4. Along with the league's strong offensive record, it may be the nation's toughest in defense. Nebraska, for instance, is the national leader in total defense at 144.3, Missouri is No. 6 with a 192.4 average and Oklahoma is close to the top 10 with 205.7. On the scoreboard, it's no contest, Oklahoma is No. 1 in the nation, giving up only 2.7 points a game, Missouri is third with a 6.6 allowance and Nebraska fifth at 7.4. Nebraska also is No. 3 nationally in rushing defense at 53.4.

Nebraska is the league passing leader with 148.3 yards a game.

Hunting Clock

Shooting hours for deer, turkey, and antelope are one-half hour before sunrise to one-half hour after sunset. Hours for the early teal season, rails, and snipe are sunrise to sunset. Quail hours are one-half hour before sunrise to one-half hour before sunset. All other game may be taken from one-half hour before sunrise to sunset.

The following applies to any point in Nebraska that is due north or due south of each of the cities and towns. For each 13 miles west of any designated city add one minute, and for each 13 miles east subtract one minute. Valentine and Scottsbluff schedules are Mountain Daylight Time. All others are Central Daylight Time. Hunters should set their watches according to the time zone in which they are hunting.

Financial Status Of OU Lacking

. . . Claims Pedersen

Omaha (AP)—State Sen. Henry F. Pedersen Jr. of Omaha has charged that the University of Omaha did not give legislators complete information on the university's financial status when seeking an appropriation last spring.

Pedersen said the legislators probably would not have appropriated the $4,009,170 granted the University contingent on merger with the University of Nebraska if they had had the complete information.

He cited a May 4 memorandum from Omaha U. President Kirk Naylor to O.U. Controller Harold Keefover, which he said showed that tuition could have been lowered. But he said O.U. officials feared such a move would affect the state appropriation.

Memo Included

Sen. Pedersen, a leading opponent of the merger of Omaha U. with the University of Nebraska, said he obtained the memorandum from the Legislative Council after the legislative session was over. He said he had asked for some information and the memo was among the documents received.

A sheet attached to the memo showed that tuition could have been cut from $18 a credit hour to $15 and still would have left the University with $274,420 more in its 1967-1968 budget than it had in the 1966-1967 budget. If the merger is approved the tuition is slated to go to $15 in the 1968-1968 term.

The memo quoted Dr. Naylor as saying he believed the appropriation "could suffer" if a tuition increase were announced prior to the state budget appropriation.

Keefover said O.U. officials had decided not to cut tuition because a larger budget was needed to meet rising costs, hire additional faculty members and pay other expenses.

Fall Claims Life Of Mrs. Phelan, Pastor's Mother

Ogallala (AP)—Mrs. Catherine D. Phelan, 80, died Wednesday after about four weeks' hospitalization following a fall in which she suffered a broken hip.

She was the mother of the Rev. Walter Phelan, pastor of St. Luke's Catholic Church in Ogallala, with whom she lived.

Other survivors are a daughter, Mrs. Anna M. Pauly of Whittier, Calif.; a son, James J. of Omaha; two brothers, Frank Noonan of Scotia and T. R. Noonan of Spalding; a sister, Mrs. Jane Haggerty of Spalding, and nine grandchildren.

Funeral masses will be said at St. Luke's Church at 9:30 a.m. Friday and St. Michael's Church in Spalding at 10:30 a.m. Saturday.

Peterson Renamed

Omaha (AP)—Walter W. Peterson of Chappell was re-elected to the Farm Credit Board of Omaha for a three-year term. Peterson has served on the board since 1959. He was re-elected by stockholders of the Omaha Bank for Co-operatives.

'Tough' Draft Policy Follows Top Talks

Washington (UPI) — Lt. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey said Wednesday that his new "get tough" directive against anti-war demonstrators who disrupt draft operations and military recruitment was issued after consultation with the White House.

However, he told a news conference that "I want it to be perfectly clear that this is the sole responsibility of the director of Selective Service.

The Selective Service chief recommended that local draft boards order induction or assist in the prosecution of draft law violators. His letter was dated Oct. 26, several days after pacifist demonstrators stormed the Pentagon while President Johnson was at the White House for the weekend.

No Comment

The White House had no comment on whether or to what extent it was involved in the drafting of Hershey's letter.

After the Pentagon incident, about 100 students at Oberlin College in Ohio trapped a Navy recruiter in his car for four hours before they were dispersed by police.

Hershey maintained that a college deferment from the draft is no longer in the national interest when the student holder attempts to interfere with the process of raising manpower for the armed forces.

Quota Exceeded

He conceded before newsmen that despite increasing efforts to block the operations of military recruiting and induction centers and draft board offices, draft and enlisted inductions exceeded the national manpower quota last year by 10,000 men.

Asked why he had ordered a harder line on student deferments if this were the case, Hershey replied, "Just because someone has been shooting at you and missing doesn't mean that you shouldn't try to do something about it."

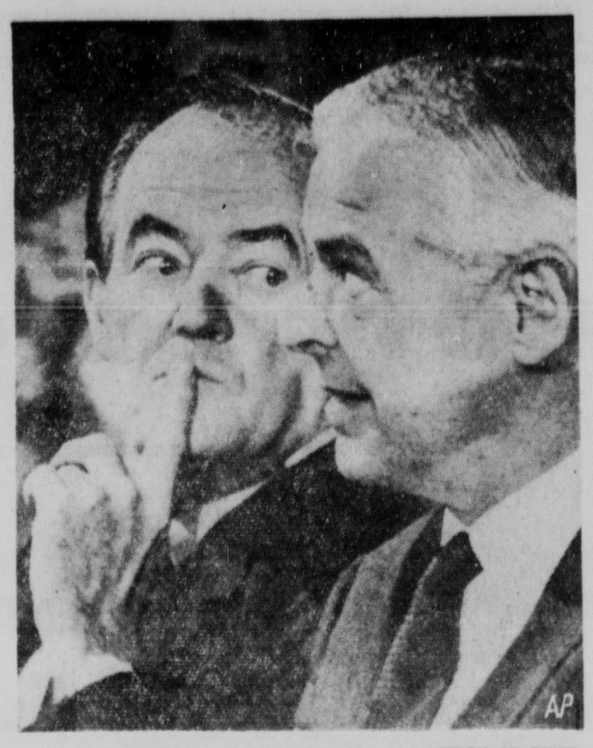
Hershey also was asked whether the Selective Service was using the draft as a means of punishing law violators. "It would be impossible for me, after spending 56 years connected with the military, to consider military service a punishment," he said.

White House Role

On the role of the White House, he said:

"It would be very hard around here not to confer with the White House. There are a lot of people over there to talk to. Yes, you could say we conferred with the White House. But I'm not here to tell you what the director of Selective Service is doing. I'm here to tell you what the director of Selective Service is doing."

Hershey said he had urged draft boards, which have ultimate responsibility for selecting draftees, to reclassify any registrant who has interfered with Selective Service operations or has broken any other laws while engaged in anti-war demonstrations.



STORY AT RIGHT

Humphrey Is Optimistic On Vietnam

Washington (UPI) — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey gave President Johnson, Cabinet officers and key congressional leaders an optimistic review of the Vietnam conflict Wednesday.

Humphrey, who returned Tuesday from an 11-day trip to Southeast Asia, reported "significant changes" for the better in Vietnam since his last visit to the area in February, 1966, White House press secretary George Christian said.

Among those present was Chairman J. William Fulbright of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, a persistent critic of the administration's Vietnam policy.

Christian refused to discuss the meeting further and Humphrey later told newsmen "I don't know if I will be cleared by the President" to discuss his trip with reporters later.

Restored Building Fully Operational

Woodville, Tex. (UPI) — Restoration of frontier villages may not be new, but Heritage Garden is unique in that it is the real thing.

The Z. C. Collier General Store, fully stocked with merchandise of the era, looks as it did in 1854. Hand-cranked wall telephones connect buildings and the village blacksmith shop is fully operational.

CAB May Review 2nd Lincoln Petition

By MILAN WALL
Star Staff Writer

A representative of the Washington counsel for the Lincoln Airport Authority told Authority members Wednesday the Civil Aeronautics Board (CAB) may consider Lincoln's petition for reconsideration as an intervener in the service to Omaha case.

But Robert Meiser, of the Washington law firm Ginsburg and Feldman, told the group the reconsideration "could come tomorrow or it could take weeks."

Meiser told Authority members, "We are not out yet," and said he believes the Lincoln case is "on firmer ground" during the second go-around of consideration on the petition.

'Politics Involved'

The Washington attorney said a "fair amount of politics is involved, but we have done everything we can do."

Meiser said the CAB realizes Lincoln is at a stalemate until definite action is taken on the petition. He expressed the belief that this knowledge may persuade CAB to act on the petition soon.

In reference to letters sent to CAB by members of the Nebraska congressional delegation and by Governor Norbert Tiemann, Meiser said, "If they can't do it, nothing can."

Chauncey Barney, attorney for the Lincoln Airport Authority, said he hopes to secure a firm to study the facts of Lincoln air travel to ascertain the percentage of Lincolnites driving to Omaha to board non-stop flights.

Barney and S. S. Colker, an economic consultant from Washington, D.C., suggested several methods of studying Lincoln traffic:

—through information from local travel agencies.

—by asking Lincolnites to inform the authority of any air travel within a month time period.

Telephone Survey

—through a random telephone survey of at least 1500 community residents.

Colker suggested these surveys be supplemented by an in depth study conducted with the cooperation of the Lincoln Chamber of Commerce, government and educational institutions and other common air traffic users.

In other action, the authority agreed to accept a proposed operating agreement with the Air National Guard unit to cover a ten-year period as well as memorandum of understanding with the Guard allowing airport expansion on the 13 acres west of the present airport terminal.

SCHOOL CHILDREN PLANT CENTENNIAL MEMORIAL

Randolph School students look on as Richard Speidell, 10, and Mary Gust, 11, shovel dirt around one of the two trees planted Wednesday as a lasting memorial to Nebraska's Centennial year. Members of the children's council planted the trees provided by the school and PTA. An ulterior motive was filling in part of the school lawn scarred by vandalism. Holding the tree are Shari Scheerger, 10, and Tim Hobbs, 11. (Star Photo.)

Teacher Education Program At Union College Accredited

Union College has been notified that its elementary and secondary education program has been fully accredited by the National Council for Accreditation of Teacher Education.

Full accreditation for the college's teacher education will be dated from Sept. 1, 1963, according to the national council.

This means, a Union official explained, that all elementary and secondary education graduates from the class of 1964 on will be covered by the retroactive action which will give reciprocity in 28 states.

The council's action included granting full accreditation for the program of secondary education for a period of time to coincide with the elementary accreditation already in force and lifting of provisional accreditation to grant full accreditation for the remainder of a ten-year period to the elementary education program at the bachelor's degree level.

Prosperity Hits Transit In City

St. Louis (UPI) — Mass transit in the city suffers when times are good, according to John C. Baine, St. Louis transit executive.

When money become plentiful, people turn to automobiles, "frequently to a second car," with resultant traffic woes, says Baine.

GOP Convention Delegate Opposes Favorite Son Effort

Former State Sen. Lester H. Anderson of Lincoln, a delegate candidate to the Republican National Convention, said Wednesday he opposes the favorite son drive for Sen. Roman L. Hruska, R-Neb.

Anderson said the proposal is not a true favorite son effort since Hruska has said he would release delegates committed to him before the convention next year.

"If Sen. Hruska wants to run as a candidate for President, I will support him," said Anderson, a delegate to the 1952, 1956 and 1960 GOP conventions.

"But Hruska says that when they get to the convention, he will release the delegates committed to him so what have they accomplished? It's a make-believe operation."

Former Gov. Robert B. Crosby of Lincoln, chairman of the Hruska drive, has said the purpose of the favorite son proposal is to preserve unity within the party and retain flexibility at the national convention.

Gov. Norbert T. Tiemann has refused to endorse the proposition. He maintains the state delegation could accomplish the same purpose by electing a strong chairman at the convention.

White House Orders Set Of New China

Washington (AP) — The White House said Wednesday it is ordering a new set of china —enough for 216 place settings. It said present stocks aren't large enough to serve with one pattern the 190 persons normally invited to formal state dinners.

Tiffany & Co. of New York City has been selected to design the china, which will feature state flowers on the dessert plates. The dishes will be manufactured by Castleton China, Inc., also of New York.

The White House Historical Association will pay the cost, which was not disclosed. The association raises money from the sale of books about the White House and through private donations.

The last full service of china was ordered by the White House in 1951. Some service plates were added in 1955.

Rally Fades Early In Stock Market

New York (AP)—One of the most vigorous stock market rallies of the year faded early Wednesday and stocks erased gains and closed with another loss. Trading was heavy.

Gains outnumbered losses by a 9-to-2 ratio when the market was at its most bullish stage. Sharp profit taking canceled this advantage.

By the close, 677 stocks were lower and 597 higher among the 1,493 issues traded on the New York stock exchange. New highs for the year totaled 26 and new lows 85.

The Dow Jones industrial average closed with a loss of 5.72 at 849.57. This put it 93.51 points below its year's high of 943.08 reached Sept. 25.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks fell 1.0 to 307.2 with industrials off 2.7, rails up .5 and utilities off .6 to another new low for the year.

Eleven of the 15 most active stocks fell, three rose and American Telephone was unchanged at 50¼.

Sperry Rand was the most active stock, up ⅜ at 52⅜ on 149,700 shares.

General Instrument fell 5¼, Fairchild Camera 2⅜, Litton Industries 2½, Texas Instruments 2⅝, Polaroid 7, Xerox 6⅛ and Control Data 2¾.

The high-multiple growth stocks were hit hard in the decline.

Chrysler held a gain of ⅜ despite the midnight strike deadline and the closing of many of its plants by preliminary walkouts.

General Motors provided solid leadership with a 2-point gain in early trading but the stock closed with a net rise of only ¼ at 80⅛.

Volume on the big board was 12.66 million shares compared with 10.32 million Monday and was the largest since Aug. 3 when 13.45 million shares changed hands.

Standard & Poor's 500-stock index dropped .34 at 91.14.

The New York Stock Exchange index lost 18 cents at $50.60.

Soybean Futures Prices Advance

Chicago (AP)—Soybeans futures advanced 1½ cents a bushel on the Chicago Board of Trade Wednesday.

The advance of soybeans was influenced by a lower U.S. Department of Agriculture cotton production report during the day.

Wheat and rye futures also closed higher, but corn and oats were mixed. Corn set 4 seasonal lows, while wheat set 1.

When trade closed, wheat was ¼ to ⅝ of a cent a bushel higher, December 1.48⅞-¾; corn was ⅛ lower to ½ higher, December 1.12-12⅛; oats was unchanged to ⅜ higher, December 71¼-¼ cents; rye was ⅜ to ¾ higher, December 1.18; and soybeans were ½ to 1¼ higher, November 2.63⅜-½.

Drug Chief Denies Marijuana Support

Washington (UPI) — Dr. James L. Goddard, chief of the Food and Drug Administration, told congressmen Wednesday he opposes the use of marijuana, but that society should not make criminals out of youths who "experiment" with it.

Instead, Goddard told the House Commerce Committee, the government should concentrate on cutting off the supply of marijuana and other such drugs. He also called on Congress to review penalties for illegal drug possession.

Denying he ever condoned the use of marijuana, Goddard said:

"I did not, and I do not, condone the use of marijuana. I did not, and I do not, advocate the abolition of controls over marijuana. I did not, and I do not, propose legalizing the drug."

Goddard, talking to reporters after a speech at the University of Minnesota Oct. 17, was asked if marijuana was more dangerous than alcohol.

According to a UPI representative, he replied that "whether or not marijuana is more dangerous than alcohol is debatable. I don't happen to think it is."

Daughter's Habits

Next, he was asked whether he would object if his daughter smoked marijuana. The UPI representative understood him to reply, "No, except in the context of the present law," which makes marijuana illegal while alcohol is legal.

Another reporter understood the reply as, "I would (object) in terms of the law today" and "we really don't know what the long-term effects are."

Before the subcommittee Wednesday, Goddard said he considers marijuana a "dangerous" drug. But he said scientists know little about its long-term effects.

Penalties Too Severe

"I wouldn't want my daughter or any other young woman to use marijuana until we know more about it," Goddard said.

He said he questioned "the severity of the penalties attached to possession and I suggest that the Congress might also wish to review the question of the severity of the penalties in the light of enforcement experience.

Students Punished

Bloomington, Ind. (UPI) — Indiana University Dean of Students Robert H. Shaffer said approximately 40 students who were involved in demonstrations against Dow Chemical Co. recruiters would be placed on disciplinary probation immediately.

Thank you, call again!

It's one of those signs you see so many times—you almost forget that it means anything.

But it does. It's what America's business is all about.

Maybe a newspaper ad brought you to the store. Or perhaps a tv commercial persuaded you to whatever product you bought.

But it was you who went there. You paid for the item with your money and you are going to take it into your home.

And if you don't like it, there's no power on earth that can get you to go back to that store or buy that item again.

'Call again' is what puts you in control of the system. It keeps the people who make and the people who sell, very very sensitive to the fact that: "You pays your money and you takes your choice".
